SECRETARY OF WAR GOOD IS DEAD

RAILWAY EXECUTIVES MEET HOOVER TODAY IN FIRST CONFERENCE

Reserve Board Council Is Next on Program in Afternoon.

$125,000,000 BUILDING FUND INCREASE ASKED

Mellon Wants Federal Program Here Raised by $25,000,000.

GOOD'S DEATH DEFERS WEDNESDAY SESSION

Agriculture "Round-Table" Scheduled for Thursday Also Postponed.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover begins today his series of conferences with the Nation's business leaders to devise ways and means of converting the stock market lesson into an orderly and durable prosperity.

In addition to the officials of the American Railway Association whom it had been previously made known he would see, he plans to follow his talk with them with a conference in the afternoon with members of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board.

Coincident with the definite arrangements for the conferences, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced that he planned to submit to Congress a proposal for speeding up the Nation-wide Government building program. The Secretary plans to ask Congress in the first place to increase the total authorization of work outside of Washington by $100,000,000 and the authorization in Washington by $75,000,000. Similarly, he will ask that the annual expenditures for this work outside of Washington be raised from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000 and those in Washington from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

Hour Is in Doubt.

This is in line with Mr. Hoover's idea that construction of Government works should proceed in times when it is most needed to simulate employment. It will boost the total building program from the present plan of $238,000,000 to $432,000,000.

The railway officials are en route to Chicago to attend the annual meeting of their association. They were to meet with the President at 11:30 o'clock at a conference which Secretary Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont and officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce will also attend. The death of Secretary of War Good, however, has left the hour in doubt, although the conference will be held some time during the day.

Those to be present are Richard H. Aishton, president of the association; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania; J. J. Bernet, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio; P. E. Crowley, of the New York Central Lines; Agnew T. Dice, of the Philadelphia & Reading; Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern; L. F. Loree, of the Delaware & Hudson; Jeremiah Milbank, of the Southern; J. J. Pelley, of the New York, New Haven & Hartford; Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago & Northwestern, and railway representative upon the United States Chamber of Commerce, and Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the chamber's board, and William Butterworth, president.

Members of the Federal Reserve Advisory Council, who will meet with Mr. Mellon and the President in the afternoon, are Frank A. Wetmore, of Chicago, president; B. A. McKinney, Dallas, vice president; Arthur M. Heard, of Boston; William C. Potter, of New York; L. L. Rue, of Philadelphia; Harris Creech, of Cleveland; John Poole, of Richmond; J. P. Butler, jr., Atlanta; W. W. Smith, of St. Louis; Theodore Wold, of Minneapolis; P. W. Goebel, Kansas City, and F. L. Lipman, San Francisco.

Bankers Not to Be Asked.

The death of Secretary Good would necessarily disarrange the hours set for the conferences, it was explained, but they will be held today.

The White House made known that it is not contemplated to invite any individual groups of bankers here.

It would not be surprising if an announcement of some conclusion did not come especially from the meeting with the railway executives, if not from the meeting today, at least after they have attended the meeting of the association at Chicago Friday.

Railroad earnings have been higher this year than ever before in the country's history, it is pointed out. Construction and purchase of new equipment has not proceeded at a lively pace, however, and especially is

Eielson Rescue Plane Crashes on Siberia Ice

No Word of Crew's Fate; Dog Team Dispatched From Fur Ship.

Nome, Alaska, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Word of the wrecking of the all-metal cabin plane of the Alaska Airways, Inc., piloted by Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson, on the icebound Siberian coast eight days ago was received here today.

The wrecked plane was sighted approximately 60 miles from the Swenson fur-trading ship Nanuk, whose valuable cargo of furs and passengers Eielson had been flying to rescue. Only meager details of the wrecking of the plane were received here, but it was believed that a dog team driven by natives traveling along the coast brought the news to the ship as the radio operator of the Nanuk reported Olaf Swenson, head of the company, who is aboard the ship, was sending a dog team from the vessel to the scene. No word of the fate

EARTH SHOCKS ROCK CITIES IN NEW ENGLAND

QUAKE IS REPORTED GREATEST IN YEARS

Buildings in Boston Are Shaken but Damage Is Not Great.

LENGTH AND BREADTH OF CAPE COD QUIVER

Buildings in Canada Torn From Foundations by Disturbance.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One hundred and seventy-four years to the day from the date of the worst recorded earthquake in New England, earth tremors lasting more than one hour today rocked the entire section from Long Island Sound on the south to the St. Lawrence River Valley on the north and from the seaboard to as far west as the Hudson River Valley.

Although the material damage was negligible and far less than that of the great quake of November 18, 1755, when panic seized several cities and more than 1,400 chimneys were felled in Boston alone, excitement ran high in many localities as the tremors rattled furnishings and swayed buildings.

Harvard Observatory officials stated that it was "the greatest earthquake in size in many years, very severe for this locality and sufficiently strong to cause cracks in buildings," with the center of the disturbance probably located not far northwest of Cambridge.

Lasted Hour and Ten Minutes.

The first shock was recorded on one of two new seismographs of unusual sensitivity at Harvard Observatory at 3:35 o'clock, and at 4 o'clock this seismograph was taken off and a second seismograph put in place, but not until 4:45 did the tremor end.

The disturbance, in all, continued for one hour and ten minutes, Harvard officials said, but the most severe shock at the outset lasted four minutes.

With Boston and nearby cities and towns in the grip of a strong northeast rainstorm, the earthquake alarmed thousands of people in office buildings, stores, factories and in the various city and State departmental buildings.

Within a few minutes telephone exchanges were flooded with calls and many believed that a disastrous explosion had occurred, in or near Boston.

Officials expressed the belief that the modern construction of steel and brick had prevented the happening of serious damage to the larger buildings in Greater Boston and adjacent places.

30-Story Tower Shaken.

Employes and officials in the 30-story Custom House Tower, which was rocked, stood up and looked at each other and within a few minutes began to smile and compare notes on just what did happen.

Although the quake shook the length and breadth of Cape Cod, many residents knew nothing about it until they heard the news over the radio tonight. Almost everybody felt their homes shaking when the tremor came, but they all passed it off as just another puff from the sea.

The tremor hit Malden just north of Boston so violently that it swayed the six-story Dowling Building in Malden Square and caused many occupants to become dizzy. Melrose, Medford, Everett and other North Side cities also were shaken.

In Plymouth, which was the center of the violent earthquake of 1755, the shock caused the entire town to shake and was reported to be "heavy" in the high hills in the rear of the town. Many residents ran from their homes. Dishes and other crockery fell to the floor and many called the police. From all sections of Northeastern America and into Canada reports were received indicating that it was by far the most severe earthquake in many years.

Newfoundland Also Hit.

Nova Scotia and Newfoundland were also hit by the quake and the seismograph at Dalhousie University was knocked completely off the recording tape by the vibrations. Officials at the station said the quake was unprecedented there and the only reports of real damage came from that locality, where houses were reported knocked off their foundations.

BLOOD POISON PROVES FATAL AFTER BATTLE

Cabinet Member Lives 24 Hours After Doctors Give Up Hope.

WIFE AND TWO SONS ARE PRESENT AT END

President and Mrs. Hoover Go to Hospital and Senate Recesses.

FUNERAL SERVICES WILL BE TOMORROW

East Room of White House to Be Scene; Burial to Take Place in Iowa.

James William Good, Secretary of War, died at 8:37 o'clock last night at Walter Reed Hospital, after fighting valiantly for life for 5½ days against overwhelming odds that came in the wake of an emergency operation for appendicitis.

Blood poisoning finally wore down the last physical fiber of the Cabinet official's resistance almost 24 hours after attending physicians had abandoned hope for his recovery. Unconscious throughout yesterday and at times so weak that signs of life could be detected with the utmost difficulty, Good did not give up the struggle until every ounce of his reserve strength was exhausted.

Just before lapsing into a final coma the 63-year-old War Secretary turned to one of his physicians and said feebly:

"I have never lost a fight in my life and I am not going to lose this one."

Drugs and Oxygen Used.

Ever since Sunday night, when the end appeared inevitable, opiates and oxygen had been administered regularly to ease his pain and reinforce his strength. Attending surgeons were at the bedside all day yesterday expecting death momentarily.

Just before Good breathed for the last time his wife and two sons, James, jr., and Robert Edmund, were admitted into the sickroom, even though the Secretary was unable to recognize them.

President Hoover was among the first to be informed of the passing of his aid and friend, and he and Mrs. Hoover left immediately for the hospital to comfort the widow and her sons. The Chief Executive at once offered the east room of the White House for the funeral services.

The rites will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in the presence of the President, fellow Cabinet officials, and other important dignitaries of the Government. The Senate and the House will have delegations at the rites, and a military guard will honor its dead chief.

Body to Be Taken to Iowa.

Escorted by the same guard, the body will be taken to the Union Station after the services, and will be carried to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where burial will be probably in the family plot Friday. The trip will be in charge of Acting Secretary Hurley of the War Department. Another Cabinet official will make the journey as the representative of the President.

Out of respect for Secretary Good the Senate adjourned its night session shortly after receiving word of his death. Senator Deneen, of Illinois, informed his colleagues of the passing of the War Secretary, and a recess was ordered until today.

Before recessing the legislative body adopted a resolution offered by Senator Deneen expressing its "profound sorrow" over Good's death and providing for the appointment by the

LETTERS THOUGHT BARED

Tales of alleged mental and physical abuses and indignities suffered by Virginia Hurley McPherson at the hands of her husband, Robert A. McPherson, jr., were told to the grand jury yesterday by her father, A. A. Hurley, foreman in a cotton mill at Chester, S. C., and two of her sisters, Beulah and Ernestine.

The Hurleys arrived in Washington Sunday, having been subpenaed by the Department of Justice to testify at the second grand jury investigation now in progress to replace the previous investigation of the mystery of Virginia McPherson's death made by the July grand jury, which indicted McPherson for the murder of his wife, but which was shown later to have acted illegally because one of its members was a Government pensioner and as such not qualified to serve.

Upon reaching the courthouse yesterday morning the Hurleys were taken to a private room by Thomas P. Cullen, special assistant to the Attorney General, who is in charge of the Federal investigation to determine who twisted and knotted the silken cord of her pajama coat about the throat of Virginia McPherson during the night of September 12 where it was found by her husband 36 hours later.

Explaining that he had been advised against talking, Hurley would not discuss the tragedy publicly yesterday. It is believed, however, that he told the grand jury of letters he had received from Virginia in which she told of being beaten and otherwise mistreated by her husband during their eighteen months of wedded life.

Both Beulah and Ernestine Hurley lived with the McPhersons here at

M'DONALD EXPLAINS NAVAL BASE LET-UP

DOMINIONS NOT NOTIFIED

London, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Prime Minister MacDonald told the House of Commons today that the government had ordered slowing down of work on the great Singapore naval base without formally consulting the dominions. He added that the dominions would of course be consulted before any decision was taken affecting the scheme as a whole.

MacDonald explained that the coming five-power naval conference might affect the question of the base, and therefore it had been thought desirable to close down or suspend certain work until the results were known. He referred his questioner, Lieut. Col. Howard Bury, Conservative, to the statement given several days ago by the first lord of the admiralty, A. V. Alexander, who had said the dominions were notified of the decision.

Colonial governments had not been previously informed, the prime minister added.

Lieut. Col. Howard-Bury asked whether Premier MacDonald was aware the Singapore naval base was for the protection of the dominions, and added that as it was their money that was being spent, the dominions should have been consulted before the decision to slow down the work was done.

"I hope Lieut. Col. Howard-Bury will excuse me for not going into details which ought not be gone into at the present time," the prime minister replied, "but he must see that certain agreements that might be possible at the five-power conference might affect the whole original idea of the base."

Lieut. Col. L. C. M. S. Amery, former secretary for the dominions, said the Malay States' contribution to the base was given with the express ob-

'YOUNG GUARD' GETS SERIES OF REBUFFS

Allen Cancels Dinner and Progressives Reject Tariff Compromise.

WATSON REGIME UPHELD

The "Young Guard" Republican regulars in the Senate, who have been trying to make a new deal on the tariff bill which would draw the Republican progressives away from the Democratic-insurgent coalition, received several rebuffs yesterday.

The first setback for this movement came when Senator Allen (Republican), Kansas, called off his dinner conference scheduled for last night, at which the group had intended to map out a plan of action.

Then the progressive group, through its spokesman, Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, rejected the "Young Guards'" proposal for a compromise agreement which would raise rates on farm produce and keep the present rates on industrial products.

The third setback the movement suffered came when Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon made it plain that he will not be a party to any movement aimed at the overthrow of Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, the present majority leader, now recuperating in Florida, or Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, acting majority leader. McNary said he would not consider any proposition relating to his own promotion to the leadership "from any source at present."

Allen, who in common with the other twenty-odd members of the new group disclaims being its leader, started the day by breakfasting at the White House. His own account of the visit was that he told the President it had been a very enjoyable breakfast. From other sources, however, it was learned that Allen assured the President that the Junior League had cooked up a plan whereby the Republicans could snatch such credit as may result by enactment of the tariff bill from the Democratic-insurgent coalition.

Moreover, it was reported, Allen assured the President that there are ample votes in the Senate to write in the Fordney-McCumber tariff rates in the remaining schedules with the exception of the sugar rates, a suggestion rendered rather doubtful by the statements issued later in the day by Senators Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, and Borah (Republican), Idaho, the coalition leaders. Both Simmons and Borah declared emphatically that they do not favor the Fordney-McCumber rates en bloc and that the

Hurley's Name Is Heard As Successor to Good

(Associated Press.)

The heavy burdens of the War Department were transferred by the death of Secretary Good to Patrick Hurley, of Tulsa, Okla., who as a major and lieutenant colonel participated in three big offensives of the World War and now wears the Distinguished Service Medal.

Hurley, 46 years old at the time he took office as Assistant Secretary, is high in the list of those about whom speculation ranged last night over a successor to Mr. Good. Those who believe he will receive serious consideration for the post of Secretary point to the fact that such a selection would give the South a place in the Cabinet which it failed to obtain when President Hoover was determining his ten departmental advisers.

New York, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The penalty of fame was once more brought home today to one Charles Augustus Lindbergh, known hereabouts and thereabouts as a young man who flies about in airplanes, when treatment by a physician for the recurrence of an old shoulder injury, received last February in Mexico City when his plane ground-looped, started rumors buzzing all over the city, and by cable, radio and telegraph all over the civilized world that the "flying colonel" had figured in a serious airplane crash.

Vice President of a committee of seven to join a similar group from the House to attend the funeral.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, who with Lieut. Comdr. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to the President, and Col. William I. Keller, noted Army surgeon, who performed the operation, was at the bedside when the end came, last night issued a statement reviewing the history of Good's illness.

Recalling that Secretary Good's sickness began last Tuesday afternoon with severe abdominal pains, which caused him to leave his office early, Dr. Wilbur said that the diagnosis at the hospital revealed "fever and marked leucocytosis, but the usual local evidences of appendicitis was lacking." These shortly developed, he added, "and in the operation which followed promptly the obscure symptoms were found to be due to long adherent appendix lying deep in the left side of the pelvis instead of the right side of the abdomen as is usual.

The excision was most difficult, Secretary Wilbur stated, and "there was marked relief following the operation. But it was evident that an infection was involved, and since that time there has been a steady struggle against the spread of the poison, which has been constantly present."

Patient's Attitude Chief Hope.

Attending physicians put their chief hope, he said, in Good's attitude, "which stimulated every one of them to do everything possible for his recovery so long as there was even the faintest hope."

The Secretary's illness was a series of ups and downs following the operation. Last Friday night Good took such a turn for the worse that President Hoover called on him to pay what he considered his last respects. As it happened it was the last time the Chief Executive saw him alive, as further visits were held inadvisable in view of the delicate condition of the sick man.

Dr. John M. Finney, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, was consulted Friday night, but he declared that everything that medical science could afford had been given Good. From that time on there was, with the exception of a slight improvement Saturday, a steady decline. Several times yesterday physicians thought that death had arrived, but with close examination they were able to discern the faintest signs of life.

Secretary Good's death was the first of a member of the cabinet while in office since that in 1924 of Henry G. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, in the Harding and Coolidge administrations.

Popularity Established.

Although Secretary Good had served in the Cabinet hardly nine months, his work in the War Department had begun to show itself and his popularity among the higher ranking Army officers was established.

Just before he became sick he wrote a magazine article, which has not been published, telling of the wonderful work that is being done at Walter Reed. In this he described Col. Keller and lauded him for his skill as a surgeon.

As evidence of his keen interest in his post, Secretary Good Thursday issued orders, despite his extremely weakened condition, through his wife to his secretary, John Martyn, regarding matters he had been compelled to leave unfinished when he took suddenly ill.

"Neither Rash Nor Dilatory."

Some months after his appointment an Army officer of high rank, upon being asked how Good was making out, replied: "Secretary Good has shown enough in the few months he has been in office to make us Army men feel happy. He has the faculty of grasping a problem in its essentials; of making a decision and then going ahead. He is neither rash nor dilatory and we have not had, in my recollection, a man at the head of the War Department who has a more thorough understanding of how to get things done in Washington."

Because of his long legislative experience Good had the advantage of understanding the workings of Congress and being able to get what he wanted out of the body. In addition, he had a splendid background in his familiarity with the needs of the Army through his long term as a representative.

For twelve years, from 1909 to 1921, he was a member of the House of Representatives from the Fifth District of Iowa. In this capacity he mounted to the important position of chairman of the committee on appropriations and a member of the budget committee in the Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh Congresses.

Much of this committee work had to do with appropriations for the War Department. Mr. Good specialized in the allotment of funds for military defense while in the House, thus making him of invaluable aid to the President later as a counselor on financial affairs dealing with the Army.

The appointment of Good to the Cabinet was in recognition of both his preconvention and his campaign Western managership on behalf of Mr. Hoover. He was one of the President's strongest advocates from the West before the nomination at Kansas City, and during the campaign he was in charge of the Western Republican headquarters and was largely responsible for winning the Middle West farmers to the party standard.

Like the President, Good was a native of Iowa, being born in Cedar Rapids on September 24, 1866. He was graduated from Coe College in 1892 with the degree of bachelor of science and from the University of Michigan the next year with an LL. B. degree. For the next few years he practiced law and in 1906 was elected to his first public office, that of city attorney in Cedar Rapids.

Married in 1894.

Good was married to Miss Lucy Deacon, of Cedar Rapids, on October 4, 1894. He was a Presbyterian and a thirty-second degree Mason.

At the outbreak of the World War, the then representative led the fight in the House to put over the national defense act. He was responsible for two of its amendments that "put teeth in it." One of these provided for the Government's use of private facilities for the manufacture of munitions and armaments, while the other went even further and gave the Government authority to take over a plant unless the owner gave it preference on orders during the war. The latter was regarded as the first move toward the conscription of industry.

The Iowan also sponsored the move to increase the pay of private soldiers and sailors on overseas duty from $15.50 to $30 a month. When opponents in the House tried to reduce the figure, he declared:

"Let us not make this a rich man's war and a poor man's fight. There has been no 'give and take,' it has all been 'take'—take from the pay of common soldiers of the United States."

Good was the author of a measure which placed the railroads under control of President Wilson during the war and he was one of the first to propose their return to private ownership after the armistice.

While joining other Republican members in opposing America's entry into the League of Nations, declaring it would make the United States a partner of bankrupts, he favored the cancellation of the $11,000,000,000 war debt in the belief that such action would serve to rehabilitate international exchange.

Good claimed that golf was his only sport, but he seldom indulged in the game. His chief delight was playing with his two sons. The story is told that when he was named Secretary of War one of his boys, who had set up a boxing ring in the cellar of their home, said to him:

"You have been holding out on me. You're going to be Secretary of War. Put on your gloves and let's see how you can fight."

Vice President Curtis said:

"In Mr. Good's death the Nation has lost one of its ablest Cabinet officers, a man who stood high in his profession and popular with all who knew him. His loss will be mourned by the entire country."

Stimson Is Grieved.

Secretary Stimson said:

"It is with the deepest sorrow that I have learned of the death of my colleague, Mr. Good, the Secretary of War. His long years of public service and leadership in Congress and the vigor and sound sense which he has shown in the new office as Secretary of War, to which the President called him, made him one of the outstanding citizens of our country. The whole country joins with his family and colleagues in mourning his death."

Postmaster General Brown, who was a personal friend of the late War Secretary as well as a Cabinet associate, said:

"I am grieved beyond expression by the passing of Jim Good. His practical devotion to the public service was an inspiration to his associates.

"He was a brave, gentle and loyal comrade."

British Charge Sympathizes.

The sorrow of the British Embassy was expressed by Ronald Ian Campbell, charge d'affaires in the absence of Sir Esme Howard, the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, who said:

"The British Embassy learns with extreme regret and sorrow of the death of the Secretary of War, a truly distinguished American. I am sure that my nation will join with the American people in reverence to him."

Hyde Voices Distress.

Secretary Hyde said: "Secretary Good was a patriotic and alert citizen, a loyal, capable and untiring official, a firm and able executive. The Nation has lost a faithful and far-visioned statesman. My sympathies go out to his stricken family. I am deeply distressed by his sudden and untimely death."

Speaker Longworth said: "Secretary Good and I came into Congress about the same time, and we became great friends. As chairman of the House appropriations committee, I believe he was one of the best chairmen this important committee in Congress has had.

"When I accompanied him with President Hoover down the Ohio River only recently I came to regard him as one of the strongest men in the President's Cabinet."

Representative Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican floor leader, said: "Secretary Good's death is a distinct loss to the country, because of his knowledge of political and legislative matters and his ability."

Aids Mourn Chief's Death.

Acting Secretary Hurley, of the War Department said: "For myself, the War Department, and the Army, I express our deep sorrow at his passing."

Assistant Secretary Davison of the department said: "To the tributes to which a grief-stricken Nation will give voice, I would like to add an expression of appreciation on behalf of our Army flyers, who regarded him as a firm friend and staunch advocate of aviation."

Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, said: "The Army has lost a fearless and wise leader, a counsellor and friend who roused our love and loyalty. My personal loss is inestimable."

Chairman Wood, of the House appropriations committee, said: "It is a shock to me to lose such a close personal friend, with whom I served so many years in Congress. He was the best man I ever knew."

Secretary Lamont of the Commerce Department said:

"In the death of Secretary Good this country has lost a devoted and distinguished public servant and a citizen who lived up to his high ideals. His associates have lost a kindly, affable, lovable friend."

Little Frederic Allison Henney, jr., son of Lieut. and Mrs. Henney and grandson of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Amos A. Fries, who was christened yesterday at Washington Cathedral with Mrs. Herbert Hoover as godmother. Owing to the condition of Secretary of War Good at that time, Mrs. Hoover was unable to attend, and sent her secretary, Miss Mildred Hall. Mrs. Tenney, shown with her child, is known as "the poster girl of Pierce Mill," her portrait five years ago having been hung outside the mill in Rock Creek Park during wild flower week. Mrs. Hoover later presented the picture to her.

LONE JUROR PICKED IN ROTHSTEIN CASE

NEW WITNESS IS NAMED

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Two were chosen, but only one juror remained when the first day of the trial of George A. McManus, accused of the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler and racketeer, was adjourned today.

Mark H. Simmons, a stock broker, and the sixteenth talesman called for examination, was selected as the first juror at the meeting of the afternoon session, but two hours later he was excused when a doctor's certificate was presented saying that he was suffering from stomach ulcers.

Eugene A. Riker, a young traveling salesman, who had been out of the city a great deal during the last year, in which the Rothstein case has been front-page news much of the time, thus remained the sole juror in the jury box at the end of the day.

Sole Juror Goes Home.

Judge Charles G. Nott, jr., of general sessions, presiding, allowed Riker to go to his home for the night after first exacting from him a promise not to discuss the case with any one.

Defense and State in their questioning of talesmen indicated today what they consider to be the qualifications for a juror in the case.

James D. C. Murray, defense counsel, challenged all the talesmen who had seen previous jury duty in a murder trial, especially in which the evidence was circumstantial. Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers dwelt especially on any prejudice that might have been engendered in the prospective jurors' minds by criticism of the police and the district attorney, voiced by administration opponents in the recent city elections.

Many Challenges Used.

Murray exhausted 13 of the 30 peremptory challenges allowed him by law today while Brothers used 9. Three of the 30 talesmen examined were challenged for cause or excused on account of business, while 4, including Simmons, were excused because of ill health. One, Riker, was accepted.

The lone spectator at today's session, from which the general public was barred because most of the available seats were taken by talesmen and newspapermen, was Edgar Wallace, London author of crime thrillers. He listened for more than an hour to the questioning of talesmen, conferred for a few moments with Judge Nott and then left the courtroom.

McManus, the defendant, a large, black-haired, ruddy-faced man, sat almost immobile during most of the day, staring fixedly at the talesmen being examined. Behind the witness box was a large painting of three women, entitled "The Fates," in line with his eyes whenever he raised them from the talesman's face.

Large Crowd on Hand.

There was considerably more than the usual number of curious in the corridors of the old brick Criminal Courts building adjoining Tombs Prison but ranks of blue-coated patrolmen barred from the immediate vicinity of the courtroom all except those who had gilt-edged credentials—that is, a reporter's pass or a jury summons, or a court attendant's uniform.

In contrast to the large way in which Rothstein, McManus and their gambling associates lived, was the scene in the court today.

Many of the talesmen drowsed in the heavy, damp air which came in through the half-opened windows, rousing themselves only when some stirring word like "the Park Central Hotel" or "Arnold Rothstein" was spoken by attorney or talesman.

Rothstein Killed Year Ago.

It was just a year and 14 days ago tonight that Rothstein staggered from the Park Central, a bullet wound in his abdomen. He died two nights later, election night, without, so far as known, having named his assailant.

McManus, whom the State hopes to place in room 349 that night, demanding from Rothstein a gambling debt of legendary proportions, surrendered three weeks later, and a week after that was indicted with Hyman (Gilly) Biller, John Doe and Richard Doe.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton, however, has said McManus was the one that fired the fatal shot.

Surprise Witness Named.

The name of Mrs. Marian Putnam, of Asheville, N. C., a "surprise" witness of the State, was mentioned for the first time officially today when Brothers read her name as one of those not appearing before the grand jury which indicted McManus, but who would be called as a witness at the trial.

Mrs. Putnam, a guest at the Park Central the night Rothstein was shot, is whispered to have seen Rothstein staggering from a room in which another man stood in the doorway.

The trial will be resumed tomorrow morning at 10:30, with the first juror chosen taking Simmons' place as foreman.

CHINESE REPULSED BY SOVIET TROOPS

HUGE LOAN IS PLANNED

Shanghai, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A dispatch from Harbin, Manchuria, tonight, to the Kuomin News Agency of the Nationalist government, stated:

"The Soviet forces yesterday severely attacked the western Manchurian frontier, 5,000 infantry crossing the border and artillery shelling Chalanor. Airplane bombers also were active.

"The Chalanor railway station was destroyed. Chinese forces, it is believed, suffered sharp loss of life. The Chinese Eastern Railway was cut, while Manchuli telegraphic communication was interrupted. On the eastern front 40,000 Soviet troops concentrated near Pogranichnaya, on the border of Siberia and Manchuria."

Another dispatch to the Kuomin agency, but from Mukden, stated that the Fengtien provincial government of Manchuria, December 1, would float an $80,000,000 gold loan to finance the defense forces, the loan to be secured by provincial wine and tobacco taxation. Along the Sungari and Amur Rivers, said the Kuomin dispatch, a loss of $1,000,000 gold had ben caused to Chinese shipping.

It was reported that Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, has ordered 10,000 fur-lined uniforms for the use of his defense troops on the western front as a result of intense cold in that area.

These dispatches to the Nationalist government news agency apparently confirmed messages to Reuter's Agency from Harbin earlier today that fighting had taken place between Chinese and Russian troops yesterday at Manchuli and Chalanor and the cutting of the Chinese Eastern Railway east of Manchuli.

Russia and China have been engaged for months in a controversy over the possession and operation of the Chinese Eastern Railway, which crosses Manchuria from Siberia.

COLLEGIAN ADMITS GUILT IN RUM CASE

UNIVERSITY WILL ACT

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—William Sherman, of Crown Point, Ind., one of the three University of Illinois students arrested on charges of illegally possessing liquor during a raid on the Gamma Eta Gamma Fraternity House Sunday, pleaded guilty to the charge today and was fined $500 and costs. Charges against the other two students were dismissed.

Sherman's fine and costs, the latter amounting to $21.40, were paid immediately by his father, George V. Sherman, Crown Point, real estate operator. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sherman accompanied their son to court.

Those freed of the charges were Alfred J. Withers, of Hibbing, Minn., and Ernest Longbons, of Marion, Ill.

Will Drop Padlocking.

State's Attorney Roy Cline stated that he was satisfied with Sherman's plea of guilty and would not start padlock proceedings against the fraternity house, as he had threatened to do. Sherman, however, still must face university authorities.

The school disciplinary committee met this afternoon and questioned J. B. Lewis, of Marshall, Ill., president of the fraternity, and B. W. Hoare, engineering student, whose arrest Saturday night led to the raid. Details of the meeting were not revealed. The council of administration, to which the disciplinary committee makes its recommendations, is to meet tomorrow and is expected to take cognizance of the case.

Lewis said expulsion proceedings against Sherman had already been started by the fraternity.

12 Gallons Found.

Nearly 12 gallons of liquor were found in the fraternity house when Champaign County authorities raided it on a search warrant at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and arrested the three young men. The Gamma Eta Gamma Fraternity is a law school organization and is situated half a block from the univerity campus. Ten gallons of liquor were found in a trunk to which Sherman admitted ownership, officials said.

Sherman, his friends said, formerly attended the University of Indiana and had been admitted to the Indiana bar. He is a senior in the University of Illinois Law School.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Flying Cadets Justin E. Russell, 27, and George S. Coffey, 23, members of the observation section, Kelly Field, were killed almost instantly today when the plane in which they were flying crashed near the edge of a field 11 miles north of Boerne, near here.

Cadet Russell was dead when nearby farmers reached the demolished plane. aCdet Coffey, polit, died ten minutes later.

Witnesses said the plane evidently was descending for a landing and was within 50 feet of the ground when the nose of the ship suddenly lowered and crashed.

Both men were graduates of the primary flying school at Marc... Field, Calif., and entered the advanced flying school here in October. Cadet Russell had given his home address as 6115 Drexel avenue, Chicago. Cadet Coffey had given his address as Atchison, Kans.

Treasury Charts Income Tax Cuts

First Table Issued Is Said to Contain Number of Inaccuracies.

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury yesterday issued a revised statement showing how the proposed 1 per cent cut in income taxes, to be recommended to Congress by Secretary Mellon, would affect the income of a married man with no dependents.

The first table issued last Thursday, the Treasury said, was inaccurate in some respects. The present table shows the income up to and including $10,000 and the amount above that figure at normal and surtax. The table follows:

Net income.	Present rate.	Proposed rate.	Reduction.
$4,000	$5.63	$1.88	$3.75
5,000	16.88	5.63	11.25
6,000	30.00	10.00	20.00
7,000	43.13	14.38	28.75
8,000	63.75	26.25	37.50
9,000	91.88	45.63	46.25

Heflin Declares Duce "Most Dangerous Man"

(Associated Press.)

Premier Mussolini, of Italy, was described in the Senate yesterday by Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, as the "most dangerous man in the world." This characterization was made in an appeal for action on his resolution to ask the State Department to transmit to the Senate any information it has concerning alleged impressment of American citizens of Italian origin into the Italian army.

"My resolution is lying away with the foreign relations committee," Heflin shouted, "while Mussolini is occupying the front pages of our newspapers."

"Strange as it seems," every unusual statement made by Hix with his accompanying cartoons in The Washington Post, is a proven fact. You will notice many things that seem unbelievable in this daily feature but the author will support everything with definite proof.

Commissioners Receive Allen's Formal Appeal

Formal appeal of Private Robert J. Allen from the Police Trial Board sentence of dismissal from the police force was received by the District Commissioners yesterday without comment.

Decision of the Commissioners is not expected for several days inasmuch as it was stated that the appeal will be considered in the same manner as are other appeals from Trial Board sentences. This means that each Commissioner in turn will take the papers in the case, including the stenographic report of Allen's trial, and study them in turn.

"Sausage and Cakes"

The favorite cold-weather breakfast in thousands of American homes. Daintily packed farm sausage—the kind that makes buckwheat cakes worth while—is now arriving "fresh daily." This is the caution on one of the best brands: "Take the sausage out of the box and put on plate loosely, direct on ice, if not used immediately."

Of course, this means that American Ice is the ice to use because its purity matches the purity of the food it protects. Made from scientifically purified and filtered drinking water—frozen in sanitary containers.

Girl Crippled and Mute, Slain by Banker Father

Parent Then Ends His Own Life Near Two Harbors, Minn.; Worry Over Her Condition Believed Motive of Sabbath Tragedy.

Two Harbors, Minn., Nov. 18 (A.P.). Belief that worry over the condition of his crippled and mute daughter Beatrice prompted John A. Barton, 54, president of the First National Bank, to kill the girl and then himself, was expressed today by county authorities. Their bodies were found early today in an automobile which had been driven into a side road near here. A revolver was found in the car.

Barton left home Sunday morning with three of his daughters, Beatrice, Audrey and Isabelle. The latter two were left at a church and Barton and Beatrice went for a drive. When they did not return home a search was started.

Barton, who came here in 1902 from Ely, Minn., had been president of the First National Bank here for many years. Officers of the bank said today the institution was in excellent condition.

Thomas J. Brown, county coroner, said no inquest would be held.

JOHN CORT IS DEAD; NOTED THEATER MAN

Gained Fame 40 Years Ago by Installing Edison Lights in His House.

POWER IN NORTHWEST

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—John Cort, who first gained fame as a theater manager more than 40 years ago by his enterprise in installing in his Seattle theater "the new Edison incandescent lights," died today.

From the late 80s, when his letterheads attracted the attention of other managers all over the country by their announcement that his theater out in Seattle was heated by steam and lighted by those new-fangled Edison lights, to the time a year ago when he produced his last play on Broadway, John Cort occupied a place of prominence among American theatrical men.

And for many of those years, the scene around John Cort was filled with activity, some strife and always novelty.

Lost Exclusive Control.

In 1899, a little more than ten years after he had tried out Edison lights and steam heat in his theater, he came to New York, walked into the offices of Klaw & Erlanger, then in the height of their power in the theater business, and walked out with long-term contracts whereby Klaw & Erlanger productions traveling to the Pacific Northwest were to appear only in theaters in Seattle, Portland and Tacoma under the control of Cort or his associates.

Eleven years later, he engaged in a bitter controversy with Klaw & Erlanger, outflanked them by joining the Shuberts and combining vaudeville circuits with so-called "legitimate productions," and eventually agreed to grant time to them in his Western theaters on his own terms.

Produced on Broadway.

He came to New York and started producing plays on Broadway twenty years ago. At that time, one of his associates said today, he owned 117 theaters in the Northwest—"Everything west of St. Paul."

Among his other activities before he came to New York, he was said to have organized in 1888 the first vaudeville circuit ever formed in this country and to have built the Grand Opera House in Seattle four months after procuring the site.

Inquest Set in Death Of Sailor Killed by Auto

An inquest into the death of Joseph McCarthy, a seaman on the steamship I. C. White, docked at the American Oil Co. pier in Curtis Bay, will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Central Police Station at Baltimore. Justice of the Peace Germanus France will conduct the inquest.

White died early yesterday at St. Agnes' Hospital, Baltimore, where he was taken after being struck by an automobile on the Baltimore Boulevard near Waterloo, Saturday. The seaman is said to have been refused a lift to Baltimore by a motorist and then to have stepped directly into the path of a machine operated by Charles S. Morton, Jessups, Md. Morton's machine was then struck by a car operated by H. B. Thompson, of Baltimore.

DEPUTY TRIALS GO TO YANCEY COUNTY

Marion Judge to Ask Governor to Set Date of Term for December 9.

TIME IS CONTESTED

Marion, N. C., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Selection of Yancey County, in which to try eight sheriff's deputies on murder charges overshadowed the trial of five men on insurrection and rebellion charges in McDowell Superior Court here today.

Judge G. V. Cowper, presiding, said he would recommend to Gov. O. Max Gardner that a special term of court be called the week of December 9 to try the cases.

Frank Watson, member of defense counsel, offered numerous objections to the date, saying it would be "suicidal" to hold court there with so many witnesses and others present before May or June, because of lack of heating facilities and the intense cold.

The temperature some times drops to 16 degrees below zero, the attorney argued, and with only two stoves in the courtroom, it would be "unbearable," he told the court. Watson indicated he would ask the governor to change the date.

Arrest of the deputies, B. L. Robbins, W. A. Fender, Dave Jarrett, Jim Owens, Charles L. Tate, Taylor Greene, William T. Wiggs and Robert Ward, resulted from the fatal wounding of six strikers in labor disturbances in Marion last month. George Jonas, Luther Bryson, Randolph Hall, Samuel T. Vickers, James Roberts and Tilden Carver dying from wounds received when Sheriff's officers clashed with the strikers.

Ben Hendley, deputy sheriff, returned to the witness stand this morning to testify at the trial of Alfred Hoffman, Southern organizer of the United Textile Workers of America, and four others charged with insurrection and rebellion.

various times, and are believed to have given the grand jury details of the circumstances which led Virginia and her husband to separate a short time before her death.

Beulah Hurley, 19-year-old nurse, who lived at the McPherson home while in training at Children's Hospital here during part of 1928 and 1929, has related instances of cruelty to his wife by McPherson, and is believed to have repeated these stories yesterday to the grand jury.

The story told by Ernestine Hurley, Virginia's 15-year-old sister, who was a visitor at the McPherson apartment for an extended period last June, is believed to have centered around an occasion when she charges McPherson beat his wife.

Hurley's two daughters left the courthouse immediately after completion of their testimony, shortly after noon, but their father returned to the jury room and remained there in conference with Cullen and with Special Prosecutor John E. Laskey, who is directing the presentation of witnesses to the grand jury, for considerable time after the inquisitorial body had adjourned for the day and its members departed.

Also closeted with Cullen and Laskey until late yesterday afternoon were Dr. James I. Bulitt, professor of pathology at the University of North Carolina, who performed the second autopsy on the body of Virginia McPherson at Kannapolis, N. C., after her body had been exhumed at the request of Laskey. Dr. Frank Marshall, of Salisbury, N. C., health officer of Rowan County, who assisted at the second autopsy, also was present here yesterday.

Strangling Held Death Cause.

These surgeons were the only two to be heard by the grand jury of the six who participated in the autopsy. Their official report, it was announced several weeks ago by the Department of Justice, indicated that no skull fracture, illegal operation, or other possible causes of death except strangulation, were found on the girl's body, and it is believed that they repeated the substance of their report at the secret hearing yesterday.

While the grand jury still has not heard Joseph H. Lewark, Georgia avenue street car conductor and one of the star witnesses for the prosecution, a group of members of McPherson's athletic club and their girl friends were interrogated yesterday with regard to the young husband's alibi.

Their testimony was extremely brief, none of them being before the jurors for more than a few minutes while they told of taking McPherson with them on an automobile trip to Mount Rainier, Md., on the night of September 12, and bringing him back to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Donald McPherson, in Petworth, at 20 minutes past midnight. Substantiating this alibi yesterday was a new witness, Miss Mary Louise Phipps, who says she was visiting McPherson's aunt that evening and that she spoke to him in the hall when he entered at 12:20. Mrs. Donald A. McPherson also was quizzed by the grand jury yesterday.

Conductor to Be Heard.

When the grand jury gets around to Lewark, probably today, it will be told that McPherson was a passenger on Lewark's car which reached New York avenue and Ninth street, where McPherson alighted, at 12:23 o'clock on the morning of September 13, or exactly three minutes after, according to his alibi, he was at the home of his aunt five miles away.

Present indications are that this second grand jury investigation may reach its conclusion tomorrow or Thursday. Witnesses are being rushed through with extreme speed apd at the end of the fifth day of the inquiry yesterday there were but 38 witnesses known to be still unheard, which would be the quota for two days at the present rate.

Veterans Bureau Aids In Drafting New Bills

Experience of the United States Veterans Bureau was called on by the District Commissioners to aid in drafting legislation providing for minor and incompetent beneficiaries of the bureau in the District.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, recommended legislation. For commitment of insane veterans to hspoitals and appointment and service of guardians. Legislation providing for some of these matters already has been enacted for the District, but, the Commissioners said, they are willing to sponsor additional legislation which may be needed to clear disputed points.

An excited resident of the building telephoned police that several persons were killed. The Fire Rescue Squad and a detail of Second Precinct police hurried to the scene to find Flynn uninjured.

R. Ernest Smith, county treasurer, announced yesterday that he has returned all motor vehicle registration cards to the commissioner of motor vehicles in Baltimore, although there is a large number of county residents who have failed to pay their personal tax on automobiles. Those who paid in time have had their registration cards perforated for next year's tags and will only have to return the card with the required amount of license fee to the commissioner of motor vehicles. Those who failed to pay will have to make a trip to Upper Marlboro to pay their taxes and have their card perforated.

Treasurer Smith said there are approximately 12,538 automobiles in the county and that 5,289 have paid their taxes and had their cards perforated. A total of 4,626 cards were returned to Baltimore without perforation and the commissioner's office failed to send application blanks for 2,623 cars.

Application cards will be mailed November 29 to automobile owners by the motor vehicle commissioner and tags will be issued beginning December 2. Tags may be placed on the cars after December 15. These cards must bear the perforation of the county treasurer that the personal taxes have been paid before the motor vehicle commissioner can issue license tags.

County Superintendent of Schools Nicholas Orem will appear before the county commissioners at their meeting in Upper Marlboro today to discuss the problem of bus transportation for high school students. The county board of education has prepared a fixed policy for transportation and the superintendent will lay the board's plans before the county commissioners.

T. Howard Duckett, vice president of the Prince Georges Bank, who also is chairman of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, yesterday issued a statement revealing the position of the Prince Georges Bank and the First National Bank of Mount Rainier, which have been merged as the result of alleged defalcations by the vice president and cashier of the Mount Rainier bank, Clarence F. Schatz.

It was revealed also yesterday that Schatz is alleged to have been juggling accounts since last December. Presentation of a $2,000 check against an account not shown on the bookkeeper's ledger while a bank examiner was making an inspection of the bank's records is said to have been the first step toward the discovery of a shortage of approximately $20,000.

Duckett's statement follows:

"The Prince Georges Bank by agreement with the board of directors of the First National Bank of Mount Rainier, took over the assets and assumed the liabilities of the First National Bank as of Saturday morning, November 16.

"An examination of the First National Bank of Mount Rainier, made recently, disclosed the fact that there was a shortage in the cashier's accounts of approximately $20,000, a large part of which, however, was covered by the cashier's bond. The board of directors in a thorough canvass of the situation Friday night concluded that in order to completely protect its depositors, it was advisable to make some arrangement with the Prince Georges Bank to pay the depositors and take over the assets of the First National Bank. At a joint meeting Friday night of the board of directors of the First National and a committee representing the Prince Georges Bank, an arrangement was worked out whereby the Prince Georges Bank guaranteed the payment to depositors in full, on demand, as well as the other liabilities of the First National Bank, consisting mostly of outstanding cashier's checks and Christmas savings accounts, the Prince Georges Bank taking over all the assets of the First National Bank.

"Until such time as the Mount Rainier branch of the Prince Georges Bank can rearrange its facilities for handling the enlarged clientele, the affairs of the First National Bank will continue to be operated from its present bank building on Rhode Island avenue, but it is thought that within a week or ten days the consolidation will be completed and the transaction of business of both institutions will be conducted at the Mount Rainier branch of the Prince Georges Bank."

SESSION OF SENATE MAY END SATURDAY

Action on Sugar Tariff Again Postponed; Fix Rates of Thread.

RECESS FOR GOOD DEATH

(Associated Press.)

Rumors of another attempt to adjourn the special session next Saturday arose as the Senate plugged along at day and night sessions with the tobacco and cotton textile schedules in the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

The controversial sugar duties were to have been considered yesterday, but at the suggestion of Senator Borah, who said his group was not prepared to proceed with sugar, they were postponed indefinitely.

By a vote of 49 to 26, the Senate restored exitsing duties on wrapper tobacco which the House had raised 40 cents a pound.

A committee proposal to raise rates on tobacco coming in from Cuba in mixed bales was defeated.

Before entering its third night tariff session, the Senate turned down two committee amendments to the cotton schedule to increase present rates on cotton sewing thread and crochet, embroidery, darning and knitting cottons not over 840 yards in length.

The committee proposed a duty of 30 per cent ad valorem on sewing thread and 35 per cent on the crochet and other cottons as compared with present rates of one-half a cent per hundred yards, but approval was given the duty of 25 per cent on both as proposed by the House.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, said it would be "scandalous" for the Senate to increase duties on cotton textiles when under existing rates wages in textile mills have decreased and hours of labor increased.

Senator George agreed that wages were not sufficient both in Northern and Southern mills, but contended the industry was depressed and came within the President's tariff recommendations.

Opposing the increase on cotton thread, Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, said that while the industry was passing through a "critical stage," there was no necessity for general raises in cotton manufactured rates.

Proceeding with the cotton schedule at its night session, the Senate heard arguments for and against higher duties on cotton goods, but approved no additional rate changes before recessing at 8:55 p. m., out of respect for the death of Secretary Good.

Lad, 10, Struck by Auto.

Ten-year-old Kenneth West, of 408 G street northwest, suffered lacerations and bruises about the face and body yesterday when struck and knocked down at Fourth and G streets northwest by a taxicab driven by James Carter, of 467 I street northwest. The boy was taken to Casualty Hospital in the cab and treated by Dr. Louis Jimal. His condition was reported not serious.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 10 and recessed at 8:57 p. m. last night to 10 this morning.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, served notice that he would reintroduce his resolution for a general investigation of the textile industry.

Lobby investigating committee summoned Fred I. Kent, of the Bankers Trust Co., to appear before it Wednesday.

Senator Heflin (Democrat), Alabama, described Premier Mussolini, of Italy, as "the most dangerous man in the world."

Received from the President the nomination of Arthur H. Geissler, of Oklahoma, to be Minister to Siam.

coalition purposes to make extensive revisions in the remaining schedules.

Borah's statement was issued following a conference of the progressive group to consider a proposal from the new rebel group looking toward a general agreement on existing rates. Interpreting this as an invitation for the insurgents to join forces with the Junior League, presumably to the exclusion of the Democrats, Borah came back with an invitation to the new group to join with the insurgents on the latter's terms.

"We heartily welcome all who want to restore agriculture to its place of equality under the economic system," Borah said. "That being our primary purpose, we will not compromise nor will we embarrass ourselves in advance."

The new freshman bloc was scored by Senator Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, in a speech in the Senate, referring to "various new senators vying with each other in getting their names and pictures in the paper." Harrison exhibited a picture of Allen printed in a Philadelphia paper in which only the middle part of Allen's face was shown. Harrison suggested that probably this was because "they couldn't get the senator's head in one column," after the latter had heard himself referred to as the leader of the new group.

It was learned that Senator Hastings (Democrat), Delaware, sent a telegram yesterday to Senator Watson saying that there never had been any thought on the part of the new group of undermining Senator Watson's leadership.

The squabble over the chairmanship of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, brought on by Chairman Moses' (Republican), New Hampshire, reference to insurgent senators as "sons of the wild jackass," entered a new phase yesterday. Moses replied to a letter written to him by Senator Metcalf (Republican), Rhode Island, former chairman of the committee and now one of the Young Guard, demanding that the committee undertake no activities in Rhode Island without the consent of the Republican senatorial candidate, I. E. Metcalf. Moses refused to make his letter public, declaring:

"Senator Metcalf saw fit to publish his letter to me in his home newspaper organ before I had received it. I don't conduct my correspondence with senators through the newspapers."

SCRIVENER INQUIRY IS BEGUN BY ROVER

Maragan, Friend of Slain Man and Wife, Erstwhile Fiancee, Quizzed.

QUESTIONING IS SECRET

With the questioning yesterday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Maragon, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover began inquiry into the death three years ago of Detective Sergt. Arthur Scrivener, who was found dead from gunshot wounds in a Georgetown alley.

The Maragons arrived in Washington yesterday morning from Chicago in response to a subpena from Rover, and immediately communicated with him. Rover, in accordance with a previous announcement that he did not want witnesses in the Scrivener case questioned by newspapermen advised them to report to his office at 2 o'clock instead of 3 o'clock as previously directed, and in addition conferred with them in the office of Assistant United States Attorney John W. Pihelly for a time.

Jury to Get Case.

Rover's idea in calling the Maragons at this time is to obtain from them information which might substantiate the theory that the detective met his death at hands of others instead of at his own, as the police insisted in the face of the coroner's jury verdict of murder. Maragon, a former department friend of Scrivener, and Mrs. Maragon, said to be the former fiance of the dead detective, are alleged to have expressed the opinion that Scrivener met his death at the hands of others.

Rover intends to present all evidence in connection with the death of Scrivener to the grand jury as soon as the inquisitorial body has completed the new investigation of the death of Mrs. Virginia Hurley McPherson, who was found strangled to death on September 12, last. The McPherson case is scheduled to be concluded this week, and immediately afterwards the Scrivener investigation by the grand jury will get under way.

Questioning Kept Secret.

The Maragons were closeted with the United States attorney for more than two hours, and after their departure, Rover announced that they would return today for a short time.

Rover declined to make any statements as to the nature of the disclosures made by the Maragons except that by the time his questioning is over he hopes to know more about the Scrivener death. The Maragons also refused to make any disclosures.

Prior to the conference with the Maragons, Lieut. Edward J. Kelly, former head of the Detective Bureau, was closeted with Rover for a few minutes, but whether his visit was in connection with the Scrivener probe could not be ascertained. Kelly was one of Scrivener's close friends and is said to have been one of the strongest advocates of the suicide theory.

SCRIVENER'S FIANCEE QUIZZED

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Maragon as they left District Attorney Rover's office after being closeted for nearly two hours, discussing the reopening of investigation of Detective Scrivener's death by the district attorney's office. Mrs. Maragon was the slain detective's fiancee at the time of his death.

warrant charging them with conspiracy was sworn to several days ago by Assistant United States Attorney William A. Gallagher, and renewed their bonds when the indictment was returned. Walsh was not named in the original warrant and only came to Washington yesterday to surrender to the charge in the indictment.

Walsh is alleged by the Government to have been a New Yorker with whom Buck's office was in communication in that city. Walsh specifically is charged in the indictment with having communicated certain quotations of stock prices to Frank B. Catlin, said to have been a telegraph operator employed by Buck to transmit such figures to the Washington establishment which was located in the Evans Building, at 1420 New York avenue northwest.

Buck and Miss Freas already, through Attorneys Harry Barger and H. Winship Wheatley, have attacked the validity of the indictment in a plea of abatement challenging the legality of the service of certain of the members of the present grand jury, notably James N. Fitzpatrick, jr., the foreman.

The Government yesterday answered the pleas in abatement filed on behalf of Buck. At the same time an answer to similar pleas made by Attorneys Ring and Cobb on behalf of Dexter C. Dayton under indictment for first-degree murder in connection with the death of Marjorie O'Donnell also was filed. United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw appeared for the Government in the filing of the answers, which are in the nature of replications and demurrers to the pleas.

The Government asserts that the defendants "in no wise have been prejudiced by the matters and things set forth in the pleas." It also is asserted that the pleas were filed unseasonably and that there is no showing that the matters and things charged had not come to the attention of the defendants or their counsel "a considerable time prior to the filing of the pleas."

Defense of the right of certain members of the grand jury to serve in the face of the challenges hurled on behalf of Buck and Dayton are gone into at length by the Government. The manner of drawing jurors also attacked, was defended, as was the right of Lillian S. Pritchard to serve as jury commissioner. The Government alleges that her term of office is fixed by the code at three years.

G. O. P. Committeeman Named on Negro Board

Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman from Mississippi, yesterday received notice of appointment as representative of his State on the National Negro Memorial Commission which will meet here on December 5 by Gov. Theodore G Bilbo (Democrat), of Mississippi. Each governor of a State with considerable Negro population has been asked to name a member of the commission.

The commission plans to raise $500,000 to make available $50,000 appropriated by Congress for erection of a building here as a monument to achievements of the Negro in America

Newson Resigns Post With Legation in Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Maj. H. Dorsey Newson, First Secretary of the United States Legation here since its formation in July, 1927, has resigned from the diplomatic service of his country to enter business, it was made known here today.

Benjamin R. Riggs, for the last three years an official of the State Department at Washington, will be his successor and will arrive here within a few days.

MAJ. D. A. DAVISON LAUDS POLICE HERE

TALKS TO TRADE BOARD

High praise was given the Washington police force by Maj. Donald A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, in a talk to the public order committee of the Washington Board of Trade yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

Maj. Davison based his judgment of the police force on an inspection just completed at the direction of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, and Commissioner Proctor Dougherty. This inspection is made each year, but significance was attached to this particular one as it followed on the heels of unprecedented disturbances in the Police Department. That these eruptions have had no outward effect on the members of the force was clearly reflected in what Maj. Davison said.

"Washington," he said, "has as fine a police force as one could find anywhere. In appearance the men stack up splendidly with any military organization of similar size I have seen. Each man is well set up. I was impressed by the direct expression of their eyes; also by the fact that their mouths were straight and firm, but not turned down. Washington should wake up to what a fine police force it has."

Maj. Davison's inspection covered a week and carried him to each precinct and department of the police force, where he met every member of the force individually with the exception of those on sick leave or absent for other reasons. The talk he made yesterday was a resume of the report he will submit to Maj. Pratt and Commissioner Dougherty.

Talks were also made at the meeting by Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, assistant to the Engineer Commissioner; Edgar C. Snyder, United States marshal, and George Plitt, vice president of the Board of Trade.

Announcement was made that "crime" will be the chief topic of discussion at the next general meeting of the Board of Trade December 16. The principal speakers at this time will be Representative James M. Beck, of Pennsylvania, and Dr. Lent D. Upson, director of the Detroit Bureau of Municipal Research and professor of municipal administration at the University of Michigan. Prof. Upson has just completed a study of the handling of police personnel.

MORE GRAND JURIES ARE BLEASE'S GOAL

Senator Introduces Bill to Divide Capital Into Judicial Districts.

QUICKER TRIALS ARE AIM

Declaring that it takes "from two to three years" to get trials in some criminal cases here, Senator Blease (Democrat) of South Carolina, yesterday introduced a resolution that would result in setting up additional grand juries in the National Capital.

Blease's resolution calls for hearings by the Senate and House judiciary committees to consider the advisability of dividing the District into two or more judicial districts with a grand jury in each one. He explained that the present court house and the six judges in the District Supreme Court would be all that were needed to carry on the trials of the cases.

His plan is to divide the assistants in United States Attorney Rover's office to take care of the additional grand juries in an effort to speed up justice.

"I have been informed," Blease said in introducing his resolution, "that it will take two or three years in the District in order to get some criminal cases that are now on the docket. At the present time the District Attorney goes before the grand jury and presents not only prosecuting witnesses, but witnesses for the defendant, and instead of the grand jury making purely a casual examination of the case, they try the case, and if they find a true bill it is virtually a verdict of guilty.

Senator Blease asked for immediate consideration of his resolution, but this proposal was blocked by Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, who asked that it be sent to the Senate judiciary committee and considered there first.

Blease declared that there is a man from South Carolina in jail here awaiting trial who has been incarcerated for four months, and it loks as though it will be two or three years before he is tried.

RAILWAY MEN MEET WITH HOOVER TODAY

First Conferees in Survey to Be Followed by Bank Board Advisors.

TWO MEETINGS DELAYED

this true of recent months because of high rates of interest, a situation brought about by the pouring of money into the stock markets.

Undoubtedly the conference will have to do with plans of going ahead with this construction and with plans for improvements now that money is available at cheaper interest rates.

An outstanding contemplated improvement that comes readily to mind is the electrification of the Pennsylvania Railroad. Railway expenditures for construction, new equipment and the like ordinarily total more than $1,000,000,000 a year, and Hoover's plans for an extensive building up of the country's export trade will greatly add to this. The railroads, as a matter of fact, account for one-sixth of the Nation's wealth. They are the country's largest users of steel, which until only a few years ago was the country's greatest single industry.

There have been unofficial suggestions that the question of railway consolidations will be discussed at the conference. It is true that the uncertainty attending consolidations has had to do with the slowing down of railroad construction, but whether anything very definite along this line can be accomplished in a one-day conference is questionable. It may very readily be, however, that the railway executives will receive considerable reassurance on the matter from their meeting with the President, that the meeting of minds will serve to relieve some of the uncertainty that has heretofore attended the question.

The highly important economic factors that will be available for discussion are, indeed, almost unlimited. There is the question of the railroads getting together with the barge lines on interchangeable rates. Some time ago the Interstate Commerce Commission prescribed a formula for them, but no voluntary agreement could be reached and the matter is back with the commission for it to apply specific rates.

Rate Cut May Be Topic.

In some quarters the suggestion was hazarded that there might be some discussion about lower freight rates on the theory that they will make for increased business.

Of course, everything touched upon will necessarily be in a broad, general way. Hoover has made it known that he does not plan to set up any superagency to carry out his present plans to utilize the agencies already set up by business, the railways, labor and agriculture.

Should there be, however, no more than an announcement from the railway executives following the conference, it is pointed out for example, that they do intend to make use of the present situation to catch up on their construction and replacement work, instead of waiting to see what may or may not happen, such an announcement in itself would go far toward stabilizing business.

The conference with the bankers of the advisory committee will have to do, of course, with diverting the country's money back into more normal fields of endeavor.

Further Expansion Desired.

Secretary Mellon made known that the extension of the public building program would stimulate employment throughout the country.

Congress had already authorized $175,000,000 for the program but the Treasury had previously announced that it intended asking for an extension to $248,000,000. It is now planned to expand the program to $423,000,000 to be spread over 10 years instead of 8 as contemplated in the $248,000,000 expenditure.

Of the increase of $175,000,000 to be sought over and above the $248,000,000 the expenditure of $75,000,000 over that already authorized for Washington is planned, while the remaining $100,000,000 will be added to the program as it affects the country outside of Washington.

Annual expenditures on the building program are now limited to $25,000,000 for the country outside of Washington, but because of accumulations the Treasury will have $31,000,000 to spend in 1930 and $40,000,000 in 1931.

In addition to the good that this increased program of construction will do in the present situation, Mellon believes that it is the economical thing to do, in that it will bring nearer the time when the Government's great rent bill may be done away with.

The conference with Secretary Lamont, manufacturers and officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce, which was scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed until Thursday because of the Good funeral Wednesday.

The conference that the President had planned for Thursday with representatives of agriculture has been postponed until Friday. On that day the President will also confer with the representatives of various construction organizations, such as the realtors, the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, American Engineering Association, Association of General Contractors and the American Roadbuilding Association.

LINDBERGH TREATED FOR OLD INJURIES

wood, N. J., where he was being treated by Dr. Walter Phillips.

At the office of Dr. Phillips it was admitted by a nurse that the physician had treated Lindbergh for a slight dislocation of the shoulder. Asked how the injury was received the nurse stated she thought "he received it at home," but beyond that no information could be elicited.

A check-up on all the flying fields in the vicinity failed to show any accident figured in by Col. Lindbergh. His Curtiss Falcon plane was at its hangar in Curtiss Airport, Valley Stream, Long Island, absolutely undamaged in any way.

It was also learned from Col. Henry Breckenridge, Lindbergh's attorney, that he had talked with Lindbergh during the day and that he had no injuries of any sort that he know of. Lindbergh left the Morrow home early this morning and went to New York, where he attended several business conferences.

Englewood, N. J., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had an X-ray taken of his right shoulder at Englewood Hospital on Sunday, attendants there revealed today. The pictures will be ready for the famous flier tomorrow.

The attendants said the colonel told them he had been bothered with sharp pains in his right shoulder of late and upon advice of his doctor had gone to the hospital for the X-ray. They added they understood from the flier's brief conversation that the injury was the one he suffered in Mexico when one of the wheels of his plane dropped off in flight and he was forced to land with only one.

The colonel's shoulder was dislocated, and his bride, then Miss Anne Spencer Morrow, was shaken up when the plane upset.

MACDONALD EXPLAINS NAVAL BASE DELAY

ject of expediting the work on the base.

Leaders of the Labor government in the House of Commons met with heckling today on the renewed relations with Soviet Russia and replied to other questions on many subjects ranging from Mexican foreign debts to President Hoover's suggestion of wartime immunity for food ships.

The attention of the government was promised to the proposal of the American President, but it was stated that no diplomatic reply would be made, since none has been asked.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson, after numerous heated exchanges between Sir Austen Chamberlain and other members on the question of the forthcoming relations between Great Britain and Russia, told questioners that the Soviet Union would be held to its pledge to abstain from propaganda. "In event that the pledge which will be contained in the agreement to be handed over on the presentation of the credentials of ambassadors is broken, responsibility will rest with the government for any action taken."

Questioned with regard to defaulting bonds of the Mexican external debt, Henderson said "his majesty's government is not in a position to take any steps in regard to these defaults until they are approached in the matter by properly qualified agents of British bondholders, who are, of course, already in collaboration with American bondholders. Any such representations would receive most careful attention from his majesty's government."

On still another matter, MacDonald replied to questions with a statement that if he should see anything to justify belief that the conservative party was prepared to cooperate in solving the unemployment problem the labor government would be willing to consider representations for the forming of a nonparty committee to deal with the problem.

Child Is Believed Religious Prodigy

Church Pastor Has Invited Boy of 8 to Occupy His Pulpit Some Night.

Danville, Va., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Prenatal influence is thought by the Rev. P. F. Hasselvander, pastor of Jefferson Avenue Christian Church here, to be responsible for 8-year-old Angus Douglas Winn's aptitude for religious things.

The Rev. Mr. Hasselvander has invited the little boy to preach in his church some Sunday night in the near future, but states that the lad will not be exploited publicly for fear that it will impair his development along natural lines.

Although declaring that he loves baseball and aspires to some day wear a Yankee uniform, little Angus has read the Bible through twice and has memorised long excerpts.

Lately, he has gone further and has written three sermons, one of which requires fifteen minutes for delivery.

BUILDING NOT TO BURN
Do we build to BURN?
The frightful fire waste of this country has often caused such a question.
Much has been accomplished toward improved conditions, but in many instances there is a woeful lack of foresight in providing adequate defenses against fire, especially in the construction of buildings for mercantile and industrial use, hospitals, schools, hotels and other structures where large numbers of people are housed.
There are numerous activities, maintained by the Stock Fire Insurance companies, which aim for a better day when America shall consistently build NOT TO BURN.
Better Building Practice
One of these activities is the Committee on Construction of Buildings of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, which assembles the best available information on proper building methods. For many years it has been the leading clearing house of information in safety construction.
The information in its possession is based upon the latest scientific and engineering facts and is supported by more than fifty years experience in organized fire prevention by the 239 Stock Fire Insurance companies which transact the great bulk of the fire insurance business.
Municipal Codes
Few indeed are the municipal building codes that have not used in whole or in part the information and services of the Department of Building Construction. This department has constantly worked for many years in co-operation with officials and others in authority in the interest of safety construction.
Better construction retards fire waste and contributes to the consequent decline in the average cost of fire insurance.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HIGHWAY TO SOUTH WILL BE WIDENED

Award Clarendon Man Contract; Art Club Will Meet.

ARLINGTON FIREMEN MEE

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

John H. Olcott, of Clarendon, was awarded the contract for the widening and resurfacing of the Washington-Richmond highway by the Virginia Highway Department yesterday at a bid of $77,795.24.

The road will be widened to a width of 30 feet extending from a point opposite the Southern Oxygen Plant in South Washington to the boundary line between the City of Alexandria and Arlington County at Four Mile Run.

The improvement calls for concrete shoulders 6 feet in width with an asphalt center. When the roadway is completed there will be a surface of 28 feet 8 inches of asphalt with 8 inches of concerete exposed on each side.

Olcott has just completed the widening and resurfacing of the Wilson boulevard extending from Clarendon avenue to the Military road in Rosslyn. He stated last night that he hopes to start work on the new contract within the next two weeks.

Referring to a statement which has been attributed to him by Mrs. Florence E. Cannon as to permits granted by the county board of supervisors, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth issued the following statement yesterday:

"I informed Mrs. Cannon when she came to see me about a permit of the Sun Oil Co. that I had given the board of supervisors a written opinion under date of December 15, 1923, in which I said that the board has either the right to grant or deny a permit and that the board is the exclusive judge as to whether a permit should be granted or not and I further stated that it was my opinion, in this letter, that once a permit is granted to any individual, firm or corporation for an extension of a cemetery or for the creation of a cemetery that then this permit can not be revoked or altered, in any way, after the minutes have been signed by the chairman of the board.

"In my conversation with Mrs. Cannon I told her that this opinion was written on the question of cemeteries. I am of the opinion, however, that this would hold true in all permits granted except where fraud has been perpetrated or where there have been violations of the law after the granting of a permit and the law permits a revocation of the same.

"I have taken no part in the controversy as to the Sun Oil Co., either for or against, but it is my opinion that unless fraud has been perpetrated the board of supervisors can not revoke any permit unless the person or persons having the permit commit some violation of the law which would justify the revocation thereof."

Gloth had been quoted by Mrs. Cannon as having said that the county board of supervisors was without power to revoke a permit after it had once been issued only in the case of cemeteries.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the chicken house, together with four prize game roosters belonging to Dane King, of Fort Myer Heights, yesterday morning.

The damage was estimated at $500. King's hunting dog, which was tied to the house, was saved.

Meeting with officials of the Virginia Public Service Corporation, H. B. Mitchell, chairman of the Merchants Association of Clarendon, and P. P. Woodbridge, executive secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, yesterday, discussed the plans for the establishment of a white way through the business section of Clarendon along the Wilson boulevard.

According to the tentative plans the white way may be established from Virginia avenue to a point opposite the offices of the Rosslyn Gas Co., a distance of about four blocks.

Woodbridge stated that as soon as the Public Service Co. complete its estimates of cost that a meeting will be called by the chamber of commerce at which all merchants of Clarendon and other sections of the county together with the property owners will be invited.

In calling the merchants to the meeting Woodbridge stated that in a letter he has received from the county board of supervisors they favor the establishment of a modern street lighting system in the business sections comprising Arlington, Ballston and Cherrydale together with Clarendon.

Fearing that there might develop an overconfidence among the workers in the annual Red Cross roll call now going on in the county, Chairman George A. Collier yesterday announced that to put Arlington County over the top with its quota of 1,000 members by Thanksgiving Day that it will require the most earnest efforts of all workers in each district.

He again calls to the attention of the hundreds of citizens who are employed in Washington the need for them to see to it that they enroll in the county thereby aiding the local chapter in carrying on its work during the year.

Collier stated that the local chapter functions the entire year and during the past two years has expended more than $1,000 in assisting disabled veterans and their families.

The Arlington County Creative Art Club will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at the home of Mrs. Carrie L. Mitchell, Lyon Village.

The club will at this meeting complete its plans for its first annual exhibit which will be given in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce in the Rees Building at Clarendon Friday night, Saturday afternoon and evening.

Charged with reckless driving, William Nelson was fined $34.25 including costs, and given a jail sentence of 30 days by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas yesterday.

The Parent Teachers Association of the Cherrydale School, held its monthly meeting last night in the school auditorium with the president, Mrs. G. L. Tabor, presiding.

With the view of cooperating with the Mothers Club of the Woodmont School at Thrifton Village, a special committee was appointed with Hugh Reid as chairman to make an investigation as to the cost of grading of the grounds and to present the matter up with the county school board in an effort to have the work done.

With the grounds graded, it was stated that a movement for the establishment of a playground will be started.

Mrs. Martha F. Rauh was elected delegate to represent the association at the annual State Parent Teachers Association to be held in Richmond during Thanksgiving week.

Following the business meeting a musical program was given by the pupils of the fifth and sixth grades with Mrs. Robert Davidson at the piano.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association will hold its monthly meeting with the Falls Church department at its firehouse tonight at 8 o'clock.

Plans will be considered for the organizing of a first aid unit composed of members from each of the departments in the association.

With the view of establishing fire zones which would reduce the danger of calling out all fire departments when one would take care of the conditions, the chiefs of the several departments met with County Engineer C. L. Kinner at the Cherrydale firemen's hall last night and made a study of the county map.

There being no central alarm system in the county, it was pointed out that in many instances departments from every section of the county have responded to alarms where one or two engines could have handled the situation.

Tomorrow night the Woman's Club of Lyon Village will entertain their husbands at a bridge party to be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Leighty.

COURT TERM OPENS IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

SPEEDING COUNT IGNORE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

The Fairfax County Circuit Court opened yesterday, with Judge Howard W. Smith presiding. Sheriff E. P. Kirby called the court to order in the historic Fairfax Courthouse, at 10 o'clock. The sessions will continue for two weeks.

Immediately following the opening of court the county grand jury, consisting of Robert R. Buckley (foreman), C. L. Mohler, W. M. Parker, J. Stewart Pettitt, M. E. Caton, Thomas S. Nichols, B. H. Swartz, J. D. Garrett and Samuel Sisson were given the oath of office and instructions by Judge Smith. The jurors then retired to the jury room to hear criminal complaints.

True bills were returned by the jury after a three-hour session, the indictments charging the following crimes:

Joe Mills, sr., manufacture and possession of intoxicating liquor, bond being set at $5,000, instead of $10,000, as at the preliminary hearing; John Brown, Joe Mills, jr., and John Mills, manufacture of ardent spirits; Elburn Collins and Clarence Allison, two indictments, one charging housebreaking with intent to commit larceny, the other a felonious larceny; Gustavus Johnson, assault with intent to disable and kill Thomas Jackson; Rosial Harris, hit-and-run driving; John Blanchard, alias John Hill and Bernard Cleveland, transportation and possession of mash; Levy Doyle, alias Pete Doyle, shooting and attacking J. L. Doyle; Charles Smith, a statutory offense, and James Henson and Robert Whitt, trespassing on railroad property.

Three Indictments Refused.

The grand jury refused to indict Frank Clayton, charged with colliding and leaving scene of acident; William L. Finken, accused of possession of liquor, and Joseph Barnes, of shooting with intent to kill.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson Farr presented fourteen information bills to Judge Smith. They made the following charges: W. S. Cooke, driving while drunk; George Cockerille, sale and possession of intoxicating liquor; George W. Rouss, possession and transportation of liquor, and a charge of driving while drunk; Edwin S. Harris, Max Cave and A. E. Breeden, transportation and possession of liquor; Roasil Harris, transportation and possession of liquor; Frank Clayton, transportation and possession of liquor; John Blanchard, alias John Hill and Bernard Cleveland transportation and possession of liquor; Charles E. Beans, two charges, one driving while drunk and transportation and possession of liquor; Clarence Walter, alias Cleatus Walter, driving while drunk; John Gheen, driving while drunk; Tommy Tudor, alias Tommy Tedore, driving while drunk, and William Vanhorn, possession and transportation of liquor.

In dismissing a case of speeding against Harold Waller, Judge Smith threw a bombshell. Waller's case was before the court on an appeal from the justice of the peace. In rendering his decision the judge stated that under a recent act of the State Assembly the speed limit in this State had been abolished and that a person driving over 35 miles an hour might be charged with reckless driving, depending upon the circumstances in the individual case.

Eight Sentences Imposed.

Eight sentences were imposed yesterday, as follows: A. G. Condrey, $50 fine and three months in jail for possession and transportation of ardent spirits. He was caught some time ago after an exciting chase of several miles from Engleside to Alexandria and was only captured when the officers shot the tires off of his rear wheels. He pleaded guilty.

John Blanchard, alias John Hill, and Bernard Cleveland pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of mash and were fined $100 and costs and three months in jail each. The information against each was nolle prossed.

Frank Clayton was fined $50 and costs and one month in jail for transportation and possession.

Clarence Walter, alias Cleatus Walter, driving while drunk, $100 and costs and one month in jail.

John Kheen, driving while drunk, $100 and costs and one month in jail.

Tommy Tudor, alias Tommy Tedore, driving while drunk, $100 and costs and one month in jail.

William Van Horn, possession and transportation of liquor, $50 and costs and one month in jail, suspended.

W. S. Cooke, charged with driving while drunk, pleaded guilty and was allowed to surrender to the January court.

George W. Rouss, who was charged with transportation and possession and driving while drunk, failed to appear and a motion for forfeiture of bond was made, the hearing on the motion was set for November 21.

Charles Smith, the suspect in the attack on a 16-year-old school girl, who was taken in custody Sunday at Hollin Hill farm by Louis Finke, Fairfax County traffic officer, was indicted yesterday. The case of Benny Stevens, who was the first man arrested in the investigation, was ignored by the grang jury. There have been conflicting statements regarding the identity of the assailant of the young woman, both men having been identified by witnesses. Fairfax authorities are still investigating.

Other criminal cases were set for hearing during the remainder of the term of court.

The civil docket was also called yesterday and those cases were disposed of or set for hearing at a later date.

Miss Bessie Driver, a member of the senior class at the Oakton High School, will give a five-minute talk on "The Advantages of a High School Education," tomorrow morning, when Miss Elizabeth Buckley's room will be in charge of the entetrainment program at assembly.

He is president of the National Bank of Fairfax, chairman of the public health board of the county and has been a member of the county school board from the Lee district and chairman of the board since it was organized in 1922.

ROCKVILLE ZONING WILL BE DISCUSSED

Park Commission Engineer Will Address Members of Trade Groups.

TRAFFIC LAWS CHANGED

Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will address a meeting of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce tonight at 8 o'clock in the Rockville Fire Department Hall. Chief Engineer Root for several months has been working on zoning regulations for Rockville and in the course of his work has found it necessary to do considerable city planning in order that the zoning regulations could be fitted to the needs of this growing community.

In the course of his talk, Root will touch upon the elimination of the Rockville grade crossing over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad on the Norbeck pike, which he recommended after a survey he made in connection with his planning work. Leonard L. Nicholson, jr., president of the chamber, has invited the general public to attend the meetings as the subject is of great interest to the citizens of the town.

Slight modification of the new traffic laws in Rockville was announced yesterday by Mayor J. Roger Spates. The new regulations have become effective but are not being enforced until signs can be erected in the areas affected.

The new interpretation makes parking for more than one hour unlawful between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. on Montgomery avenue, the town's main street and the ban on parking in front of the Rockville High School will be effective only from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. as well as on Monroe street.

Charles E. Leavitt, 19 years old, gasoline station employe, of Baltimore, yesterday was brought to Rockville by County Policeman Harry Merson from Baltimore, where he was arrested on a charge of bigamy. Bond of $1,000 was fixed by Justice of the Peace John Jones, of Rockville. He was placed in the Rockville jail in default of bond.

Leavitt was arrested following a complaint by the sister of his alleged second wife, who told police she overheard a conversation in which Leavitt admitted he had a former wife. According to police, Leavitt married Miss Marian Walden, 25 years old, of Baltimore, at Rockville on August 5, 1929, at which time he is alleged to have given his age as 22 years.

Police charge that he married Miss Alice Guymont, of Lakeport, N. H., August 10, 1927, at Lakeport, leaving her after two weeks.

OFFICIALS NAMED IN THREE SUITS

Keck and a suit for $50,000 damages filed jointly against Keck and Fowler.

The suits were accompanied by a motion for leave to file the declarations nunc pro tunc, allegations being made that they were originally filed on November 13 last, and that Clerk Frank E. Cunningham returned them, asserting that they were not in conformance with the flat filing system of the court which went into effect last August 1. Copies of the letters sent by Clerk Cunningham were attached as records in the case.

Ethel Clawans, who says she lives in the District of Columbia, and Lillian Clawans, an attorney, of Newark, N. J., are plaintiffs in the suit for $100,000, while Ethel Clawans is the plaintiff in the actions against Keck and Keck and Fowler.

Allegation is made that Lillian Clawans was suing (Betty Way) Vernon Kimmel Carnduff for $2,000; that Whitford was attorney for the defendant in that action and that Ethel Clawans was a material witness in the case, and that her arrest was in an effort to discredit her testimony.

Charge is made in the $100,000 suit that Ethel Clawans was in the District of Columbia Supreme Court on November 14, 1926, and that Mina Van Winkle and Whitford followed her to the Police Court building and conspired with the other defendants to have her arrested.

Allegation is made that Ethel Clawans was held incommunicado at the police station for several hours after her arrest and at Gallinger Hospital for two days, and that she was not released on bail until a week later. Two weeks later, the declaration sets out, she was tried on a charge of forgery and acquitted.

Compensatory and punitive damages are sought against Keck in the suit for $50,000 in which he is the lone defendant, while in the other $50,000 suit actual damages for false arrest are sought of the two policemen.

Lillian Clawans is said to be widely known in the United States as a calculator and inventor of calculating systems. She trades under the name of the Adding and Calculating Co., and as such entered the suit for $2,000 against the Carnduff woman, which is said to be the real basis of the three actions. She also is an attorney, while her sister is said to be well known as an income tax expert.

NAVAL EXPERT NEEDED.

The idea of excluding naval experts from the American delegation to the naval limitation conference is inexplicable to the American people. It would be bad enough if all the interested powers were to follow this suggestion, but when some of the nations refuse to be guided by this rule it is manifestly unfair to ask other nations to adopt a policy of self-imposed ignorance of the subject matter to be discussed.

According to London dispatches, the British government has urged the governments of France, Italy and Japan not to appoint admiralty delegates and it is an open secret that Great Britain in this instance is acting as agent for the United States. But Japan has already appointed Admiral Takarabe as one of her delegates, and it is blandly suggested here that this one exception should not affect the proposed rule. The fact that Japan has a naval expert on her delegation is not regarded as justifying the inclusion of an American naval expert on the delegation which is to represent the United States, according to the view taken by the State Department.

When the Japanese delegation visits Washington next month to confer with the American delegations on highly controversial and extremely technical matters pertaining to the Japanese demand for an increased cruiser ratio, the American Navy will be represented by Secretary Stimson and the Japanese navy will be represented by Admiral Takarabe.

The Japanese admiral-delegate is one of the ablest naval experts in the world. He combines broad knowledge of international affairs with an intimate knowledge of every technical detail pertaining to naval problems. He has served as minister of the Japanese navy in five cabinets. He has seen actual service in the lower naval ranks and distinguished himself in naval battles during the Russo-Japanese war. He is an unexcelled negotiator, and has the reputation of being able to outmaneuver and outwit the most skillful statesmen when naval matters are involved.

Mr. Stimson, who will represent the United States Navy in the conferences with Admiral Takarabe and who will later formulate America's naval policy at the London conference, has been taking lessons from members of the general board during the past three weeks or more. He has frankly admitted that the lessons were sorely needed, and it may be assumed that he is proving an apt pupil and now knows more about the Navy than a former American Secretary of State who was amazed and horrified to discover that a battleship was hollow.

But with all the diligence and aptitude in the world, Mr. Stimson will necessarily remain in the primer class for many months in so far as technical naval knowledge is concerned. It is not fair to require him to pit his naval knowledge against that of Admiral Takarabe or naval experts on other delegations. It would be unfair to select a person who had never played golf and ask him to take lessons for three weeks and play a match with Bobby Jones or Tommy Armour.

The suggestion of a naval conference with the exclusion of naval experts from the delegations appears as impractical as it is unnecessary. It is something like playing the next Davis Cup match with all persons who know anything about tennis excluded from the match. If all teams agreed to this it would be at least fair, but if France named Henri Cochet by way of exception the novices would be handicapped just as civilian delegates, with no knowledge of naval problems, will be handicapped by the inclusion of a past master like Admiral Takarabe on the Japanese delegation.

President Hoover wants the London conference to be limited strictly to consideration of naval problems. These problems, as affecting the United States Navy, are understood best by the Americans who have devoted their lives to the study. If any nation sends a naval expert as delegate to the London conference, all other nations should be given the same advantage. It is a dangerous thing to subject the fate of the United States Navy to amateurs who will go up against foreign experts.

JAMES W. GOOD.

After a heroic struggle that won the sympathy of the entire country, James W. Good has succumbed. In the prime of life, in the midst of arduous public duties, the Secretary of War is suddenly stricken down. His death leaves a gap at the national council table and deprives the President of a faithful and sagacious adviser.

Mr. Good rendered notable service to the country as a member of Congress. The toil that must be performed by a conscientious chairman of the House committee on appropriations is little understood by the public. This labor has shortened the lives of several chairmen, notably that of Martin Madden, and doubtless it impaired the vitality of Mr. Good. He took upon himself the extra burden of service on the select committee that evolved the budget system that is now a fixture in the Government. In 1921, Mr. Good resigned from Congress to practice law in Chicago.

As manager of the Western headquarters of the Republican national committee in 1928 Mr. Good was extremely active. He is credited with having been chiefly instrumental in winning the West for Mr. Hoover. His extensive acquaintance and remarkable faculty in making and holding friendships were valuable assets in this work. He was a sweet-natured man, who went unspoiled "through the corrupted currents of this world," ready to help others and holding fast to old-fashioned virtues. There will be grief in many a heart when it is known that James W. Good is no more.

MR. TINKHAM'S PLAN.

During the Coolidge administration the Department of Justice, on the ground that prevention is better than cure, undertook to advise corporations as to the lawfulness of prospective merger and consolidation plans. Soon after Attorney General Mitchell took office the policy was abandoned. Frequently, Mr. Mitchell said in explanation, unforeseen factors arose to make a project run counter to provisions in the anti-trust laws, and the fact that the department had committed itself to the lawfulness of the project made it difficult to prosecute. Mr. Mitchell rightly held that the agency that is charged with the duty of prosecuting under the antitrust laws should not be called upon to interpret the statutes.

Representative Tinkham now proposes a resolution to empower the Federal Trade Commission to examine into the details of proposed consolidations and mergers, with power to deny licenses to unlawful combinations. Reputable business men, he contends, have the right to know whether or not their projects are in harmony with the law. He suggests that the antitrust laws were written in general terms and that there is uncertainty as to the application of the statutes.

It should be, and is, the desire of the Government to encourage and assist honest industry rather than to handicap and harass it. But against Representative Tinkham's proposal the same objection can be raised as against the practice of the Department of Justice that has recently been discarded. Besides, it would set up a license system over business which would lead to many abuses.

In the years since the Sherman act was passed the courts have made its meaning quite clear. Today, as Federal Trade Commissioner Humphrey pointed out in his Biloxi speech, it is possible with reasonable certainty to cite the law applicable to any given set of facts. There are hundreds of lawyers familiar with the antitrust laws and the decisions thereunder, competent to advise the promoters of mergers and consolidations as to whether or not the projects they contemplate would be "in restraint of trade." Business should provide its own counselors. The Government should be left free to prosecute when prosecution is called for, but it should not set up a bureaucratic license system.

FOOLISH RAILROAD OPPOSITION.

In an editorial published a month or so ago, Railway Age expressed the opinion that development of inland waterways could be accomplished only at the expense of the railroads of the country. The editorial came in for widespread criticism. The development of a comprehensive transportation machine is obviously dependent upon utilization of every facility available. Waterways are supplemental rather than competitive to railways. The welfare of the railroads depends upon their recognition of the new ally and its assimilation with their service.

There is reason to believe that railway men generally recognize this fact. They learned a bitter lesson attempting to fight the motor bus and truck, and it was only when they came to harness motor transportation to rail transportation that the tide that was flowing against them turned. But there are a few standpat railroad men who would fight the waterways. It was, no doubt, the presence of these that gave rise to bitter criticism of the railways during the meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association last week.

"The forces arrayed against the program for the development of inland waterways," said William R. Dawes, of Chicago, president of the association, "have never been more grimly determined. We find a well-organized opposition, strongly intrenched and intent upon securing major benefits from the use of waterways transportation for themselves, even though it may be at the expense of industry and agriculture in the Middle West." Representative Denison, long a waterway advocate, promised to introduce legislation to prevent railways from reducing rates in barge line territory to compete with barge lines. Attempts are being made, he said, to hinder barge shipping by cut-throat competition.

It is not likely, however, that new legislation will be needed. Some time ago the Interstate Commerce Commission promulgated a formula for the establishment of joint barge-rail rates, directing the Inland Waterways Corporation to work out agreements with the railroads for joint rates based on the formula. The Waterways Corporation has not, it is true, been able to reach any agreements, and has petitioned the commission itself to establish rates. This probably will be done, and when it is done the opposition will have been effectively destroyed.

The railroads stand to gain from the operation of the waterways. Not only will the waterways develop sources of rail traffic, but a more adequate and cheaper transportation system will increase the prosperity of the entire country, which will be reflected in increased earnings of the railways.

SAVING MR. HOOVER'S TIME.

A favorite diversion for almost every group that comes to Washington for a convention is to visit the White House, pay its respects to the President, and then pose with him for a photograph. To be photographed with the President is, of course, a distinction which every visitor desires. Few individuals stop to think of the time and energy the President is forced to waste in this way.

It is significant that the Master Photo Finishers of America should take the lead in a movement to abolish this practice. Instead of going to the White House to shake hands with the President and pose for the usual picture, this group sent greetings by means of a registered letter. In that letter the photo finishers expressed concern over the "grave drain on the President's time and health," and called on other organizations to adopt similar methods of paying their respects.

The example is worthy of emulation. At the beginning of his administration President Hoover found it necessary to curtail daily handshaking receptions. He should be free to devote his full energy to the business of the Government. Organizations that are interested in promoting the welfare of the President could make no better beginning than by curtailing their demands on his time.

The entire village of Eliza, Ill., is for sale to the highest bidder. Can't a local philanthropist be found to buy it in and turn it over to the congressional group that would make Washington the testing block for all fool laws?

Citizen of Florida devises a way to use a rocking chair to generate power to run a fan, churn, sewing machine, &c. The invention ought to provide a way to get a little work out of father.

Columbus' expedition that led to the discovery of America cost a total of $2,115. Except for crime waves, Senate investigations, traffic, snoopers and saxophones, it was worth the cost.

Congress has failed utterly, says Senator Brookhart, in its attempt to govern the District. This must mean that wet congressional dinners are still held.

FOOTBALL FROM THE FIELD

By ARTHUR E. FRENCH, Harvard Freshman Coach, in the New York Times.

I do not believe that any prima donna experiences the thrill on an opening night that a football captain does when he walks out on the field to meet the captain of the opposing team in one of the great intercollegiate games. It is all over in a minute—but the knowledge that 70,000 pairs of eyes are focused on him almost burns him up.

The bowl is a blur of faces in a kaleidoscope of fluttering colors flashing before his vision; his taut nerves vibrate to the yells of 70,000 throats, surging toward him like the tide of a mammoth ocean. He feels the grip of his opponent's hard hand; he hears the ground rules explained; he is conscious of the toss; the goal is decided upon. Then comes a moment when the haze seems to lift and the seething mob is seen clearly. In a flash it is over—the captains are going back to join their teams, still a little aware of the crowds, though the mass of spectators gradually fades into a curtain of shadow as the game becomes a stern reality, and the mind begins to cope with its problems.

By some strange fluke the subconscious seems to rise and take command of the player, drilled for weeks on end, until his movements and responses are almost automatic. Outside of the actuality of the game nothing else exists for him from the moment the team comes out, the ball is kicked and the player has got his first real bump. The game might just as well be played in a back yard in so far as onlookers count.

After a game I have often been asked how it feels to make a long run. Every football player is asked the same question. I can make only one reply, "I'll bite!" For I do not know. You see an opening and you keep on going. At a time like this decisions are made in a split second. Instinctively, you cut in or out, or else continue straight ahead. Once in an open field beyond the line of scrimmage you make up your mind in the twinkling of an eye how you are going to get past the secondary defense. Shall I change my pace, side-step, pivot? The brain flashes its answer to the body. Maybe the decision is to be made between a straight arm and a throwing of the hip and a head-on collision with your man in the hope of getting him off his balance. Maybe you are lucky enough to get away with a twist. Ten yards more and you must know whether you are going to outrun or dodge. Perhaps you find yourself resorting to one of the just mentioned tricks in your frantic effort to get past the defensive quarter back. If fate has been with you you are over the line, but usually a fast end appears from nowhere, tackles you from behind and down you go—in sections. Bang, your knees crumble; bang, your stomach collapses; bang, your chin plunges downward.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AT THE END OF THE JOURNEY.

We sat at the end of the journey and talked
Of all we had done and had seen as we walked,
And strangely enough not a word did we say
Of the speed we had made as we traveled the way;
And though we were weary, and footsore and faint,
For the briars and thorns we'd no word of complaint.

We remembered the friends who had spoken goodbye,
We talked of the morning, the blue of the sky,
The blossoms we'd noticed, the charm of the road,
The noon-time we'd spent at a friendly abode;
But strangely enough not a word did we say
To boast of the distance we'd made in a day.

No word of the hardships we'd faced or the doubt
And the danger so recently fretted about
Was uttered at twilight; the long journey o'er
We remembered the beauty of hillside and shore,
And agreed that the grief of the trip was repaid
By the splendors we'd seen and the friends we had made.

At the end of life's journey when twilight slips down
We'll talk very little, I think, of renown,
Or of fortunes we've gathered, of strength at its most
And the daring achievements men cherish to boast,
But recalling life's trials, we'll tell with a smile
Of the love and the friendships which made them worth while.

The Blind Man's Failure to See It Doesn't Change the Fact That Day Follows Night.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE seems to be in nature a law of balance that matches one extreme with another to preserve the average.

Where the earth's surface is uneven, every valley is matched by a hill of equal proportions, as waves of the sea are matched by the hollow between them.

The greater the tree above ground, the greater the root system beneath it. As the pendulum swings in one direction, so it will swing in the other. The smaller the animal, and thus the greater its surface in proportion to bulk, the greater its capacity for the production of heat.

That is the law of balance—of compensation—and its jurisdiction is not confined to the physical world.

Nature strives always to maintain the normal level. For every enthusiasm there is a corresponding depression, for every smile a tear, for every rage that multiplies strength a corresponding reaction and weakness.

And since nature's laws are consistent in principle, affecting large and small alike, who can doubt that the law of balance equalizes handicaps and benefits as it equalizes the leaves of grass?

Fortune and misfortune come to us all, one balancing the other, and the evil who prosper must suffer, while the righteous who suffer eventually have their reward—not in some mythical hereafter, but here and now.

It is the law. You may scoff at the idea, remembering wicked ones who fared well and righteous ones who died in want, but what do you know of the secret hearts of men and how do you know what is good?

Those who seem unfortunate may be happy, and those who seem most fortunate may have heavy hearts. Good fortune is not measured in dollars and cents.

Rest assured, the law does not fail. The balance is kept. It could not be otherwise in a world of compensating forces.

And thus it follows that every ill fortune that comes your way is an assurance of good fortune to follow—every delay of compensation a guarantee of multiplied benefits held in store.

If you have a certain weekly allowance and draw but half of it, or none, your present self-denial leaves more to your credit; if you are entitled to sufficient good fortune to balance your woes, the longer it is delayed the more you may expect.

"Pollyanna nonsense," says a practical world.

But, no; it is a law. Payment isn't always made in kind; the onlooker frequently is deceived by appearances and mistakes evil for good; but the law holds and the balance is kept.

"Whatsoever a man soweth" was spoken of good fortune as well as bad.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE BRIDGE WHIST BATTLE OF THE CENTURY.

A contract bridge tournament has just been held in New York, with some of the best bridge clubs in the East competing and with the New York Bridge Whist Club winning the Vanderbilt Cup. Similar tournaments are to be held in other parts of the country. If the idea gets a grip on the public we may yet have a bridge players world's series marked by the presence of a brass band, cheer leaders, mascots and loyal rooters.

• • • •

One can fancy the best bridge team in Chicago dashing onto the field to a rousing cheer from its supporters, followed after a brief workout by the appearance of New York, Boston, Los Angeles and New Orleans, all fit and eager for the bridge battle of the century.

• • • •

"A long cheer for New York," calls a cheer leader, turning a back somersault:

Razzle-dazzle, razzle-dazzle,
Sis! Boom! Bah!
Get the game and rubber—
Rah! Rah! Rah!

And back across the field, from the Chicago leader in the white flannels and blue sweater, comes:

Who are we? Who are we?
We are the leaders of the C. B. C.!

Then a conference of officials and team captains, a tense moment while the teams cut for deal, the blowing of a whistle—and the battle is on!

There would, of course, be the usual confusion on the part of the official announcers:

Sports Writer—Who led that ace?

Announcer—Work led the ace.... just a minute....that wasn't Work, that was Richards.

Sports Writer—There goes the king ....Whose king was that?

Announcer—That wasn't the king; that was the queen....It was Mahoney's king....queen, I mean.

Sports Writer—Wow!....It's trumped!....A beautiful trump by Jones....This Jones is playing a wonderful game today.

Announcer—Brown trumped that trick....Wait!....It wasn't a trump ....It was a low diamond....Hearts are trumps.

&c., &c.

• • • •

After the game there would have to be some outlet for the spectators' emotions. Probably they would scamper onto the field and tear up the bridge tables or something.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Virginian Looks With Favor Upon Third Party if it Draws From the Republicans.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to Howard Y. Williams, of New York, who "is traveling through the country in the interest of the organization of a third party," the Boston Transcript says that "incidentally, he would compose his third party of wholly dissimilar elements." In his own mind, yes, as thousands of good American citizens are doing every day in the year.

A British author, Rudyard Kipling, introduces a third party in one of his stories, who interferes, not among truculent Republicans and Democrats, but with the domestic relationship of a man and wife, and Mr. Kipling's Latin name for him is tertium quid. The tertium quids of politics, better known as independent voters, unlike the tertium quid of the story, seek to purify the atmosphere in their particular field of activity.

Mr. Williams, more restless than some, is merely, as one might say, one of these tertium quid politicos, a third party in his own person.

Mr. Ralph Waldo Emerson, a Massachusetts highbrow from Boston or Concord, or some town like that, must have been thinking of us tertium quids when he talked about such a thing as a majority party with a membership of one. Mr. James Russell Lowell, a writer from the same State, must have had the same idea in mind when he said, "They are wrong who dare not be in the right with two or three."

The happy day may yet come when, in the light of what he thinks is right, every citizen will be his own third party.

But, however that may be, as a good Democrat my best wishes just now are with the restless brotherhood of political tertium quids.

VIRGINIAN.

Minneapolis Opinion of Demagogues Who Use Farm Problem and Tariff to Further Their Political Ends.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That we have a political bloc or coalition in Congress made up of radical political misfits is quite obvious to us all. It is regrettable that the interests of the farmer and the Western States are burdened with such misrepresentation. Their idea of helping the farmer is to hand out money to him, to get the Presiednt in disrepute, to obstruct legislation and to play to the political grand stand by making investigations. They are good at setting up a barrier of ill feeling, enmity and distrust between the industrial East and the agricultural West.

I can not believe that the men who compose this coterie can hold office very long. Their obvious incapacity, insincerity and temperamental misplacement are bound to be found out, to their chagrin.

There isn't any popular demand here in the West for the kind of representation that we have at Washington. We are not proud of them or their incompetency as statesmen. Of course, any demagogue will have a certain following.

These radical politicians have seized upon the farm problem, so-called, and the tariff issue as good campaign stuff with which to fool their agricultural constituents. They figure that it will keep them in office as long as an issue can be made of these questions. Their way of settling these problems will bring depression and widespread unemployment in this country, and in the end the farmer and the artisan will be infinitely worse off than now, and the ties that bind us as a great Nation will be broken.

Capella's Golden Light, Traveling Since the Hayes Administration, Just Reaching the Earth.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Golden Capella is rising from the northeast, a star-jewel of early evening, ascending higher and higher as autumnal evenings pass.

Golden Capella! Our own sun is large, but Capella is vastly larger. It is distant trillions and trillions of miles—half a century of "light years." Capella's golden rays which reach us tonight left its fiery surface about the year 1879. They have been traveling towards us ever since the administration of President Hayes. We may speak of our own sun as a "sky furnace." Capella is likewise a sky furnace, radiating from its surface approximately the same temperature as our sun. That is, 6,000 degrees Centigrade, or 11,000 degrees Fahrenheit. We feel that 90 degrees Fahrenheit is rather "hot."

Of course, this sun sparkles with first-magnitude brilliance. Were our sun to be put in its place, our sun would shine with only fifth or sixth magnitude brightness. To our unassisted eyesight, King Sol would appear very inconspicuous and dim.

"Special Secession," While Not Intended, Is Good, Very Good.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: You have suggested that the country will hold the insurgents to account for defeating tariff legislation. On the other hand, the country will give its deepest thanks and applause to Senator Borah, Norris and others of this noble group who have the intestinal fortitude to stand up for principle and the people's rights. These regular Republicans stubbornly holding out for such a bill—and who framed and presented it, with the help of the special interests concerned—are the only ones defeating the object of the special secession. This latter group will be held responsible for lack of results in this special secession—that was called mainly for the purpose of farm relief and tariff revision in a limited way—or pertaining thereto.

NATIONAL GRANGE STUDIES DRY LAW

OFFICERS ARE RENAMED

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Indorsement of the plan of Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, to make illicit liquor buyers equally guilty with the seller, was contained in a resolution introduced before the sixty-third annual convention of the National Grange here today by State Master George Sehlmeyer, of California.

The resolution, which insisted the Grange could take no halfway stand on prohibition, was one of many introduced following the reelection of all national officers.

The Michigan Grange introduced a list of resolutions directed at cigarettes, protesting in one against the use of young women's pictures in advertising cigarettes, and the advertising of cigarettes on radio programs. Another asked that all school boards make searching investigations of applications for teachers' positions to ascertain whether tobacco is used in any form with "special reference to smoking cigarettes."

Fight Grazing Lands Return.

Opposition to President Hoover's plan to return grazing lands to Western States, was voiced in a series of resolutions offered by A. S. Goss, Washington State master. It was asserted that the lands would be better administered under government control.

Opposition to the spread of chain banks was expressed in a resolution introduced by E. A. Eckert, master of the Illinois Grange. The measure was the cause of much discussion. Eckert and others backing him regarded branch banks as against the best interests of the farmers.

The resolution recited that in addition to branch bank opposition the grange should favor legislation designed to increase individual membership in the Federal Reserve.

National Officers Reelected.

The national officers reelected were: Louis J. Taber, national master, named for his fourth term; Robert Robinson, former Governor of Delaware, treasurer; Harry A. Caton, Ohio leader, secretary; David A. Agans, New Jersey State master, overseer.

New York State was chosen for the 1930 meeting, winning with 30 votes over Wisconsin, which received 26. The city will be selected by the State committee.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

WHEN one gets to studying the purpose of the Senate Young Turks, just what they are driving at, where they expect to get, just what, indeed, are the places they can go, he comes to the inescapable conclusion that their real undertaking is to insure themselves good, hot meals during what may be a very hard winter.

Meals have been their accomplishment so far, to say the least. Their nearly every move, every step has had to do with gathering around a banquet board. There is reason to believe that this will continue to be the case.

It is quite true that now and then there have been murmurs and veiled threats from them to kick over the traces, to put Senator George Moses, one of our institutions, out on his neck. But there has never been any outward move to this end, neither has there been any toward the scalp of Senator Reed or even Senator Watson's, whose names have also figured in the gossip. No, all of the outward moves have been toward food.

* * * *

IT reminds one of the days agone in a small community. The father of one of the boys in the gang was superintendent of the brewery and quite naturally there was always plenty of free beer at his house. This being the case the gang organized a club with a hifalutin name.

Every boy in it was an official. The dues were 25 cents a week, and they never paid. But what the club did do and what every member of it did was to meet every night at the home of the boy whose father had a lot of beer.

That seems to fit the purpose of the Young Turks.

WHAT other purpose can they have? Admitting all of those Republican senators who voted against the adjournment resolution the other day to be members of the bloc, which is not true, there are only 22.

Those 22 can not oust George Moses in any caucus, neither can they oust Reed or anybody else from his place on the Senate finance committee. They can do nothing, in fact, not even prevent adjournment without the aid of the Progressives. With these Progressives, of course, they can do many things

Now assuming the purpose of the bloc is to oust Senator Moses. It is extremely doubtful that the Progressives would go along with them on that. In the first place, the Progressives have nothing personally against Senator Moses, but a better and more practical reason as to why they should want him to stay right where he is, is so they can go out in the great open spaces and talk about him.

* * * *

IT WILL do the Progressives no good, indeed, to go back home and point to Moses as the essence of Old Guard iniquity, as the living symbol of the fight they had to make and will continue to have to make, if when they point to him, he will not be there.

Supposing Moses has been removed from his place as chairman of the senatorial campaign committee and from his powerful committee places. Then the Progressives will have nothing to talk about at all. His characterization of them as "sons of wild jackasses" will lack the force of an enemy authority.

It has been suggested that the Young Turks may have in mind overturning the powerful Senate finance committee. Now the Progressives have yelped a lot about how this committee is packed against them. But when it comes to changing that committee—well, now that would be another thing. It would remove a Progressive issue, so to speak.

The Young Turks may have some end other than assured winter eating in sight, but it is not yet apparent.

Fall Ranch Purchased By E. L. Doheny at Sale

Alamogordo, N. Mex., Nov. 18 (A.P.). In a special master's sale here today Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, purchased the property of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, for $132,491.81.

The sale followed a decree in the third judicial court on August 15 this year ordering a sale of the property to cover a mortgage held on the Tres Ritos Cattle & Land Co. owned by Doheny. Fall was the owner of the property. Mark Thompson, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Ed Holt, of Las Cruces, were present representing Doheny and Fall, respectively, and W. D. Bryars acted as special master.

Free School Textbooks Urged by Commissioners

Free textbooks should be supplied District public high school students, the District Commissioners declared yesterday in a letter to Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee.

The support of the free textbooks proposal was expressed by the Commissioners in a letter indorsing a pending bill for that purpose which had been referred to them for comment. Their approval of the measure had been expected inasmuch as they have previously gone on record as favoring free textbooks for high school students.

R-101 MAKES LONG FLIGHT DESPITE FOG

Great Dirigible Goes on Trip of 30 Hours' Duration Over Country.

TRIAL JOURNEYS AT END

Cardington, England, Nov. 18 (A.P.). Despite a fog blanket that covered all the midlands and southern section of the British Isles, delayed railway traffic and held ships in port, Britain's great new dirigible R-101 today completed her longest flight since her launching.

Leaving her mooring mast yesterday morning with technical experts and the crew aboard, the airship sailed to Newcastle, in northern England, and then by way of Edinburgh and Glasgow to Belfast in northern Ireland. From Belfast she zigzagged down the Irish Sea, passing over the Isle of Man, Blackpool, Dublin, and Holyhead. She returned home this afternoon by way of Chester and the midlands.

The flight lasted more than 30 hours and was completed without a hitch. Maj. G. H. Scott, commander of the R-101, was enthusiastic over the results. He said that the airship had maintained an average cruising speed of 60 miles per hour and made satisfactory turning trials during the night.

The persons on board rarely glimpsed the ground today because of the fog, and Maj. Scott brought the dirigible home earlier than he had expected in order to reach the mooring mast before darkness added to the difficulties caused by the fog.

Maj. Scott said tonight that "the R-101 has now finished her acceptance trials and any further flights will be for our own information. We all had plenty of sleep on board and a very good meal at noon today. The dinner consisted of soup, roast chicken and bacon, castle pudding, cheese and coffee."

Nobile Men Declared Dead.

Rome, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The six members of the Nobile Arctic expedition of 1928, who were carried away with the bag of the dirigible Italia have been declared legally dead by Italian authorities. This decision is based on the Italian civil code and the provisions of the merchant marine code regarding persons lost at sea.

Officials Halt All Activities In Social Set

Functions Are Canceled Out of Respect for Mr. Good.

By JEAN ELIOT.

SOCIAL activities among the officials in Washington have been practically suspended because of the death of the Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good. The President and Mrs. Hoover have led the way by foregoing all engagements of a social nature and many festivities have been canceled or postponed indefinitely.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams postponed their dinner planned for last night in honor of the chiefs of bureaus of the Navy Department. Brig. Gen. Augusto Villa, Military Attache of the Italian Embassy, has recalled invitations for a luncheon today, planned in honor of the members of the Italian cavalry team which competed in the National Horse Show in New York for the international trophy, and which is making a brief visit in town. Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert Crosby have postponed the reception to the officers of the Cavalry and their wives, which they were to have given tomorrow. The first of the series of Army dances, set for Friday evening at the Willard, has also been postponed out of respect to the Secretary of War. Secretary and Mrs. Good were to have been guests of honor at the ball.

A luncheon arranged by Mrs. Harry S. New for tomorrow in compliment to her guest, Mrs. Parker Hitt, of New York, has likewise been given up. Secretary Good and Mr. New having been old friends and poltical associates. Mrs. Hitt will remain with Mrs. New until the return of Mr. New from a hunting trip in the woods of Michigan.

Although the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, carried through his dinner last evening in honor of the Italian cavalry team, its status was changed by the withdrawal, because of Secretary Good's death, of the group of American officials who had been expected to attend, and the dinner was an embassy family party.

This group included the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, Chief of staff, and Mrs. Summerall; Maj. Herbert B. Crosby, chief of Cavalry, and Mrs. Crosby, Col. H. Stanley Ford, Col. and Mrs. Robert C. Foy, and Col. Guy V. Henry, commandant at Fort Myer, and Mrs. Henry.

Beside the members of the Italian Team, including Col. Francesco Amalfi, commander of the famous Roman Cavalry School; Capt. Alessandro Bettoni, Capt. Francesco Fortunil, Capt. Tomasso Lequio and Capt. Mario Lombardo, the company at the dinner included Count Alberto Marchetti di Muraglio, Gen. Villa, Commander Luigi Notarvartalo di Villarosa, Signor Luciano Mascia, Nobile Carlo Soardi and Signor Eugenio Bornadelli, all of the embassy staff.

Noted Author From Brazil Is Capital Guest

Mrs James I. Miller Is Wife of American News Chief.

Under the typically American name of Mrs. James I. Miller, a distinguished Brazilian novelist and poet, described as "a Latin lady out of a book," is visiting in Washington. She is Rosalino Coelho Lisboe, wife of Mr. James I. Miller, who is vice president of the United Press and its general manager for South America Their home is in Argentina—in Buenos Aires—and Mr. Miller has brought his beautiful young wife to the United States for her first glimpse of his homeland.

After a few days at the Mayflower, they will go to New Yor', whence Mr. Miller will sail shortly for Cuba. But already they have visited California, Kansas, Missouri and other States, spending some time in Chicago, which Mrs. Miller finds the most stimulating city she has yet seen in the United States. New York she finds disturbing from the restlessness of its people, but to her, Chicago best combines the beauty of nature, its marvelous waterfront, with the turmoil of work and the struggle to get somewhere, which, she feels, is the soul of America.

Product of a country where women have been slow in coming into prominence in politics and the professions, Mrs. Miller began writing some seven years ago under a man's name, and her book of poems on "Primitive Brahmanism," which won the prize from the Brazilian Academy of Arts in 1921, was also published under a nom de plume. She has also written charming volumes of essays—"The Evolution of Consciousness," "Collective and Individual Personality" and "Les Desenchantees' Enchantments"—and is now working on a novel, "This Latin Blood," which is to be a study of the clash between American progress and Latin civilization, between the old world of beauty and the new world of strength.

As good to listen to as to look upon, Mrs. Miller contrasts interestingly the civilization of North and South America. She says, "You North Americans do the things you dream. We Latins dream the things we want to do. We accept and understand your standard of progress, but we can not by nature collaborate in it." Her feeling in that the Latin, contrasted to the North American, is an individualist not a collectivist, and that "the individualist may work for the people, but never with the people. The individual must dominate collectivity."

WOMEN who live in apartments with kitchenettes have felt the need of attractive house frocks. They simply must be ready at all times to greet unexpected guests. They realize their appearance must be neat and attractive at all times. They must have morning frocks that have character and look quite as well as a frock one would wear for sports or street.

There is always a certain amount of work one must do where there isn't a maid employed, whether one has a kitchenette or a kitchen, and one must be appropriately dressed.

The Style No. 8102 I'm showing the French couturier has created expressly for morning wear. It has a sportive tailored air and is tubable. It looks like tw.ed, but is simply one of those lovely tweed-like cotton prints that launder beautifully. It is very inexpensive, too. Best of all, it is so easily made.

It is one-piece! The fronts are reversible!

The designer has thought out every line and detail to slenderize the figure. The shawl collar of plain cotton in harmonizing tone is carried down to waistline, where the front of dress fastens with three decorative buttons, to achieve vertical line. At each side of front an inverted plait is inserted to give necessary width and flare to hem. Just above plaits there are jaunty patch pockets. A belt is attached at side front and slips through bound opening, leaving the front of dress in panel effect, which is an excellent idea to give length.

It comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. In the medium size, 3⅜ yards of 40-inch material with ¾ yard of 36-inch contrasting is sufficient.

For sports, it can be made of featherweight tweed or wool jersey in plain or print.

Sports weight linen, pique and novelty rayons smart.

Roosevelt Hotel Sale Is Confirmed

Court Approves Purchase by Wardman Company; No Price Cited.

Sale of the Roosevelt Hotel to the Wardman Realty & Trust Co. was confirmed yesterday by Justice Alfred A. Wheat in District Supreme Court. No price was cited in the order.

The sale follows two applications for receivership recently filed in the court by the Wardman Co., on one hand, and a group of stockholders in the Roosevelt Hotel Operating Co., on the other. The Wardman Co. set out that it was the holder of a third deed of trust on the real estate and all personal property of the hotel.

In the original Wardman petition it was set out that there was a first deed of trust of $900,000; a second deed of trust of $783,000 and the third blanket trust for $254,000. Hubert R. Quinter and Henry J. Robb, trustees, were instructed in the court order to turn deeds to the property over to the Wardman Co.

$100,000 Donated To Education Unit

Julius Rosenwald Fund Is Given to Fund for Research Work.

The Julius Rosenwald Fund has donated $100,000 to be used in the compilation of information for the national advisory committee on education; it was announced yesterday by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, who appointed the committee last summer to work out a rational and complete program for the Federal Government in the field of education.

Secretary Wilbur also announced that Dr. Henry Suzzallo, of the Carnegie Foundation, had accepted the directorship of this research. He will come to the Capital at once to take charge of the work.

A portion of the committee's work is to study the possibilities of the use of radio in education. The group includes 51 educators and is headed by Dr. Charles R. Mann, director of the American Council of Education.

EIELSON'S AIRPLANE WRECKS IN ARCTIC

of Eielson or Mechanician Borland was received.

Pilot Frank Dorbandt, with another cabin plane, broke an ankle in an attempt to take off from Teller with a heavy load of gasoline to fly on a rescue mission. Repairs were being made to his plane while the arrival of another Alaska Airways plane was awaited.

A blizzard was raging at Teller and Nome today and the conditions were regarded as serious.

Eielson, who is a veteran pilot of the North, won international fame when he and Sir George Hubert Wilkins flew over the uncharted "blind spot" of the Arctic from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen.

He and Dorbandt each had made one trip from the Alaskan mainland to the trading ship Nanuk, which is frozen in the ice near North Cape, Arctic Siberia.

They had brought back six persons who were aboard the Nanuk, and a fortune in furs. It was expected six more trips would be necessary to bring all the passengers aboard the Nanuk and the remainder of the furs to safety.

Among the passengers aboard the Nanuk is Marion Swenson, 17-year-old daughter of Olaf Swenson, who went into the Arctic on her father's ship to seek adventure.

Fears that the Nanuk would meet the fate of another Swenson trading schooner, the Elsif, which was crushed by ice last spring, was expressed here.

Another vessel, the Soviet ice breaker Stavrapool, is frozen in not far from the Nanuk. The wireless of the vessel is the only means of communication in the region, as the inhospitable Siberian coast is inhabited only by wandering Eskimo tribes.

U. S. Dry Pleas Sent Parliament Members

London, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Someone in America is trying to win the British Parliament over to the cause of prohibition. During the week-end postal officials of the House of Commons received six mail bags from the United States containing pamphlets entitled "The Booze Fighters."

Bundles of these publications, all addressed to individual members, were properly delivered but no comment by members was forthcoming tonight.

102 PATIENTS SAVED AS HOSPITAL BURNS

Dr. "Brick" Muller and Staff Rush Them Beyond Reach of X-Ray Flames.

PHONE OPERATOR JUMPS

San Francisco, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—One hundred and two patients in the University of California Hospital here were rushed to other buildings for safety today after an explosion in the X-ray department, on the third floor, started a fire that did several thousand dollars damage.

The only casualty reported was Miss Juanita Costenborder, 22, telephone operator, who leaped from a third-floor window after sounding telephone warnings throughout the building and calling the fire department. She injured an ankle.

There were 216 patients in all in the hospital, but more than half of them were left undisturbed in wings of the hospital not considered endangered. The entire equipment of the San Francisco fire department answered the alarm and the situation was cleared up in a comparatively short time. The blaze was confined to corridors and four rooms.

The fire started in the X-ray examination room, possibly from some piece of apparatus. The greatest loss was to equipment there.

Since the recent X-ray disaster in Cleveland all films except those in immediate use had been stored elsewhere in the hospital in a specially prepared room. This change may have averted a really serious fire.

The patients rescued by Dr. Harold Muller, physician in charge at the time of the fire, and his staff included three incubator babies. Dr. Muller is the former football star, "Brick" Muller, who won national fame on the gridiron prior to his graduation from the University of California in 1923.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Homes, offices and factories in scattered sections of Hartford were shaken by slight earth tremors at about 3:40 o'clock this afternoon. The tremor lasted more than a minute and in the northwestern section of the city a second tremor was felt a short time after the first had passed. No damage was reported though it was said that electric lights flickered momentarily during the spell in the downtown section of the city.

Rumford, Me., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A distinct earth shock lasting about 1 minute at about 3:40 o'clock this afternoon shook the mills of the Oxford Paper Co. and the Continental Paper & Bag Mill Corporation so severely that work was stopped for a few minutes.

Rumbling Is Heard.

South Paris, Me., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A very heavy earth shock was felt here at 3:37 p. m. today with continued rumbling. Buildings were shaken and some were reported to have swayed sufficiently to cause inmates to run into the streets. It was very dark at the time and raining. The ground was white with snow which preceded the rain.

Springfield, Mass., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A sharp earthquake shock was felt in several parts of this city at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon. The trembling was strong enough to cause furniture to move slightly and to make chandeliers swing markedly. No reports of damage were received.

Truro, Nova Scotia, Nov. 18 (A.P.). One of the worst earth tremors ever felt in Nova Scotia occurred here at 4:35 p. m. (3:35 Eastern standard time), lasting over three minutes. Buildings were badly shaken and people rushed into the streets to learn the cause. Dishes in many homes were shaken off shelves and doors were knocked off their hinges.

Severe in Nova Scotia.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 17 (A.P.).—Nova Scotia was shaken by the most severe earthquake in its history this afternoon. So violent was the shock that the indicator on the seismograph at Dalhousie University jumped the recording paper. Dr. H. L. Bronson, of the university, said nothing so severe ever had been recorded previously by the instrument. Houses rocked in Halifax, but no serious damage had been reported an hour after the disturbance. The shocks were felt throughout the province.

New York, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—New York was slightly shaken by an earthquake this afternoon. For about twenty seconds, beginning about 3:40 o'clock, residents felt trembling of buildings in various parts of the city and heard dishes rattle.

Similar reports were received from Westchester, Queens and from New Jersey. No reports of damage were received, but many persons distinctly felt the waves.

Saar Conference Begins Thursday.

Paris, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Announcement was made today that Franco-German negotiations concerning the economic and political states of the Saar Valley would begin here on Thursday.

Couple, Wed 78 Years, Tell How to Find Married Bliss

Walk "Straight and Narrow Path" After Ceremony, Says Husband, Centenarian; Choose Only Man You Love, Is Advice of Wife, 98.

Columbus, Ga., Nov 18 (A.P.).—Expressing opposition to companionate marriage, divorce, bobbed hair, short skirts, prohibition and petting parties, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Blackmar, believed to be the oldest married couple in the world, today observed their seventy-eighth wedding anniversary.

The husband, who has lived an even century, and the wife, who is two years his junior, look forward to several years more companionship.

Blackmar said that to be happily married a young man must "be judicious in his selection of a wife, know the young lady well and form a correct judgment of her and then after marriage keep in the narrow path prescribed in vows taken at the altar." Mrs. Blackmar advised young women about to be married to be "influenced only in her choice of a husband by her love and respect for him. A marriage for money or position in life does not bring happiness. A woman must regard, love and respect her husband if she is to contribute her share to marital bliss."

The aged wife believes "it makes no difference whether the word 'obey' is left in the marriage ceremony. A woman will do as she pleases about obeying her husband anyway."

As for companionate marriage and other "evils" of the jazz age, both agreed these things would "wear themselves out before long."

From 6 to 6:30 o'clock tonight a message from the couple was broadcast from radio station WDAF, Kansas City.

La Guardia Bill Would Aid Press

Measure to Give Protection to Reporters Keeping Confidences.

Representative La Guardia (Republican), of New York, yesterday introduced in the House a bill to protect newspaper reporters in keeping confidential the sources of their information.

La Guardia's bill is even broader than the bill introduced for the same purpose by Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, last week.

The New Yorker's bill not only would excuse reporters from disclosing the source of their information when appearing before local Federal courts, but when appearing before Federal courts anywhere in the country. Like Capper's bill, it also would protect reporters when they appeared before congressional committees.

It would cost you more than $1,500 to send a letter to each person who buys The Washington Post every day to reach them with a large size ad in this newspaper would cost you only a fraction of a cent per person a revolutionizing Motor Oil, a new principle and a Challenge

Announcing

the Challenge

Several years ago, the exclusive North American patent rights on the Germ Process were acquired by this Company. It was evolved and patented by two British scientists after exhaustive chemical and physical laboratory tests.

Germ Process oils were revolutionary in that they met every requirement, through special characteristics, for each type of internal combustion motor. These scientists, by the Germ Process, eradicated the prevalent weaknesses existent in motor oils regardless of their base.

This Company has made innumerable laboratory and road tests, under every conceivable conditions, over the past seven years, and we are now prepared to state definitely that your motor oil problem is solved by the Germ-Processed Motor Oils.

By comparison, our tests prove that the "Germ Essence" creates the only safe motor oil under all conditions and at all times operates at the highest obtainable efficiency.

We are now prepared to meet any challenge of competitors. I confidently believe that Conoco Germ-Processed Paraffin Base Motor Oils are superior to any other motor oils made from any crude by any process.

More than twenty thousand outlets are now prepared to offer to the public such a motor oil for the discriminating buyer, and for a technical problem which has always been recognized but not solved until now.

J. J. Moran President,
CONTINENTAL OIL COMPANY

Here are our Claims for Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil— Check against the oil you are now using

1 Under the Germ patents . . . . exclusive to CONOCO for North America . . . . there is imparted to CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil an "oiliness" which is responsible for its greater lubricating value, greater film strength, greater penetrativeness, greater adhesiveness, greater tenacity, greater permanence, greater stability, greater stamina and a more nearly perfect compression seal than any other oil on the American market. Because of this affinity for metal—this actually combining with the metal itself, CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil never leaves the bearings. Where other oils drain out and leave the surface dry, Germ-Processed oil penetrates the metal surfaces, forming a film that adheres for months. This "carry-over" film—this always present film gives ample lubrication to all parts needing it when a cold motor is started, until such time as oil from the crank case can reach them.

2 This remarkable and exclusive feature of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil is reinforced by the fact that these oils are refined from only carefully selected paraffin base crudes by the most modern and scientific methods known to the petroleum technologist. Patented processes are used to remove all objectionable elements, leaving a perfectly balanced, stable product that is 100% lubricating oil. Thousands of tests demonstrate its remarkable resistance to corrosion.

The majority of motor oils never receive this degree of refining. None ever exceed it.

3 Increased gasoline mileage and improved motor performance are realized through the use of this new oil. The exclusive CONOCO Germ Process so adds to the "oiliness" of this lubricant that metal-against-metal friction is eliminated, even in motor starting after all oil ordinarily would have drained from the motor into the crankcase. The perfect sealing qualities of the CONOCO fracture-proof film insures a high compression efficiency that results in greatly increased motor performance. Marked improvements in power, speed, acceleration and flexibility are noticeable.

4 Due to the Germ Process and the select, premium, paraffin base crude stocks used, CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil positively does not break down under the most intense cylinder wall heat. A climb, high speed, heavy load, temperature extremes—none of these strains cause this oil to heat sufficiently to actually burn, break down or evaporate to any appreciable degree. By comparison with many oils on the market, you may confidently expect a saving in oil consumption up to 50%.

5 Automotive engineers agree that 40% to 60% of all motor wear occurs during the starting period. This destructive wear is definitely reduced by the use of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Ordinary oil, thinned by heat and dilution, drains down past the piston rings when the motor is stopped, leaving little or no protective film. On starting the motor, a considerable time is required for the oil to reach all bearings and working surfaces. Under adverse conditions, such as winter temperatures, this time may be from 15 to 20 minutes or even longer.

Since CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil never leaves the bearings and working surfaces, it is always there under any and all conditions to provide needed lubrication until the normal supply of oil arrives.

6 Unlike other oils, dilution does not impair the "oiliness" value of CONOCO Germ-Processed Motor Oil.

What D'ye Mean? "Go Back to Work!"

At 3 in the morning William H. Vanderbilt is pulled out of bed by an annoying reporter. "The public has a right to this interview," insists the reporter, as Mr. Vanderbilt grouchily refuses to talk.

"The public be damned at 3 in the morning," he roars, and "the public be damned" (without reference to the hour) has rattled down the years as typifying the attitude of that business generation toward legitimate public interest.

How we do love catch phrases!

RIGHT NOW another phrase bids fair to seize public fancy. "Show's over, boys! Let's get back to work!"

A colorful expression, implying a colorful situation: 120,000,000 mad people, throwing themselves with gay abandon into a spree of speculation. "Whoop 'er up, boys; we won't go home 'til morning!"

Then the chilly dawn, and . . . . "Let's all get back to work!"

• • • • • •

But is it true that all we have to show for 1929 is a bumper crop of headaches? Is it true that we haven't already been at work?

Where, for instance, did our 48,000,000 tons of steel production come from, if everybody dropped work to scramble for easy shekels? Did all this steel—more than the country ever before produced in ten months—just scrape itself together, roll itself into rails and rods, bars and beams? And someone labored to put it to use.

How did the railroads manage to hang up an all-time record in the cars of freight handled—45,000,000 in ten months—if everybody had his eyes glued on the tape?

Who made the 4,650,000 automobiles that came from American factories—300,000 more than were built in all of 1928, our previous banner year?

How did aviation build itself up to its present impressive proportions? How did electrical equipment reach the greatest production level in more than ten years? Who sowed and harvested our 60,000,000 acres of wheat; our 98,000,000 acres of corn? Who sold the $10,000,000,000 in insurance policies we have bought since January 1; who took the contracts and did the work for $5,000,000,000 of building construction?

And the ever-increasing efficiency? Men at desks must have been concentrating on the main job.

Perhaps we have let our hopes get a little the better of us in some directions. Having witnessed a few of the miracles of modern business, perhaps some had begun to think that life was the delightfully simple process of taking rabbits from a hat . . . . and waxing fat on rabbit pie.

But even as the performance reached its fascinating climax, there must have been a few hands left on the levers of production. In fact, when you view it squarely, our showing surpasses many a year when there was no sideshow at all.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

The Professional Players present "Death Takes a Holiday," a dramatic fantasy by Walter Ferris, based on a play of the same title from the Italian by Alberto Casella, with Philip Merivale. Directed by Lawrence Marston. Setting by Rollo Wayne.

With no stretch of the word or its meaning, epic may be applied as a safe adjective to the play now occupying th aencient boards of the Belasco Theater—a strange, even weird, fantasy parading under the cloak, "Death Takes a Holiday."

A story of heroic proportions, an idea of excellent gradeur, translated to the stage in distinguished style, the unusual thematic content of this play really reaches standards set by Aristotle for the essentials of an epic poem: a dignified theme, an organity unity, and an orderly progress of action.

There is no living, breathing, mortal man or woman who, acquainted with this work, will gainsay the fact that the Italian author, Alberto Casella, failed to follow in the Dantean footsteps. Certainly, Castella selected a dignified theme. Death takes a three-day vacation. As an experiment, he stalks into the castle of a duke and there, before that terrified man, makes arrangements for his disguise. He shakes off his cerement for the attire of a prince, senses with the heart-throbs of humanity, experiences love and its hindred emotions, while the world waxes on in a spree of cosmic springtome. Death on a holiday, nothing can die. Now that, me heartles, is an idea—and a thought beautiful beyond words. If only something, more than a play, could be done about it.

Walter Ferris is the man who took his pen in hand and shaped the American play, which had its premiere last night, after the original blue-prints of Casella, the Italian playwright. The organic unity is preserved and kept to a smooth-running continuity. Seldom one moment when the action lapses. If there is, it passes in the excitement of a rendition when actors and auditors are all on the qui vive, when it seems as if an entire house has become enchanted by the magnificence of magicsy. Death as a human in the great hall of a castle, his true identity unbeknownst to all save one—the paterfamilias. This, too, is the orderly progress of the action, the third great point for an epic, according to the Aristotlian doctrine; that the story flows on to dramatic points.

So, taking into account the rst fabrics of the fantasy, a play directed with admirable tact and discretion by an old stager, Lawrence Marston, with a superb setting by Rollo Wayne, "Death Takes a Holiday" comes to life at the hands of the actors.

Now these actors, assembled here under the new trade name of the Professional Player, bring a touch of art to the theater. They are not newcomers, by any means; some old troupers being amongst them, though most of them are, forsooth, in their early careers.

There is, first and foremost, Philip Merivale, who in the guise of his serene highness, Prince Sirki, of Vitalba Alexandria, is none other than the Grim Reaper himself—on a holiday. He visits, by his own wish and design, the comfortable and costly domicile of Duke Lambert, played with a warmth of feeling by a sterling star in his own right, James Dale. As a matter of fact, it remains for Mr. Dale to sound the depths of his artistry in order to keep the balance playing between his role and that of Mr. Merivale's. The two of them, thus co-starring, really bring out the clash and conflict between death and life.

There is a good deal of allegory running in the veins of "Death Takes a Holiday"—and it is exhibited in several startling instances by a company of players well attuned to the sensitiveness of the drama. This, really, is a high lark in the theater; this fantastic fashioning of a play around an almost verboten theme; for, after all, who wants to meet this man face to face? Since he has arrived, however, with the impulse to take on worldly experiences, to scale the heights of pleasure and plumb the depths of pain, it naturally follows that he falls in love. Therein is the crux of the drama—Death in love with Life.

No mere summary of the play, "Death Takes a Holiday," will do it justice. No attempt to set in cold type any reactions experienced from a contemplation of its beauty will suffice to fire the imagination; for this is one of those seldom acclaimed performances that must be seen to be appreciated. Even then there are moments when its overwhelming power is liable to grip the beholder in a strange grasp and cause a gasp; for there is precious little comedy extant in a fantasy built round such a spiritual as this, the week-end visit of an unwelcomed guest.

An enthusiastic audience filed out of the portals of a theater last night knowing they had seen a play the like of which had not been dreamed of in all the history of theatricals. There have been near approaches to the grand idea, true, but not in this manner. Here is the unusual in the theater.

SMITH FIRM AGREES TO GIVE JURY BOOKS

BITTER STRUGGLE ENDS

Abandoning its opposition to turning its records over to the District of Columbia grand jury, the F. H. Smith Co. yesterday, through Attorney George Horning, jr., notified Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, that the records would be produced when needed. The company was subpenaed to have the records ready for the grand jury's inspection today, but due to the fact that the McPherson investigation is under way and the Scrivener investigation is to follow immediately, it is unlikely that the records will be needed by the grand jury before the 1st of December.

The decision of the Smith company to abandon its opposition to subpenas culminates an intensive fight in which every effort was made to keep the records from the grand jury. At first subpenas were issued in the case of the United States vs. John Doe. These were attacked on the ground that the company should know against whom information was being sought. Then the Government issued subpenas in the case of the United States vs. G. Bryan Pitts, president of the company, who already is under indictment on a charge of perjury in connection with the Hamilton Hotel Corporation bankruptcy. This also was attacked on the grounds that the records are too bulky to move and that their absence from the business house would hamper business.

The Government fought both opposing moves with sensation charges. After a lengthy hearing before Justice William Hitz in the District Supreme Court, the company was ordered to produce the records in the case of the United States vs. G. Bryan Pitts. The judge took under advisement the legal questions in the case of the subpenas issued in the investigation of John Doe.

Since then additional subpenas have been issued, with Frederick N. Zihlman, chairman of the District committee of the House of Representatives; Daniel Crissinger, former comptroller of the currency; R. Golden Donaldson, banker and former attorney for the Smith Co., and others being drawn into the investigation.

Youth, 17, Admits Stabbing Brother

Killing Takes Place Before Mother During Quarrel at Breakfast.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Nov. 18 (A.P.). John Kipper, jr., 27, was stabbed to death today in the presence of his mother. His 17-year-old brother, William, was arrested later and police said that the lad, red-eyed from weeping, readily admitted that he had killed John in a quarrel that started at the breakfast table.

Young Kipper was killed instantly by a kitchen knife being plunged into his heart. The mother, Mrs. Margaret Kipper, the only witness, was too prostrated to tell details of the trouble. William Kipper, who was held on a charge of murder, would not discuss it, except to say his mother had taken him to task for being out late Sunday night and he and John had quarreled when the latter took the mother's part.

John Kipper was a night club employe and police said that William had just returned from a reformatory at Terre Haute, where he had been sent at the instance of his father, employe of a local foundry, who had been unable to control him. The father had left for work this morning before the killing took place.

School Teacher Beaten, Discovered in Cellar

Fond du Lac, Wis., Nov. 18 (A.P.). Beaten about the head and body and in a semiconscious condition, Miss Clementina Keys, 20-year-old school teacher, was found in a basement in her school at Empire, near here, today.

When pupils arrived at the school this morning, the building was open but Miss Keys could not be found. Search was instituted and she was found in the basement room. Miss Keys had received several threatening letters demanding that she resign, friends said. For two years several factions have been quarreling regarding the school. Authorities endeavored to connect the writer of the letters with the attack on the teacher.

Four Women Are Killed In Crash at Crossing

Harrisburg, Ill., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Four women were killed at a railroad crossing at Texas City, 10 miles north of here, today when a Big Four train struck their automobile. The dead are Mrs. John Foster and Mrs. Frank Blackard, both of Hazelridge, Ill; Mrs. Jane Pankey, of Harrisburg, and Miss Pauline Graves, of Gossett.

The four women were en route to the funeral of A. J. Bruce, a relative, when the train struck their small touring car and carried it for some distance. Miss Graves was driving. Mrs. Blackard was a daughter of Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Pankey was a sister of the latter.

Slayer of Four Found Guilty in Boy's Death

Paintsville, Ky., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Dennis Saylor, alleged slayer of four persons, was convicted in Johnson Circuit Court here today after trial of the first of four indictments against him. The jury fixed his punishment at 18 years' imprisonment.

The killings occurred in a remote section April 20 after a discussion of a school election, during which, it was testified, considerable moonshine liquor was consumed. The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Gibson, their son, Bennie, 14, and Wallace Hannah. The conviction was for the killing of the boy. The jury deliberated three days before reaching a verdict.

Woman Seeking Doctor Shot Dead by Deputy

Wewoka, Okla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Mrs. Emma Van Noy, 52, was instantly killed last night by a shot through a door when she went to the home of Jack Campo, Seminole County deputy sheriff, to seek aid in locating a doctor.

Campo, said to be a former Texas ranger and a former deputy sheriff of Carter County, Okla., under the late "Buck" Garrett, was held in the county jail here today while an investigation was being made by the county attorney's office. Campo said he fired believing his visitor to be a robber, after Mrs. Van Noy had failed to reveal her identity.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

WESTERN UNION and the long-distance phone are the speedy conveniences by virtue of which I am able to announce, upon what is looked upon as unimpeachable authority, that the last of the Loew-Publix unit shows will play Washington—meaning the Palace Theater—not later than the week of December 20. The last unit to be seen in the Capital, so I am informed, will be "The Anniversary Show," in which Dave Rubinoff is master of ceremonies as well as conductor of the pit orchestra and presiding factotum of the proceedings in general.

Contrary to earlier rumors that have floated listlessly around in the early autumn air, the Loew-Publix units, according to my well-posted but remote informant, will not be transferred to any other Washington theater, but will be definitely discontinued here, their place on the Palace bills to be occupied by I know not what as yet.

In anticipation of this proposed action, Al Evans, master of ceremonies at the Palace these last fourteen weeks or so, will terminate his local engagement on November 29, and report to New York for an assignment to open a new Loew house of the first rank. If this is news to Al, who only recently assured me that to the best of his knowledge he was to be here from now on, the fact that I personally shall regret his departure will not be.

In view of the impending discontinuance of the unit shows, I am given to believe that a new permanent master of ceremonies will not be appointed to the Palace, but that for the time being each of the remaining units will carry its own master of ceremonies. This is in line with other reports I have heard that the project of rotating masters of ceremonies with the individual units was under consideration.

At any rate, that is the way the thing is sketched to me and I am passing the tracing on to you.

There must have been a rough crowd of hoodlums in the balcony at the Fox yesterday afternoon. Over the dinner hour last evening my phone was rung more than once by annoyed patrons whose pleasure had been seriously marred by the apparently unprovoked rowdyism of a gallery claque that completely drowned out John Irving Fisher's announcement of the last act of the Fanchon and Marco "California Capers" and for the nonce ruined the entertainment for those seated in the orchestra. They wanted to know if something couldn't be done about it in this morning's column.

This seems to be all I can do about it, but the police used to have a trifle more efficacious method of dealing with such disturbances that it might be well for the Fox management—and all the others in town, too, for that matter—to invoke.

Through the courtesy of Mr. John E. Birdsell, secretary, I have been privileged to read his comments upon a recent Sunday lead published by this department of The Post, printed in The Washington Musician, the official organ of the Musicians' Protective Union, Local 161, A. F. of M., of which he is editor.

It is a source of disappointment that Mr. Birdsell should have concerned himself more with establishing the fact that this department is not the appointed mouthpiece of any person or group antagonistic to the interests of his organization than with the refutation of such of our statements as he deems prejudicial to its progress and welfare. It is, too, distressing that the title under which our piece for the paper was published was so completely misinterpreted and warped in meaning and intent—although that might easily have been more our fault than Mr. Birdsell's.

However, his remarks do embody the customary amount of personal vilification and the usual number of threats.

It begins to look as if they are organizing a stock company to play all of the college talking-singing-dancing-football pictures. Stanley Smith, a clean cut young fellow whose screen acquaintance I do not recall having made before, is cast as leading juvenile—which, since they are all juveniles in the cast is equivalent to leading man—in both "The Sophomore," at the Rialto, and "Sweetie," at the Palace. Stuart Erwin, a comedian who has not been much in view of late either, also appears in both pictures, getting much the better break in the frolic at the Palace.

These aged, and tired eyes are not quite so unreliable as I'd thought. When I surmised in the Monday review of "Sweetie" that Betty Keene, former Washington favorite, was a member of Boris Petroff's "They're Off" unit, providing the stage diversion, I would not have given you better than 11 to 10 that I was right. Returning to the office after a considerable absence last evening, I found a note on my desk from Betty thanking me for the mention.

To refresh your memory, Betty Keene was the tiniest, the blondest and the most vivacious of the original Alexander Oumansky ballet at the local Fox Theater, and earned almost the prominence of a stage principal by conscientious hard work and an infectious smile.

If you have a good musical ear and a retentive memory, there is a fine chance to win a valuable prize out at the Ambassador Theater, Eighteenth street and Columbia road, this week. A "music memory contest" is being held and prizes aggregating some $300 in value are to be distributed to the lucky contestants at the end of the week. The winners, I believe, are to be announced at 7 p. m. next Monday evening through Station WOL.

Before the presentation of the feature picture a group of selections will be played. The names of the selections are to be written down by the members of the audience. At the end of the week those whose lists are most nearly correct will be suitably rewarded.

In case of doubt, I suggest that you write down "Tiptoe Through the Tulips," "Singing in the Rain," or "Breakaway." You never hear them any more—much!

May be my luck is changing. Just as I was getting ready to go under the knife the surgeon slipped and sprained his knee!

Two Are Drowned In Alabama Flood

Toll Mounts in Spite of Predictions That Most of Danger Is Past.

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The death toll of high water in Alabama had increased to two today despite predictions by Government authorities that danger to residents and damage to lands from streams was practically passed with the advent of clear weather.

The body of Fred Drakeman, 49 years old, was found on a barn roof near Athens, not far distant from his home, where it had lodged. He had drowned, authorities said, in the high waters of the Tennessee River. R. L. Nathan, prominent attorney of the Muscle Shoals District, drowned in the Tennessee River several days ago. His body has not been recovered.

The State's major streams had dropped considerably today with the advent of clear and colder weather. The Alabama at Montgomery, which offered the most serious threat of all the State's streams, rose at the rate of only .3 of a foot an hour today. All fears of danger from high water to lowland residents was believed past by Government observers.

The Warrior River, at Tuscaloosa, another of the major streams, was reported falling.

Bullet Riddled Bodies Are Discovered by Party of Searchers.

Texarkana, Tex., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The bullet-riddled bodies of two brothers, Arthur and Lee Madison, were found late today in an abandoned well near Artex, Ark., 13 miles east of here.

The bodies were found by a searching party organized by relatives after the brothers had been missing for nearly two weeks. They lived 7 miles east of here in Miller County, Ark.

Shortly after the bodies were recovered two suspects, a man and a woman, were arrested at the man's home, located 2 miles from the Madison residence. The man had served a year in the Arksnsas Penitentiary on a liquor charge. He was 35 years old. The woman, 20 years old, was said to be a sweetheart of the man. Officers expected further arrests. They believed moonshine activities in Miller County a motive for the shooting.

Consistory to Name Cardinals.

Vatican City, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Pope Pius probably will hold a secret consistory December 16 and a public consistory December 19 for the creation of new cardinals. The public consistory is expected to be of exceptionally solemn character, the bestowal of the red hats taking place in St. Peter's instead of the Vatican.

SURVEY OF CAPITAL POWER NEEDS MADE

THREE PERMITS ASKED

Preparatory to making its report to Congress on the applications for preliminary permits in connection with proposed power site developments at Great Falls on the Potomac River, the Federal Power Commission is now making an economic survey of the electrical power needs in Washington and its environs.

Owing to the thoroughness of the survey, the commission's report probably will not be completed when the regular session of Congress convenes December 2, but it is expected to be submitted soon after the first of the year.

A divergence of opinion exists concerning the proposed hydroelectric development at Great Falls. Reports made by Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, former chief of the Army Engineers, and Maj. Brehon Somervell, district engineer for the War Department, favor the granting of a preliminary permit, while it is opposed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which favors acquisition for Government development.

Three applications, all seeking permission to explore the possibilities of developing power at Great Falls, are now pending before the Federal Power Commission. The applicants are the Potomac River Corporation, the South Branch Power Co., and Stineman & Quick of Baltimore.

Congress has directed that the Federal Power Commission grant no permit affecting Great Falls until it has submitted a report on the whole water power development program.

Pedestrian Shot in Thigh.

While walking near his home yesterday, James Perry, colored, 35 years old, of 1914 Temperance avenue northwest, was shot in the left thigh by an unidentified man. He was treated at Freedmen's Hospital. His condition was reported not serious.

Aerial Kidnaping Story Wins Woman Divorce

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.). Swooping down from the sky, Basil L. Ferguson wrote new aviation history when he staged the first aerial kidnaping on record, according to the story his estranged wife, Mrs. Virginia Ferguson, told Superior Judge Owen in court here today. She was granted a divorce.

According to the wife, Ferguson brought his plane to a spectacular landing in a vacant field adjoining the yard in which their 5-year-old son, Gene, was at play, sesized the child and soared away into the skies.

The aerial kidnaping occurred in a nearby town, and Ferguson flew with the boy to Los Angeles, the wife avers. For many hours she sought to locate the youngster, who had been so unexpectedly swept into the sky, and when she finally did so, the father returned him to her without protest, she said.

Left Wing Party Split May Bring New Election

Berlin, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Berlin municipal elections yesterday kept the left wing parties numerically in control of the city government; but as the Communists and Social Democrats are at daggers drawn they have little chance of getting a working majority and new elections generally are expected. The Social Democrats and Communists group 123 seats between them, against a total of 105 for the six other parties represented.

Another coalition of the Social Democrats and the center parties against the extremists on both wings, who were the principal gainers yesterday, probably will be constituted. But even the coalition will have a rocky road to travel.

Mexico Accepts Election Quietly

Vasconcelos Shows No Intent So Far to Carry Out Rebellion Threat.

Mexico City, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Mexico accepted quietly today the results of the national elections of yesterday in which Paschal Ortiz Rubio was elected president. In marked contrast to the disorders attending the voting in which 19 persons were killed and more than 50 injured, the celebrations today by members of the national revolutionary party passed off quietly.

An indication of the sweeping victory of the government party was shown in incomplete returns from the federal district which gave Ortiz Rubio 166,074 votes while Jose Vasconcelos, his antireelectionist party rival, polled only 2,580. Vasconcelos so far has shown no intention of carrying out his preelection threat to declare himself president of the republic even if the polling went against him.

Although clashes had been frequent, they in no case grew into a general outbreak. The thoroughness of preparations by the authorities, who kept the entire army on call throughout yesterday, was believed to have been responsible for preventing any more serious troubles.

10 Condemned by Soviet.

Sukham, Caucasia, Nov. 18 (A.P.). Ten Kulaks or rich peasants have been condemned to death for anti-Soviet agitation, profiteering, and opposing the government's grain collection campaign. A number of others were sentenced to imprisonment for from three to ten years.

Shopping with Bab

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

In the whirl of social events, it is difficult to take time for shopping, so perhaps it will help you a little to glance through this letter to see where best to buy certain things. The shops at the moment show an unusually splendid assortment of merchandise of every kind. Christmas things are beginning to appear in a fascinating variety, although Thanksgiving festivities more or less absorb our attention for the next ten days. Have you seen the unusual Thanksgiving favors which one of our favorite caterers displays at this time? They are worth investigating.

Time for Christmas Photographs Is Here

—that is the time has come when you must make your appointment and have your sittings, then after that you can decide on what pictures you want and how many.

Underwood & Underwood do a perfectly tremendous amount of business in Christmas portraiture. They urge, however, that all who can conveniently do so have their sittings made at an early date, as the best work can be assured in that way.

The very attractive price of $20 a dozen attracts any one who has a large number of pictures to give. The work on these is so superior that you would be proud to give them to your best friend. This price picture can be made only in the studio. For your home portraits you will want to order another type of finished picture.

Let me urge you strongly to have your Christmas pictures made right away. You must not wait until the big rush begins.

Thanksgiving Festivities Demand New Frocks

—for all the many occasions incident to that holiday. It is quite apt to be cold and wintry, so you must be ready with a warm, furry coat for the football game. Then, you will need two or three evening gowns, especially if you are going away for that week-end.

In Pasternak's, 1219 Connecticut avenue, yesterday, it seemed as though every one in town was busily engaged in selecting a wardrobe for the Thanksgiving week-end.

Pasternak's have everything to choose from in attire for every time of day or evening—the most stunning evening coats and wraps, chic hats, furs, day frocks and suits. Do go in today and see them.

Sunny Rooms at The Martinique Hotel

—make it one of the most livable and attractive places to live you have ever seen. This is the sort of hotel which people choose to live in permanently. Monthly rates are available, both for the suites and the cafe. Army and Navy families like it because it is conveniently located, not far from the Army and Navy Club, and in every way the sort of thing they like.

The service at The Martinique is excellent, and the atmosphere so dignified and at the same time homey. Mr. H. H. Cummings, the manager, has the gift of making people comfortable and also of surrounding himself with a capable staff of assistants. The Martinique, Sixteenth street at M. Telephone Potomac 6000.

With So Many Parties Coming On

—with the advent of Thanksgiving, you will be glad to know where you can order the most delicious sandwiches made up and sent directly to your house at the time you want them.

Pastry Shop Sandwiches, are famous for the dainty way they are made and wrapped and for the toothsome contents. Pastry Shop Sandwiches may now be ordered at 806 Seventeenth street. Elsie Pierce Lotions At Robert-of-Paris —have been added to the many reasons why this is the favorite beauty salon of hundreds of fastidious women.

When I went in the beautiful new salon of Robert-of-Paris, 1514 Connecticut avenue, yesterday morning I spied some familiar looking violet jars, in an inviting row in the show case, and verified my suspicions that they were the well-known beauty preparations of Elsie Pierce, the wonderful Neroli Skin Tonic, Preserving Cream, Cleansing Cream and all the other aids which make it easy to retain one's beauty.

So, you may now have the privilege of an Elsie Pierce facial, with the delightful preparations which through their superiority, have become such a vogue. Call Robert-of-Paris and make an appointment.

If you have not been in to see the interior of the new place, you have a decided treat in store for you. The Modern Art idea has been used throughout, and it is just as attractive as it can possibly be, with oblong recesses set in the walls, rectangular mirrors, soft colorings and other details for an harmonious effect.

The Charm of Antique Woods

—can not be reproduced in new timber. Look at a mellow old piece of early American furniture, and decide what there is about it that thrills you the most. Of course, the simplicity and symmetrical proportions mean a great deal, but these would go for nothing except for the fact that the wood is rich with age, with that half-dulled, wonderful glow which comes only with years and years.

This fact impressed me when I was browsing about in Schuyler & Lounsbery's, 1409 Twentieth street, yesterday. There is a beautiful old table in fruit wood, with such gracefully turned curves, and such mellow lights reflected in its surface, that it is utterly captivating. Perhaps it is a provincial French piece—I can not say as to that—but, at any rate, it is too lovely! There are many pieces to rave about in this delightful house.

Mrs. Lounsbery told me that her greatest joy is in selecting chintzes in rare colorings and reproductions. So many people seem to think, however, that chintzes belong only in a scheme of decoration for summer time. Nothing could be further from the truth. Any room is lovelier for the subtle introduction of some chintz in hangings or upholstering. You must see some of the patterns at Schuyler & Lounsbery's right now.

The Palm Room at The Willard Hotel

has always been one of the favorite rendezvous for those who like lovely settings for their pleasant times. The cozy gardeny look of this attractive restaurant is a joy to the eye on autumn and winter days. The room is subtly lighted, with the tables distributed in such a way that the greatest enjoyment is possible. The Willard Hotel Orchestra plays to suit the mood of the occasion, with an effect of perfect harmony.

Tea dances, dinner and supper dances will shortly be announced for the season. The Willard Hotel is such a center for the social life of the city that it is to be expected that some place for tea and dancing will be provided.

Since the acquisition of Linassier, the attractions of The Willard may be said to have increased immeasurably. This famous chef directs the culinary policies of all the restaurants at the Willard Hotel. If you order a special menu and leave it to Linassier, you will be more than delighted with the result.

For the little in-between parties, the entertaining you plan, which you want to be actually fun, regardless, you will plan for the Palm Room at the Willard either dancing and tea, dancing and dinner, or a jolly late supper-dance.

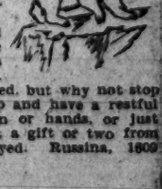
Exquisite Lingerie For Bridal Trousseau

—are not the only things you can find in the shop of Mrs. Dulany, 1901 Que street. Among the other objects of interest are hand-painted bridge tables and screens, beautifully ornamented in copies of old prints. You will like these. But, to return to the subject of lingerie and boudoir accessories which are featured, you will be thrilled to find such lovely things available.

Perhaps you are one of those who say, "Where in the world can you find any pretty French lingerie in town?" If you are, your answer is right here in Mrs. Dulany's, as you will see for yourself on the instant you enter the shop.

You Have Heard Of Russina

—who is spoken of as a leading hair and scalp specialist, but have you tried her famous treatments as I have frequently urged you to do?



Malnutrition and the most stubborn cases of scalp disorders quickly respond to scientific treatment, while the strength and vigor of normal hair is preserved and its appearance immeasurably improved.

The most exacting men and women in Washington have for years enjoyed the benefits of the Russina treatments. Your days are busy and crowded, but why not stop in after a trying shopping trip and have a restful treatment for hair, complexion or hands, or just enjoy a cup of tea, and select a gift or two from the Russian novelties displayed. Russina, 1609 Connecticut avenue.

FEW STOCKS RISE AS TRADING FALLS

Liquidation Sales Fair; Bears Are Inactive; New Dividends.

CREDIT CONTINUES LOW

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—With nerves steadied over the week-end, the stock market was able to absorb a steady but moderate stream of liquidation during today's session without losing its equilibrium. Although a handful of stocks lost from 10 to nearly 20 points, few leading issues declined more than 5 points, and several closed higher.

The volume of trading for the three-hour session was but 2,746,770 shares, and at no time was the ticker more than 20 minutes late. This was the smallest turnover in more than three weeks, and compared with daily sales of from approximately 4,300,000 to 7,700,000 during the preceding four sessions.

The selling appeared to be largely profit taking on the advance late last week. It was notable that distress selling failed to reappear and bearish pressure was light. The daily reports which the stock exchange is still requiring from members showing which of their customers are short of the market, and to what extent, has inspired caution among the professional bears, as has also heavy support orders still underneath the market.

Announces First Member to Fail.

The exchange's prized record of having come through a major selling panic without the failure of a member was spoiled by an anouncement, in the final minutes of trading, that Mandeville, Brooks & Chaffee, of Providence, R. I., was unable to meet its engagement. This house was a comparative newcomer, however, and had practically no customers outside of Rhode Island. The announcement was made too late in the session to be reflected in the action of the market, but Wall street did not regard it as of serious import. Accounts with the firm's New York correspondents were reported well secured.

The day brought forth another assortment of extra or increased dividend declarations, and other developments of a character further to bolster confidence. Studebaker Corporation's marking up of prices, after cuts by several other automobile manufacturers, was particularly reassuring, as were reports of a revival of activity in some of the motor-making centers, particularly Toledo. A further reduction of California crude all production reported for last week was accepted as evidence that crude output is definitely under control.

Credit continued to cheapen, with call money renewing at 5½, and sagging to 5 for the first time this month. In the outside market it loaned as low as 4 per cent. There was little business in time money, but most dealers quoted still lower rates—5½ to 5¾ per cent for all maturities. Bankers' acceptances were in good demand, with the supply limited.

United States Steel closed at 160, off ¼ points, having ranged from 164½ to 159¾. Such shares as American Can, American Telephone, American & Foreign Power, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, New Haven, Eastman Kodak, Montgomery Ward, Public Service of New Jersey, Sears Roebuck, and Republic Steel showed net losses of 2½ to 4½ points. General Electric and Johns-Manville closed about 6 points, after selling off as much as 8. Federal Light & Traction, in a few sales, dropped to 60½, and Allied to close at 70, where it was off 19½. J. I. Case, Auburn Auto, Columbian Carbon and Western Union, all of which are subject to wide movements, closed down 10 to 14 points.

Allied Chemical Strong.

Allied Chemical was strong spot, gaining 14 points. Calumet & Hecla and Hershey Chocolate closed about 7 points higher, and Chesapeake & Ohio, General Foods, Macy, Norfolk & Western, Magma Copper, Devoe & Reynolds and St. Louis-San Francisco were among shares gaining from 1 to 4 points. Studebaker closed up 1¾ points.

Foreign exchanges sagged to the lowest levels in weeks, further removing the prospect of a drain upon New York gold with the lower rediscount rate. The decline was attributed to accumulation of dollar demand over the week-end, and anticipation of a possible lowering of the Bank of England rate this week. Sterling Cables sagged 5-16 of a cent to $4.87 7-16. The Canadian dollar rallied nearly 1-5 of a cent, reducing its premium to 2 cents.

Commodity markets generally eased. Cotton was particularly heavy, influenced by lower prices at Liverpool, and realizing on the advances late last week. Losses in the various positions ran from $1.80 to $1.45 a bale. Wheat futures sagged a cent and more, and wheat nearly as much, on bearish weather and crop reports.

DuPont De Nemours Grants Extra Dividend

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Du Pont de Nemours Co. today declared an extra dividend of 70 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular $1 dividend.

The regular dividend of $1.50 on the debenture stock also was declared.

The regular dividend on the common is payable December 14 and the extra on January 4, both to stockholders of record November 27. The last extra dividend declared on the common was May 20, this year, when 50 cents a share was paid.

Canada's Wheat Crop Shows Huge Increase

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Canada's visible wheat supply on November 15 showed an increase of more than 25,000,000 bushels over that of a year ago.

Where the visible supply of Western wheat on November 15, 1928, was 133,345,485 bushels, it had mounted to 158,886,507 bushels on the same date this year, according to a statistical report issued today by the board of grain commissioners for Canada.

Similar increases in the visible supply of other grains were also noted, with the exception of flaxseed. A decline of half a million bushels was noted in the visible flax supply.

BONDS, RECOVERING CONTINUE ADVANCE

Federal Securities Are at New Peak; Buying Conservative.

EUROPEAN LOANS HIGHER

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The bond market made further progress today toward recovering the losses it suffered during the recent interval of distress selling. Advances were general in domestic corporation loans, while four of the listed United States Government securities touched new 1929 peaks.

Improved credit conditions, reflected in easier money rates, together with an investment from individuals seeking conservative employment for their funds, were factors in the improvement. Time loans were quoted as 5½ per cent for all maturities, and some money brokers believed the rate could be even lower. Call money renewed at 5½ per cent and then dropped to 5, its low for the year.

Trading in obligations of the United States was in small blocks, but the light demand sent first and fourth Liberty 4¼s, as well as the Treasury 3¾s and 3¼s of 1940-43 to new high ground for the year. First grade rails, industrials and utilities showed gains averaging considerably less than a point, but there was some easiness in the secondary carrier loans.

Advances of 1 to 2 points were scattered throughout the domestic list, notably in Armour 5½s and 4½s, Baltimore & Ohio 5s, Central of Georgia 5s, St. Paul 5s and adjustment 5s, Chicago & Western Indiana 5½s, Hudson & Manhattan adjustment 5s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Missouri, Kansas & Texas adjustment 5s, Skelly Oil 5½s, American Smelting 5s, American Writing Paper 5s and Atchison General 4s. Gains of about half a point appeared in numerous high-grade rails. The utilities were rather dull.

Convertibles idled through an irregular session. American Telephone 4½s had a net decline of 4¾, while International Telephone 4½s, after selling 3 points higher, suffered a net loss of 1 point. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s rallied 11½ points from their recent low, but the gain was made on a small turnover. Reading Coal & Iron 6s gained 3¾. Commercial Investment Trust 5½s went to a new low.

Foreign bonds were likewise irregular. Brazilian issues, which have been weak in sympathy with the depressed coffee markets, hardened, but Colombian Agricultural Bank 6s, also affected by the coffee situation, went to new lows on further liquidation. European government loans tended higher.

10 DISTRICT BANKS LIKELY TO COMBINE

Deposits Said to Reach $75,000,000; Report Two Mergers.

SECRECY CLOAKS MOVE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Resumption of a local bank merger project in which six or seven banks with total deposits of between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 are reported concerned, has revived interest in an even larger combine involving ten banks with deposits of $75,000,000, it was learned in local banking circles yesterday.

Satisfactory progress was reported yesterday on the first move which a New York banking house is said to be ready to arrange and which may include two national banks, one or two trust companies and three savings banks.

The other plan contemplates inclusion of three national banks, three trust companies and four savings banks and is regarded as an exclusively local arrangement. None of the large institutions is a party to the latter amalgamation, reports state.

Identity of banks concerned in both prospective mergers is carefully withheld and representatives of several institutions reported affected by them have denied they are considering any consolidation.

Federal Reserve Bank Report.

Summary figures on condition of all member banks October 4, date of the last call, were made public yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board and showed the following comparisons: Loans and investments, $35,914,000,000, were an increase of $203,000,000 for the three months since June 29, the preceding call date, and of $985,000,000 since October 3 of last year. Total loans increased $506,000,000 during the quarter and $1,840,000,000 during the year, while investments in United States Government and other securities declined $304,000,000 during the quarter and $855,000,000 during the year.

Net demand deposits of all member banks on October 4 were $18,952,000,000, a decline of $26,000,000 since June 29 and of $43,000,000 for the year. Member banks in New York City reported a reduction of $248,000,000 in net demand deposits for the quarter, member banks in Chicago an increase of $60,000,000, other reserve city banks a decline of $12,000,000 and country banks an increase of $175,000,000. For the year ended October 4, 1929, member banks in New York City reported an increase of $331,000,000 in net demand deposits, member banks in Chicago a decline of $5,000,000, other reserve city banks a decline of $243,000,000 and country banks a decline of $126,000,000.

Bills payable and rediscounts declined $48,000,000 during the quarter and $4,000,000 during the year. Capital and surplus of all member banks on October 4 was $254,000,000 above the total reported for June 29, 1929, and $715,000,000 above the total reported for October 3, 1928.

The Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities on November 13, showed decreases for the week of $337,00[illegible] in loans and investments, of $195,000,000 in net demand deposits, of $79,000,000 in time deposits and of $42,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks.

Loans on securities also declined $377,000,000 at all reporting banks which showed a net increase of $3,000,000 in all other loans. Holdings of United States Government securities receded $2,000,000 at all reporting banks and holdings of other securities advanced $20,000,000 at all of them.

District Exchange Busy.

The Washington Stock Exchange opened yesterday with unusually heavy trading for an early in the week session, stock turnover mounting to 1,503 shares, or 1,357 in excess of Friday's, closing session of last week. Bond sales volume also continued to ascend, the total of $17,800 representing the sixth advance in as many days and a $1,000 improvement over last week's final session

Capital Traction sold to the extent of 235 shares at a quarter-point recession from 75. Forty-seven shares of Mergenthaler Linotype transferred at fractional advances from 102 and 10 of Lanston Monotype at 110, last sale price, 40 going at 106. Potomac Electric 5s were the bond market leaders, $6,000 trading at 98¼, last sale price.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended November 9 totaled 1,069,475 cars, the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. Due to the usual seasonal decline in freight traffic, this was a reduction of 22,175 cars under the preceding week this year. Freight loading this year, even in the face of the gradual decrease in traffic that develops in the late fall and winter months, are holding up better than for some years back, when larger reductions were reported for the corresponding weeks, compared with the preceding week each of those years than took place this year.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929, compared with the previous year, follows:

Four weeks in January	3,570,973	3,446,895
Four weeks in February	3,767,758	3,590,742
Five weeks in March	4,807,944	4,752,559

Bank Head Resigns.

Resignation of J. William Roberts as manager of the K street branch of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank to become a member of the staff of E. H. Rollins Co. bond house, in the Southern Building, was announced yesterday. Roberts, active in banking circles for ten years, will be succeeded as branch manager by Charles K. West, an assistant cashier at the bank's main office.

Roberts became manager of the branch when the Security Savings & Commercial Bank took over the Central Savings Bank of which he was cashier. He has also been connected with the Home Savings Bank, the American Security & Trust Co., and was with the Panama office of the Commercial National Bank.

Vice President Edward J. McQuade of the Liberty National Bank, will attend the annual stockholders' and directors' meetings of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., in New York this week. Frederick McKenney, of this city, is vice president and general counsel of the company.

A. A. U. FAVORS STARTING BLOCKS, DELAYS ACTION

American Is Floored After Badly Beating Giant Carnera.

LONDON, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, made his European ring debut before the Prince of Wales and 8,000 other fans tonight only to lose on a foul in the fourth round of his 15-round bout with Primo Carnera, huge Venetian carpenter.

Two blows, a left and right, to Carnera's body were ruled foul and Stribling was disqualified amid the booes of the largest crowd that ever saw a fight at Royal Albert Hall.

The referee's action terminated a spectacular fight in which Stribling, outweighed by 95 pounds and handicapped some 8 inches in height, carried the fight to his Italian foe and seemed on his way to an easy victory, probably by a knockout.

Both Knocked Down In Third Round.

The American heavyweight gave Carnera a severe beating about the body in the first two rounds which he won easily. In the third, Stribling connected with a right to the Italian's chin and Carnera went down for a count of 6. In a fury, Carnera got up and swung his left to Stribling's jaw and the American was floored for a count of 9.

The fourth round had barely started when Stribling sent home two solid blows to the body and Carnera went down again. Both were ruled to have landed low and the American was promptly disqualified.

The crowd booed Stribling enthusiastically and shouted and whistled for five minutes before the official decision could be announced. There was some doubt as to whether Stribling had won by a knockout or whether Carnera had been fouled. After some consultation, Stribling was disqualified.

Stribling Believed He Won By Knockout.

The Georgian seemed bewildered, it being plain he thought he had won by a knockout. "Ma" and "Pa" Stribling patted him on the back as he retired to a dressing room.

Before his disqualification, Stribling had amazed the crowd with his clever boxing and hard hitting. Most of the fans had expected the towering Venetian to make short work of his American foe.

G. W. Secures Ingram To Speak at Banquet

William H. Ingram, director of athletics at Annapolis and coach of the Navy football team, will be the principal speaker at the annual football banquet of George Washington University to be held on the night of December 10, at the Mayflower Hotel. The announcement came from the downtown school yesterday which had been seeking a prominent speaker for some time. The presentation of letters to the varsity football players and the members of the freshmen eleven will be made at this time.

Although experiencing a rather disastrous year in the fall sport, G. W. is looking ahead to great things in 1930 and already has visions of a bright season with such promising material on hand. The banquet will serve more as a booster for next year's season rather than a review of this year's team. Fine varsity material is expected from members of this year's yearling team which numbered the Georgetown freshmen, Maryland's Junior Varsity, and Navy's B Squad among its victims.

The banquet is open to the public and tickets at $3 each are now on sale at the registrar's office, 2033 G street, and the G. W. Gym on H street.

Harvard and Yale Absorb Skull Drills; Big Ten Teams Prepare for Final Tests

Albie Booth Returns to Infirmary to Rest Leg.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A combination of bruises, bad weather and a lack of immediate necessity of getting ready for games Saturday, curbed Eastern football practice today. Yale and Harvard rivals in Saturday's most important battle, both yielded to the weather, going indoors for brief light drills.

The Elis did all their practicing with their ears, listening as Coach Mal Stevens pointed out mistakes made against Princeton and outlined plans for the Harvard game. Only Albie Booth, who had returned to the infirmary to give his Charley horse another day of rest, was missing.

Harvard also had a long blackboard talk, following it up with a signal drill in the baseball cage. Wally Harper and Art Huguley, injured backs, were in uniform again, but John Trainer, regular guard, nursed a batch of bruises on the side lines.

N. Y. U. Varsity Rests For Rutgers Game.

Rutgers and N. Y. U., which meet in another game of traditional rivalry, had light drills. The scarlet had little more than signal drill, while the N. Y. U. 'varsity rested as Coach

Old Teammates Guard Joe McGinnity's Body

McAlester, Okla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Teammates of Joe McGinnity, baseball's "iron man" in the days immediately preceding his rise to fame as a pitcher with the New York Giants, formed an honor guard today as McGinnity's body lay in state at the Elks Lodge here.

Burial services were held this afternoon in Oak Hill Cemetery. Profuse floral offerings, many from distant points, covered the grave at the close of the brief ritual of the Elks.

International to Back Southworth, Toporcer

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The International Baseball League failed in its endeavor to elect a president to succeed the late John Conway Toole today and postponed any further efforts to fill the vacancy until the minor league meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., next month.

After spending most of the afternoon balloting, the league found itself unable to give a majority to either of two candidates, understood to be Jack Hendricks, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and William L. Dill, New Jersey State commissioner of motor vehicles. Each was understood to have four votes of the total of eight.

Earlier in the day the league voted to uphold Billy Southworth, manager, and George Torporcer, second baseman, of the Rochester Red Wings, in whatever appeal they may make from punishment meted out to them for a disturbance at the last game of the "little world series." Southworth was fined $500 and Torporcer $200 in addition to a year's suspension.

Town's Bank Closes School Game Is Off

Abingdon, Ill., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Being without a bank, Abingdon also must forego its traditional football game.

Abingdon's only bank was closed last week. Now the annual contest between the local high school and Elmwood, its long-time rival, has been canceled. The school board funds were so tied up by the bank's closing that it could not raise money to pay officials or Elmwood's guarantee.

Capital City Seniors In Important Contest

Although only two teams will be battling on Gonzaga Field Sunday, when the Brookland A. C. and St. Stephen's A. C. elevents clash in the final scheduled game of the senior class of the Capital City League, the championship hopes of three teams will be hanging in the balance. Either a title for the St. Stephen's team or a triple tie between the Saints, Brookland A. C. and Mohawk Preps will result. The Saints can clinch the gonfalcon by winning or by tying. A Brookland victory would produce the three-way deadlock, and a play-off series would be necessary.

Brookland will be favored to win Sunday on the strength of a previous 14-to-0 triumph over the Saints. However, the St. Stephen's eleven has shown greater power since last meeting the lads from Brookland.

Some bitter feeling exists between the rival teams. The protest filed by the Saints after the first meeting of the teams and which the league officials upheld, was not received very graciously by the Brookland players and they are hard at work this week preparing to carry the fight all the way Sunday. The Saints are just as hostile and anxious to retaliate for the previous setback handed them by their rivals.

Indiana Dwells on Air Defense for Purdue Battle.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Big Ten football coaches trotted their teams back to fundamentals today in preparation for their final battles of the fading 1929 campaign Saturday.

Excepting Indiana, most teams had short drills. Fearing his team would let down because of its upset of Northwestern, Pat Page sent his entire varsity squad through a stiff scrimmage and then lectured on Purdue plays, principally the Boilermaker forward pass attack, which has blazed the way to their first Big Ten title.

Most of the Hoosiers were battered by Northwestern, but only a pair of linemen were injured. They will be ready for action in the traditional all-Hoosier skirmish Saturday, however.

The boilermakers took things easy, but Coach Jimmie Phelan was busy trying to chase overconfidence by pointing to the Indiana victory over Northwestern and the great stand made by Indiana against Ohio State recently.

Northwestern to Attempt To Halt Notre Dame.

Northwestern, which will attempt to stop the national championship march of Notre Dame at Evanston Saturday, listened to some caustic advice given by Coach Dick Hawley and then drilled on fundamentals. The Wildcats have always given hte Ramblers a hard fight but never have been able to beat them.

Because of the cold and rain and the battering received at Purdue, Iowa was given a complete rest today

Mich. Ring Body to Try Out New Scoring Plan

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A new "scoring system" for boxing matches will be tried in the ten-round bout between Earl Mastro and Johnny Minella, featherweights, on Friday night at Olympia Arena.

The system, developed by Al Day, who will referee the bout, and sanctioned by the Michigan Boxing Commission, is based on the announcement by the referee of the decision at the end of each round. The round-by-round standings will be posted on a bulletin board in the arena so that the fans may follow the progress of the bout by rounds. If the plan proves effective, it may be adopted in other Michigan bouts, members of the boxing commission said.

Florida Publisher to Sue To Halt Races at 2 Tracks

Keeney Park, Miami Race Meetings Held "in Direct Violation of Florida Laws and Constitute Public Nuisance," by Editor.

TALLEHASSEE, Fla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Proponents of horse racing were warned today that injunctions will be sought to prevent running races in the State "the very first day" if either of two Florida tracks operates this winter. The warning was issued by Fred O. Eberhardt, publisher of the Florida State News here.

Eberhardt made public a letter to H. E. Anderson, Jacksonville attorney, instructing that suit to be brought against operation of Keeney Park track, in St. Johns County, or the Miami Jockey Club track at Hialeah in event races are run.

The publisher's letter instructed that such suits be brought in his name, on the grounds that the tracks are operated "in direct violation of Florida laws and constitute a public nuisance."

Keeney Preparing Answer To Publisher.

Racing meets have been scheduled for both tracks this winter. Operators of Keeney Park have announced a 28-day meet to open December 14, and the Miami Jockey Club's program calls for 45 days of racing to start January 16. Approximately 200 horses are already in Keeney Park stables.

George W. Bassett, jr., atttorney representing Frank A. Keeney, millionaire sportsman who owns Keeney Park, between St. Augustine and Jacksonville, said at St. Augustine today he was preparing a statement in answer to Eberhardt.

Both tracks operated during the last winter season with overflow crowds. Operation of pari-mutuel machines or other wagering devices, however, was forbidden by Gov. Carlton, in accordance with State laws.

Winter Racing in Florida Has Had Uphill Climb.

Winter racing proponents have had an uphill climb in Florida. A track that operated in Tampa during boom days was abandoned. Another, at Longwood, near Orlando, was turned into training quarters for harness horses.

Gov. John Martin threatened in 1926 to call out State militia to halt gambling and a track at Pompano was closed.

An attempt to legalize use of pari-mutuel machines in the State, under a system of State taxation, was voted down several times by the 1929 Florida Legislature.

Engel Denied Directorship In League

Southern Admits New Chattanooga Owner, Restrains Him.

His Close Affiliation With Nats Given as Cause for Veto.

Special to The Washington Post.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 18.—Joe Engel, Washington American League scout and recent purchaser of the Chattanooga franchise in the Southern Association, today was denied a seat on the board of directors of the league at the annual meeting of the circuit here today.

Commenting on the action of the league, Engel tonight said that "I am in the league, but I don't know exactly how I stand."

In refusing to accept Engel as a director of the league, the other directors said they think Joe is a fine fellow, knows his baseball and will be a valuable asset to the league, but is too closely affiliated with the Washington Club to have a vote in the affairs of the Southern League. The directors went on record as condemning and strongly opposing major league ownership of a Southern League club.

Is Real Purchaser, Engel Tells Group.

Engel, addressing the directors, stated that he was really the purchaser of the Chattanooga Club and that Clark Griffith, president of the Nats, for whom Engel once played as a pitcher and is now scouting for, indorsed the notes for him merely through friendship.

Engel further stated that he would relieve Griffith as indorser if the other Southern League clubs were willing to indorse the paper purchasing the Lookouts. The other directors, however, decided to let the deal stand as made.

R. C. Richard, vice president and business manager of the Lookouts last season, will remain as vice president and a director of the league, although Engel will be president of the club.

Both sat in at the meeting. There was some discussion before Engel was admitted into the executive session, however, without a vote. Richard did the 'yessing and noing" and Engel did the nodding.

Engel, however, was given some recognition and honor when he was placed on the committee on constitutional revision of which W. D. Smith president of the Birmingham club, is chairman and Bob Allen president of the Little Rock Club, the other member.

Mobile to Remain In League.

Mobile will remain in the league, probably under new ownership; there will be no split season; the player limit remains at eighteen and there will be no change in the so-called "rookie rule" that prohibits clubs from carrying on their roster more than thirteen players under "A" classification.

There were the other developments of importance at the meeting. John D. Martin, president of the league, presided and announced the meeting one of the most harmonious in the 29 years history of the league. President Martin is starting out on his second year of a five-year term and his twelfth as chief executive of the league.

Amateurism Faces Fight For Life, Says A. A. U. Head

Commercialism and Greed May Undermine Sports.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—An appeal for clearer thinking on the subject of amateurism and leadership that will keep amateur athletes from "yielding to the opposing forces of greed and commercialism," was delivered tonight by Avery Brundage, national president of the Amateur Athletic Union, at the annual convention banquet.

"During the last few years it has become increasingly popular to attack the amateur code," said Brundage, a former national amateur all-round champion. "Beset on one side by the professional promoter seeking to commercialize its popularity for personal gain; harassed from the other direction by prominent athletes seeking by evasion and chicanery to obtain the material rewards of professionalism while maintaining their amateur standing amateur sport finds its burdens increased instead of relieved by the press, and it will suffer a mortal wound if these assaults upon amateurism by those who have it within their power to educate the public, do not cease.

"Some newspaper writers have advocated the abolition of the amateur code and the elimination of the distinction between professionals and amateurs so far as the public is concerned. Editorials have been written referring to the amateur code as a joke and stating that there are no longer any amateurs.

Amateur Code Has Been Attacked.

"It is asserted that our amateur rules are producing a race of cheats and liars. The amateur code has been coupled with the Volstead act as an agent tending to break down the respect for law and the Amateur Athletic Union has been denounced for attempting to uphold so archaic a system.

"When the A. A. U. or any other sport governing body disciplines a prominent athlete for violating amateur rules it is hailed as a merciless tyrant and a betrayer of the public interest. There is an astounding lack of clear thinking on this subject and after reading a few articles, one ceases to wonder that the public is bewildered and confused. We need to be brought back to fundamental principles."

After sketching the growth of amateur sport and citing the aims of the A. A. U. since its founding 41

Stadium Is Urged Here As Roosevelt Memorial

Special to The Washington Post.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—The Amateur Athletic Union, in convention here tonight, passed a resolution urging the construction of a stadium of sufficient size to make possible the holding of Olympic and big national athletic contests in Washington, D. C. The resolution, introduced by Ernest J. Spitzer, secretary of the District of Columbia Association, was addressed to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Roosevelt Memorial Committee, which are working on plans for a memorial to the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

The resolution suggested that no more suitable form of commemoration of the late Chief Executive could be created. Murray Hulbert, past president of the A. A. U., seconded the resolution, and the unanimous vote of 173 delegates was registered.

TENNESSEE POINTS FOR KENTUCKY

Tulane and Louisiana State Also to Clash on Thanksgiving.

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Asssociated Press Sports Writer).

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—With an open date scheduled for next Saturday, most of the Southern Conference football machines today began ten days of intesive rehearsals for the big Thanksgiving Day battles.

Maj. Bob Neyland, whose Tennessee Eleven reached the finals by outsplashing Vanderbilt last week, said there would be no let up at Knoxville. Tied with Tulane for the lead, Tennessee must take both Kentucky and South Carolina into camp to earn a clean cut claim to the championship. The Kentucky game is one of the toughest spots on the Tennessee schedule and Maj. Neyland feels none too good about it. The Wildcats, with Shipwreck Kelley functioning, are primed to turn in their best performance of the season against the Vols.

Tulane, the other title contender, went to work for its one remaining conference test with Louisiana State.

Coach Bierman Hopes For Victory.

Coach Bernie Bierman, the Tulane mentor, apparently has every reason to hope for a victory over the Tigers.

However, this is one of those games in which the dope is mighty uncertain. Like the annual meetings between Georgia and Georgia Tech, Virginia and North Carolina and South Carolina and Clemson, anything can happen. Upsets are frequent and the weaker team often comes through a victor.

Louisiana State would have a conference record of six wins and no defeats, which would give it the title if Tennessee loses to or ties with either Kentucky or South Carolina.

Alabama in striking its stride, but now going like a house afire, hopes to dangle the scalp of Georgia along with those of Kentucky and Georgia Tech.

Florida to Tackle South Carolina.

The only conference test on tap this week-end sends Florida to Columbia, S. C., for a clash with the South Carolina Gamecocks. Three more conference teams get outside competition.

North Carolina State will keep the intersectional ball rolling by going to Philadelphia to meet Villanova, which already has won decisions from Duke and Oglethorpe.

The Duke Blue Devils play Wake Forest at Durham and Clemson entertains the Citadel Bulldogs in a game which looms important in the South Carolina championship race.

Howard and Birmingham-Southern are reported in fine fettle for their meeting, which headlines the program in S. I. A. A.

Centenary makes its first and only bid of the season in the S. I. A. A. against Louisiana Poly at Shreveport. None of the undefeated S. I. A. A. teams except Centenary is scheduled against association opposition.

Knute Rockne Again To Direct Irish Eleven

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame Football Team, said today that his trip to Chicago for the Southern California game had such a slight effect on him that he plans to go to Evanston, Ill., next Saturday to direct the Ramblers in their game with Northwestern University. An infected knee has confined Rockne at his home for some time.

An all-day downpour of rain and a desire to give the regulars a rest today led to abandonment of practice in the Irish camp. Reserves, however, were drilled in Northwestern plays for use against the varsity in scrimmage tomorrow or Wednesday.

Record Time Of Simpson In Balance

9 2-5 Seconds for 100 Yards Approved Conditionally.

Old Records Remain; Races With Blocks Carry Notations.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—After a sharp controversy, the National Amateur Athletic Union, at its annual convention today, went on record as favoring the principle of starting blocks for sprinters.

At the same time the convention voted to withhold official adoption of the blocks or to permit their use in A. A. U. meets until they are recognized by international authorities as standard.

In effect, the A. A. U. decided that the starting blocks, several varieties of which now are in use, represent a progressive development for the betterment of track competition, from the viewpoint of the athlete as well as the spectator.

American delegates to the next conference of the International Amateur Athletic Federation, to be held in Berlin next May, are expected to urge the adoption of a standard starting block, but their use, so far as the A. A. U. is concerned, will be barred pending the outcome of this international confab. A proposal to make the use of blocks optional in A. A. U. meets until an international decision is reached was voted down.

Simpson Precipitates Whole Controversy.

Because of the controversy over the blocks and the extent to which they aid the sprinter, if at all, conditional approval only was accorded by the convention to the famous 100-yard dash of 9 2-5 seconds by George Simpson, of Ohio State, at Chicago last June 8.

Simpson's mark was made with blocks, having the official approval of the National Collegiate A. A., under whose auspices the Chicago meet was held. It was the discussion of this record that brought the whole subject of starting blocks to the fore as the main convention topic today.

While there was no tendency to detract in the slightest from Simpson's performance, the fastest "100" on record, it was decided that for the time being marks made with blocks will be classified separately, not displacing the other records on the books.

Tolan's Mark of 9 5-10 Minus Blocks Accepted.

Unexpectedly it developed that acceptance of a mark of 9 5-10 seconds for the "100" made by Eddie Tolan, of Michigan, Negro star and national champion at Evanston, Ill., last May 25, may result in establishment of this mark as a new world's record. It was accepted unconditionally, since Tolan did not use blocks. It will be recommended for adoption to the I. A. A. F., which now recognizes performances registered by tenth-second watches. Tolan was barely beaten by Simpson in the latter's record race.

Last year at Amsterdam, the International Federation refused to accept Charley Paddock's record of 9 5-10 for the "100," displacing the present mark of 9 3-5, because of the ban on tenth-second watches. In removing the ban, it was not made retroactive to include Paddock's mark, made in 1926. Paddock's return was listed internationally among the 9 3-5 performances.

The conditional approval to Simpson's "100" applied also to the same sprinter's record-equaling 20 6-10 for 220 yards made at Evanston, May 25, and to the mark of 22 8-10 for the 220-yard low hurdles by Dick Rockaway, of Ohio State, made the same day. Rockaway's time bettered by 2-10 second the world record now held by C. R. Brookings, formerly of the University of Iowa.

World Records Approved in Vault and Discus.

The principal other records given unqualified approval, in outdoor competition, were: Pole vault, 14 feet 1½ inches by Leo Barnes, of Southern California, at Fresno, April 28, 1928, a world's record; discus throw, 163 feet 8¾ inches, by Eric Kranz, of Stanford, at Palo Alto, March 9, 1929, a world's record; shot

24 CONTESTS FOR HILLTOP QUINTET

Ten New Opponents Given Places on G. U. Schedule.

TWENTY-FOUR games, comprising the hardest basket ball assignment ever undertaken at the Hilltop, have been scheduled for the veteran Georgetown University quintet, it was announced yesterday at the office of Athletic Director Lou Little.

In point of numbers, the schedule duplicates the 1928 list, but calls for stronger opposition on the whole, besides two or three more traveling engagements. It also includes ten new opponents, namely, Gettysburg College, Wake Forest, Manhattan, Baltimore University, Pittsburgh, Washington College, Canisius College, Syracuse, Western Maryland and Columbia.

Having lost but two members of last year's squad, the Hilltop Tossers apparently are well able to take on a more difficult schedule. The combination which finished as the regular team last winter is back intact. Johnny Dunn, a regular forward in 1927 but forced by illness to do part-time duty last year, and Jack Byrnes, substitute forward, are the men not returning. Dunn still is in school but can not spare time from his studies for athletics.

For the second year in succession, Georgetown will enter the annual Yale University tournament at New Haven, and, if it survives the first game, its schedule will swell with each additional tourney game played. The tournament will be held from December 31 to January 2.

West Virginia, Temple and New York University, which accounted for all of Georgetown's losses in collegiate circles last winter, are on the schedule again. West Virginia and New York University are listed for home-and-home series. A third series is slated with Johns Hopkins.

The opening game will be played here with Gettysburg on December 7, and the finale will be with Colum-

INCEPTION WINS PRINCE GEORGES STAKE BY HEAD

Donnay Runs Second in Handicap

Victorian Gallops in Burch Memorial Sprint Event.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 18. The opening of the fall meeting at Bowie this afternoon marked the final session of racing in Maryland for the season of 1929. The races were run under bright sunshine and over a sloppy track. Secretary McLennan provided an attractive program for the occasion with the W. P. Burch Memorial and the Prince Georges Handicap as feature races. The Prince Georges, which was run as the fourth race, was a dash of 1 1-16 miles and carried a purse of $10,000. There were eight starters, three of which African, Annapolis and Dr. Freeland were coupled as the Salmon-Wilson Entry. C. Chaney furnished the winner in Inception, who came from behind in the stretch run to wear down the tiring Donnay and in a driving finish beat the latter out a head. African was third, beaten two lengths for the place, and then followed the top weight, Glen Wild, beaten another seven lengths.

Karl Eitel, a keen factor to the half pole, dropped out of it rounding the far turn, where Donnay was out in front, leading Inception by a length. Every time that Quattlebaum made a move with Inception Pator would permit Donnay to step just a little faster and at the top of the home stretch Donnay looked a certain winner.

Inception Gets Up in Final Strides to Win.

Inception, however, not to be denied, made another desperate attempt in the final furlong and, catching Donnay weakening at the end, got up in the final strides. African was in trouble on the back stretch, where Leishman raced into a pocket.

The winner was acquired by his present owner O. Chaney via the claiming route when he took the son of Sporting Blood from S. W. Babrot for $4,000. In his last five starts Inception has been returned a winner on four occasions. In his other efforts he was thrown against the inside fence at the first turn which accounted for his defeat on that occasion. The value of the stake to the winner $9,100.

The change in the going was responsible for the withdrawal of Clear Sky, Easter Stockings, Princess Tina and Misstep from the Shenandoah Purse which left four to go, Bobashela and Strolling Player, coupled as the Audley Farm Salubria Stable entry, backed to the exclusion of the others went to the post a very short priced favorite. Buddy Bauer led his field when they broke from the stalls and led to the turn into the back stretch, where Bobashela, moving up on the outside, took command and for the remainder of the trip simply galloped in front. At the finish he had a lead of four lengths over Upset Lad who outlasted Strolling Player in the final drive to beat the latter out a neck. Buddy Bauer, tiring badly, was another length and a half away.

Victorian Makes Own Pace in Memorial.

Victorian, the 4-year-old son of Whiskbroom II, that races for the Warm Stable, making his first appearance since last spring at Pimlico, when he was beaten a nose by Diavolo in the Dixie Handicap proved an easy winner of the W. P. Burch Memorial Handicap at Bowie this afternoon when he scored over a field of the best sprinters on the grounds. Ridden by A. Robertson and making all his own pace, Victorian galloped home an easy winner when he beat the Sagamore Stable's Balko three lengths. The Audley Farm's Princess Tina was third, another length back.

Reports of some fast trials were responsible for the heavy support accorded Victorian, and he went to the post a well-back favorite. The start, which was a prompt one from the stalls, found Victorian off fourth of his field. Robertson let him step right along and, going to the half-mile pole, the big striding son of Whiskbroom II was in front, leading Gun Royal by a head. Rounding the far turn Victorian kept drawing away and, straightened out for the final run, he had opened up a gap of four lengths.

Robertson had a snug hold on him and at the finish he appeared to be only galloping. Victorian continued for another quarter, and finished out the mile in 1:40 2-5. The disappointment of the race was the showing made by Petee Wrack. It was his first effort in some time, but his well-known liking for the going led many to believe that he would be a factor. At no time during the running was Petee Wrack prominent, and at the finish he was next to last, a neck in front of Water Lad.

Fair Beth, Favored at Start, Wins Sixth.

The first of two numbers arranged for the low tier grade of performers brought a field of seven into contention for a test of 1 1-16 miles that was listed sixth on the program and in this Fair Beth, carrying the silks of J. E. Griffith, was the one to take down the major share of the purse money, when she led R. Pending's Judge Bartlett across the winning mark by a length and a half. Seven lengths back to take third came Mole Hill from the Coldstream Stud, and C. C. Smithson's Aucilla, an easy-going fourth, to take the measure of the heavily supported favorite, John B., and the others.

It was a poor start and the only two to break clear of interference were Sour Mash and the winner. Judge Bartlett swerved as the break came and before he could be straightened away, he had blocked John B., Vandal and Mole Hill from going away directly with the release of the webbing. The winner was accorded good support and was ridden by G. Fields.

CENTRAL AND EASTERN PLAY FOR 2ND PLACE TODAY

Principals Fail to Act and Darkness May Mar Game.

Millar and Collela to Idle; Rivals Are Evenly Matched.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.

DESPITE the fact that experience has proven that football games started at 3:30 can not be finished before dark, high school principals yesterday refused to advance the starting time of the final game of the series between Central and Eastern, and these two teams probably will end their battle for second place today at the Central Stadium long after darkness has covered the field. Although Dr. G. Harris White yesterday made a valiant effort to convince the principals of the feasibility of starting the game today at an earlier hour, the majority of the five would not consent to permit the game to begin before 3:30.

Last Friday's clash between Tech and Business was finished long after dark, but with the result almost a foregone conclusion, no kick was forthcoming. However, it is likely that a squabble will result today if the inevitable shades of night should break up or hinder an otherwise attractive game. Both teams will be battling desperately to salvage whatever glory remains from a race long since settled, but the thrill of a possible last-minute rally no doubt will be missing, as the 22 players grope to find their way around in the dark.

Teams Expected to Make Bids Early.

It is expected, therefore, that each eleven will open up with all it has in the early portions of the game and resort to a defensive stand when daylight begins to ebb.

Although he has been working out with his team for the past week, it was announced last night that Charley Millar, quarter back and ace of the Eastern team, would not be in the starting line-up which opposes Central this afternoon. Millar suffered a twisted ankle in the Western game two weeks ago and has been on the shelf ever since. It is doubtful whether he will break into the game at all. Collela, Central signal caller, also is not expected to perform for the Blue and White, as he was not in the last-minute signal drill gone through by the Mount Pleasant squad yesterday.

However, scholastic fans should get their money's worth in watching these two teams in action. Conceded to be about the best in the city before the season opened, both disappointed their followers by dropping their first games to Tech, eventual champions. With the exception of this loss, the two elevens have a clean slate in the series, and will be out to stay above the .500 percentage which will fall to the loser of today's conflict.

Both teams possess sturdy and heavy lines, both of which include several performers of all-high caliber. But the feature of the fray, perhaps, will be in the performances of the respective back fields, with stellar ball carriers slated to go in each.

Both Teams Boast Aces In Back Field.

Larry Pinckney, Central's big shot, will be itching to tear through that Eastern line in an effort to give his team victory, while his teammate, Paul Rinkle, looked especially good in his team's last game against Western. The Lincoln Park School, on the other hand, has its best bets in Everett Oxley and Bennie McCullough, who have done almost all the gaining for the Light Blue and White this year. At present McCullough is leading high scorers with six touchdowns, while Pinckney is three behind. Oxley's bid to fame rests on his 97-yard run to touchdown, the longest run yet recorded in a series game this year.

Western High's eleven will tackle the first of its two opponents this week, when it goes to Garrett Park to meet the fast Georgetown Prep combination. The Ahern-coached aggregation finished the high school race with a record of only one victory in its four starts, but the team apparently is better than that standing would indicate.

One interesting feature of the Western teams for the last seven years was brought to light yesterday when it was learned that a member of the same family has held down the center position on the Red and White team ever since 1923. Back in 1923 Fred Owens was started at the snapper-back post and held it for three years. Graduating in 1926, Fred turned the job over to Brother Quincy, who is at present finishing his fourth campaign at that position.

First 1929 Golf Ace Scored at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Kenneth Allen, of Baltimore, today scored the first hole-in-one of the season here, dropping his tee shot on the 149-yard eleventh hole of the No. 1 course into the cup. He was playing with Elvin N. Edwards, of Freeport, Long Island.

TROJANS DEFEAT ACES.

Richmond-Owned Dog Leads in National Trials

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Sister Tuck, lemon and white puppy, owned by L. S. Sitton, of Richmond, Va., had high score at the end of the first day of the ninth Chase Futurity, topping event of the thirty-sixth annual trials of the National Fox Hunters Association.

Sister Tuck's score was 70 and three were tied at 60 for second rank. These were Fan Jackson, owned by Dr. R. M. Casper, of Louisville; Helen Florer, owned by Henry Browning, of Russellville, Ky., and Shears, owned by C. C. Glass, of Nicholasville, Ky.

Sister Tuck is by Tuck Stride out of Sister Fala. The sire, owned by A. G. Rolf, of Richmond, is entered in the all-age trials for the last time. He is 9 years old.

At Sunrise today 70 puppies, whelped since January, 1928, were cast in the Chase Futurity and only eight of that number were ruled out by the judges tonight for infractions of rules.

More than 300 riders, arrayed in everything from fine hunting coats with satin collars to overalls with patches followed the hounds today over the Harpeth Hills and a larger number was expected tomorrow.

About a half mile from the casting ground the pack struck two trails and split, then as foxes appeared the pack split again many times.

The Chase Futurity will close Wednesday, making way for the national championship trials, open to dogs of any age, any breed, any variety and from anywhere.

POLY-CADETS PRIME FOR BATTLE

V. M. I. and V. P. I. Meet for State Title November 28.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 18.—A blue and gray cadet corps will set its eyes toward Roanoke this week with the first preparations in the rival camps for "Dixie's military football classic" on Thanksgiving Day.

For the second successive year the Old Dominion championship will hinge upon this game. After an undefeated season in the South last fall, V. P. I. fell before the onrush of Capt. Barnes and his Keydets to hand the laurel wreaths to V. M. I. Both teams have enjoyed successful seasons this year and will battle historic Maher Field in what looms as one of the finest breath-takers of this long rivalry.

The fact that V. M. I. has a superior line this year or that V. P. I. is ahead in the series standing will be forgotten when the teams trot out on the field before the record crowd of the Old Dominion. The famous military classic brings forth year after year some of the best football on Virginia gridirons. Color and pageantry and a martial air will mark the clash for which 2,000 cadets will drill and cheer.

Poly Has Won 17 and Tied 2 Of 26 Games With Cadets.

Records show that V. P. I. has won 17, lost 7 and tied 2 of the 26 games played since the series started in 1894. The Keydets captured the first game at Lexington by margin of a goal and touchdown and then dropped two straight before blanking the Techmen in 1900. But the Gobblers came back to romp away with the Keydet scalp six straight times before the series lapsed in 1909.

With the exception of a 6-to-6 tie in 1913, the first year the rivalry was resumed, V. P. I. held the Keydets at bay until the original "Flying Squadron" copped two straight in '19 and '20. Harry Sutton ran wild for a Polytech win in '21 and Rip Wallace and Charlie Flory teamed up for a close win the following year. V. M. I. won a mud battle in '23, tied the Gobblers in a scoreless deadlock in '24, gave way before an inspired Tech Team in 25 and 26, and won the last two after being doped to lose.

The Gobblers will start preparations this week for as determined a drive as any Poly team has made at the Keydet goal. The Gobblers are hoping that, like V. M. I. the past two Thanksgiving games, they can somehow upset the predictions and win.

Blue Ridge League Incubator for Majors

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 18.—Eighty-eight ball players who have seen service in the Blue Ridge League will be found at the training camps of clubs in the majors and the minors enjoying a higher classification than the ridge loop when the spring season rolls around, a check-up of records of the league shows.

Of the fourscore and eight, seventeen will be with National and American League clubs. The Martinsburg Club once had 34 of the 88 on its pay roll. Hack Wilson, Joe Boley, Jimmy Dykes, Lefty Grove, Lou Blue, Owen Carroll and Bill Scherdel are included in the entire group.

Weiner, Scarney Fight In Cumberland Dec. 2

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 18.—Herman Weiner, heavyweight of Baltimore, and Harold "Young" Scarney, Niles, Ohio, are matched to meet in the main bout of the next fight card at the State Armory here on Monday, December 2.

Scarney recently became a favorite with local fans by his showing against Joe Proctor, of Washington, who had twice kayoed Socko Trenaman, of Westernport, and was a drawing card. Proctor was given a severe lacing by the Ohio Italian, while Weiner scored as convincing a victory over Proctor in Baltimore recently. Scarney is considered the best heavyweight ever to fight in Cumberland.

The Scarney-Weiner bout will be one of tthree eight-rounders on the card. It is likely that Trenaman will essay a comeback in one of the other bouts. Westernport fight fans are willing to wager that "Socko" can whip Curley Reese, Buckhannon heavyweight, and if Reese agrees to the match, it will be arranged.

G. U. QUINTET FACES 24-GAME SCHEDULE

bia at New York City on March 7. As was the case a year ago, the Hilltoppers will take no Christmas holiday, a Northern tour having been scheduled from December 27 to January 2. Altogether, the schedule calls for six trips, including one to Annapolis for the annual game with Navy, which the Blue and Gray has defeated the past two years.

With Bill Dudack tentatively in charge as coach, a large squad numbering the veterans Capt. Maurice McCarthy and Freddy Mesmer, guards, Don Dutton, forward, and Paul Dillon, center, has been drilling daily in Ryan Gymnasium for the last two weeks. As soon as the football season is finished, Hal Meenan, the other regular forward, will join the squad, as will Ed Leary and Johnny Scalzi, who served as substitutes last year. Johnny Morris, Bill Shea and "Coin" Maloney, others who saw much service in 1928, are working out now.

All Signs Point to Another Successful Season.

Following is the schedule:

December 7, Gettzsburg, here; 11, pending; 14, Baltimore University, here; 27, Knight's of Columbus, Brooklyn; 28, Crescent A. C., Brooklyn; 30, Manhattan College, New York; 31, Yale tournament, New Haven.

January 1, Yale tournament, New Haven; 2, Yale tournament, New Haven; 7, Wake Forest, here; 10, West Virginia U., Morgantown, W. Va.; 11, Pittsburgh U., Pittsburgh; 18, Washington College, here; 17, Temple, Philadelphia; 18, New York U., New York; 22, Johns Hokins, here; 25, Mount St. Mary's, here.

March 1, Johns Hopkins, Baltimore; 6, New York A. C., New York; 7, Columbia, New York.

Hubbard Breaks Ankle; Lost to V. M. I. Eleven

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., Nov. 18.—Dexter Hubbard, veteran V. P. I. guard, has played his last game for the Gobblers, Hubbard will remain in the Mattie Leigh Hospital until Wednesday or Thursday as the result of an ankle fracture received early in the game with University of Maryland last Saturday. X-Ray photographs taken after he was rushed from the Norfolk gridiron to the hospital showed a clean break just above the left ankle.

Loss of their star lineman is a big blow to the Gobblers just as they are starting the training grind for the State championship battle with V. M. I. Hubbard's power and drive was a life saver to the shaky forward wall of Andy Gustafson's team this fall and his injury takes the outstanding lineman from the rosters. The big job at V. P. I. now is to train some one to fill his shoes in the big Thanksgiving battle. Maury Hubbard, Early Dyke, Red Jones and Charlie Chrisman opened a hot fight for the vacancy this afternoon.

Idle Hour Feature Captured by Manta

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The second annual one-day meeting of the Idle Hour Fair Association, which is conducted by Col. Ridley Bradley, the proceeds of which are distributed among the orphans of Kentucky, was held under cloudy skies and a heavy track. Many prominent visitors, both in racing and social activities, were in attendance to add encouragement to Col. Bradley's project.

The feature attraction, the Orphanage Stakes, a sprint over the futurity course, for 2-year-olds, was won by B. Combs' Manta. Gold Step was second and Uncle Luther was third. The race was worth $3,925 to the winner, $750 to the second and $250 to the third stables. Manta paid her backers $22.60 for $2. Manta was away slowly but was quickly hustled into contention and went into the lead rounding into the stretch to win easily by three lengths. Gold Step, hampered by lack of racing room during the first 3 furlongs, came with a rush through the stretch to take the place by a length and a half.

Mt. Rainier and Co. F Fives Court Victors

Opening games in the Prince Georges County Basket Ball League last night played at the Hyattsville National Guard Armory resulted in wins for the Mount Rainier and Company F Fives which scored over the Maryland Collegians and Hyattsville Southern Methodist Quints, respectively.

After a 7-7 tie at half time, the Mount Rainier quint went on to outscore their opponents, 13-10, to gain the decision, 20-17. A. Bellman, center, led the victors with six field goals and two free tosses.

In the Company F-Hyattsville game 12 Company F players took part in their team's triumph, with all but two taking a hand in the scoring. Only four field goals were scored by the losers.

BIG TEN PREPARES FOR FINAL BATTLES

Michigan, Iowa's next opponent, went through only a light workout indoors. Daniels is expected to replace Hewitt at end in the Iowa game because of the latter's twisted knee.

Coach Clarence Spears gave eight of his Minnesota regulars a night off and then sent the Gopher reserves in a scrimmage against freshmen, who were armed with Wisconsin plays. Wisconsin, benefiting from a rest last Saturday, continued to hunt a scoring punch and plug some holes in its forward wall.

Humbert, Illinois Full Back, Out Of Ohio State Game.

Illinois had a short practice on fundamentals with Yanuskus, Timm, Mills and Robinson composing its back field. It was definitely decided that Fritz Humbert, first-string full back, would not get into the Ohio State game because of a bad ankle. Judd Timm, fleet Illini half back, cheered the Illini followers by returning, however.

"The Amateur Athletic Union has made mistakes. It has been taken advantage of by individuals and by organizations, but through all the years it has held tenaciously and unwaveringly to the ideals of its founders. It will be a sad and sorry day for this great land of ours when we reach the stage where we can not even play without thinking of the ever-present dollar.

Backers of Amateurism Must Not Weaken.

There must be some regeneration * * * if we are to repel the iconoclasts. If we give way and amateur sport is swamped in the modern tide of commercialism, our civilization will be headed for the same decline that overtook the Greek empire.

"Instead of yielding to the opposing forces of greed and commercialism, let us, after consolidating our position, proceed to overcome the materialistic forces of greed wherever found. Let us cultivate the sporting spirit of Lindbergh, that sterling citizen of St. Louis, who refused to capitalize his exploit and endeared himself to the world.

"The report of the Carnegie Foundation on American college athletics * * * has been almost universally the butt of flippant sarcasm and jibes. The public has taken to football because they feel it is on the square. If the tendencies pointed out in the Carnegie report are allowed to prevail, it will not be long before our enormous college stadia are as forlorn and empty as the Roman Coliseum."

Army Looks for Fight From Ohio Wesleyan

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Army's final home game of the season against the strong Ohio Wesleyan Eleven promises to be the hardest and most interesting game to be played on the Cadets' home gridiron this season, rivaling the Nebraska and Southern Methodist University games of last season. The entire corps of Cadets will march to the stadium in a body and go through the same evolutions as at the big games away from West Point.

Maude, the Army mule, will be on special diet this week and also placed on the light duty roster in order to be in perfect condition for the game.

Capt. "Biff" Jones intends to start his first team. This game will mark the last home appearance of Cagle, Murrell, Perry and several other stars who have made football history at the United States Military Academy during the past few years. Ohio Wesleyan made an enviable record last year and most of the team remained to duplicate it this year. Capt. Jones expects his Army team to be extended to its utmost.

Temple Bowlers Win Over Queen Pin Team

Although they picked up 40 pins last night in the second block of a ten-game match at the Queen Pin Alleys, the Queen Pin All-Star bowlers bowed to the Temple All-Stars by a 68 pin margin. The Southeast team led last night, 2,883 to 2,843. It trailed by 108 pins at the close of Saturday night's block at the Temple alleys.

Brad Mandley's 163 game and 638 set featured the Queen Pin stand last night. Paul Harrison had consistent games for a 634 string. A 643 game by the Queen Pins was the best of the match.

EASTERN ELEVENS NURSING INJURIES

Chick Meehan gave his attention to the reserves.

Army, with Ohio Wesleyan as its last home opponent, went through a light workout in the rain. Individual drill was in order. Villanova, which also has an intersectional opponent in North Carolina State, had a day of complete rest. West Virginia Wesleyan opened a search for three substitutes for regular backs who will be kept on the bench Saturday by Navy's three-year eligibility rule.

Pennsylvania and Cornell set the example for the many teams which are expecting hard games on Thanksgiving Day, but have none before then, by taking a day of rest before beginning hard work. Other rivals which followed this plan included Penn State and Pittsburgh and Columbia and Syracuse.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

IF NOVEMBER 19th is you birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

Conditions on this date favor all social affairs and friendships. New ties will be formed which will prove to be of material benefit in the future. Especial attention should be taken in regard to physical health conditions.

Children born on this date will have a variety of talents, which will seem at times to be in strange contradiction to one another. They will have frank and trusting natures, and will be very socially inclined.

You have an unimpeachable character in many respects and plenty of ability, but you are not willing to each the heights of your ambitions by the usual route. You would like to reach the peaks of success by an airplane—you will not have the patience and energy to climb there step by step. You want others to give you a chance, when all you need to do is to give yourself a chance. You have picked out your targets, but you do not possess the gun of self-preparation with which to aim.

You are cheery, and you have a nonworrying nature—you are perfectly willing to let others worry for you. You have rather a superiority complex, and it is beneath your dignity to take too much interest in life. You are very reticent, and there are few who really know what your secret desires and plans are. You seldom express annoyance or extreme anger, and it is most difficult to pick a fight with you. Your silence is your greatest weapon of self defense Jealousy is the one emotion over which you do not have perfect control, and this trait flares up at most unexpected times. You will probably never fall violently in love with anybody, although there will be many on whom you may wish to lean, or in whom you find congenial companionship.

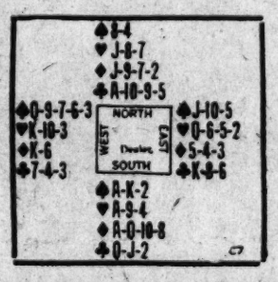
WORK'S BRIDGE

AID FROM ADVERSARIES.



IN THE above hand I was East. We were playing Auction Bridge, and South obtained the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

Had the game been Contract Bridge, South would have bid two No Trumps (he had a count of 20), and North would have bid three.

My partner (West) started by leading the Six of Spades, dummy played the Four, I the Ten, and Declarer won with the King. The Declarer then led the Queen of Clubs, he being in position to finesse Clubs. West played small, dummy the Five and I won with the King. I returned my partner's suit, leading the Jack. Closed hand played the Deuce, my partner overtook my Jack with his Queen knowing that dummy's Eight would fall and that his Nine-Seven would become the second and third best Spades. He could not be sure that I had another Spade, and he wanted the suit continued.

To trick 4, he led his Nine of Spades and South won. South then ran three Club tricks, winning the last in dummy; he next led the Jack of Diamonds from dummy and, when I played small, played the Ten from his closed hand. West won with the King and cashed his two good Spades, so we made a total of three Spades, one Diamond and one Club, saving game.

Why did I feel that we were favored by the Declarer as well as luck?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

Declarer should have seen that playing as he did might cost game; but by giving up the even chance of catching the King of Diamonds, he could practically ensure game. After winning trick 1, he should have led the Ace of Diamonds and followed with another Diamond. When the King won—no matter whether it was held by East or West—the Spades almost certainly would be continued. In that event Declarer would hold up until the third round, thus exhausting East's Spades if the lead had been from a suit of five, and then Declarer could try his Club finesse. If it lost, East would have no more Spades to lead unless a four-card Spade suit had been opened, in which case only one more Spade trick could be cashed; so played in that way Declarer would expect to take at least nine tricks. With the Club finesse winning he would take ten. Played in the way he did, he could have made eleven tricks if both finesses had won, but with both finesses losing he failed to make game.

Locomotives—Old and New.

THE earliest railroad coaches were pulled by horses. Two or four horses galloped along, and pulled one or more coaches over the tracks.

Then steam engines were used to make the wheels of the first car go around. These early "locomotives" were small. The boilers were heated by wood fires. People sometimes sat on seats above the coaches. Then they were bothered by sparks which flew from the burning wood, and little holes might be burned in their clothing.

It may sound amusing to hear of seats on top of the coaches; but just a few years ago, while I was in France, I rode on a train which had seats up above as well as down below. I did not have to dodge sparks, but I was bothered by the smoke and cinders.

In the early days of railroading in the United States there were races on tracks between coaches drawn by horses and coaches drawn by locomotives. Sometimes the horses won the race.

During that period, in South Carolina, a Negro aboard a small locomotive was annoyed by the noise of steam escaping from the safety valve. To stop the noise, he sat on the safety valve and the boiler blew up The poor fellow was killed.

In England at an early date it was the custom for a man on horseback to ride ahead of a locomotive and warn people to get off the tracks. That will give you an idea of the slow rate of the train.

Great speed has been obtained by trains since then. At one time a locomotive in Florida ran at the rate of more than 100 miles an hour over a short stretch of track. Such speed is dangerous, however, and modern trains seldom travel faster than 60 miles an hour.

Among the giant locomotives recently built is one known as the Horatio Allen.

"Parking With Peggy"

"Most wives admit a man should have something to say about the house—providing it's a yes."

Ann Interprets the Mode

Straight-line coat of gray-green woolen fabric, with trimming and gilet of gray fur. (Courtesy of Bruyere, Paris.)

Paris, Nov. 18.

NO HOUSE has used the new jersey-tweeds and matching tweeds and jerseys with happier effect than Jane Regny—as one would expect, for they are a sports wear fabric par excellence. And even Mme. Regny has been forced to bow to the high waist-line and longer skirt—though it must be said that her collection has lost nothing whatever in chic and charm by it.

The waists are usually of sheer jersey, tucked inside. The skirts are circular or pleated, and mounted on every variety of yoke. Most of the skirts have small, simple belts of the fabric or of a soft leather such as doeskin. The blouses usually have a plain shirt collar which buttons.

A number of simple little frocks of tuslikasha, light woolen or crepe de chine are shown, beautifully worked in tucks and nervures. A few charming dinner gowns of chiffon are shown, and these are also intricately tucked and pleated.

Many of the ensembles have furlined tweed coats, cut on straight lines and with straight hems. Some have belts and button. One interesting tweed coat has an inner vest with a high collar, which buttons.

Several velvet afternoon suits are shown, usually with the popular half-length coat. One such model in brown has the coat edged in black fox fur along the hem, front, collar and cuffs. The skirt is straight, and the blouse of peach satin has a turndown collar. Another of black velvet has a slightly circular skirt on a yoke, an absolutely mannish jacquette and a white satin waist.

A charming touch is the showing of gloves, which have knots instead of the usual stitched lines on the back.

It's not only what you would like to give him, but also it's more or less a matter of what you can afford to give him, and decidedly a matter of what would be good taste, regardless of what you can afford.

You see, we took everything into consideration when we made the illustrated leaflet of unusual Christmas gifts for men, which you may have for the mere sending of a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post this week. Don't you think you had better send for it?

• • • •

When is a coat not just a coat? When it is Bruyere, perhaps—if the one I illustrated for you today is a sample.

Not just a coat, but an idea, you see. Of course, it was of grey-green woolen and was very simply made—with just the suspicion of an unusual silhouette—but there was a certain something to the way the fur was handled that gave it its entire chic, n'est-ce pas?

Glove Loveliness.

In novelty gloves you can find soft bows, drapes, flared gauntlets, beading and embroidery—all very discreetly done, of course, and not in the least fussy. Mousquetaires in white or off-white shades are very lovely and ever so chic for afternoon and evening wear. Afternoon glove shades are lighter than those for tailored wear, you see.

The weekly Dare fashion letter, you know, may be found in The Washington Post each Sunday. Really you shouldn't overlook it.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"IF BOYS WERE FRANK."

DEAR Miss McDonald: Tonight I read your column and read "Duke's" complaint that you never wrote anything about petting The girl that he went out with who called him an animal because he asked to kiss her good night, I agree with him, was radical, and in answer to his question whether girls believe all men animals, I answer him, absolutely no! Now as a girl I want to say that there are, however, some men who are animals, but because he wants to kiss her good night, I do not place him in this class. I don't know why a man asks a girl to kiss him when he brings her back from a night of dancing, &c.; sometimes I think that they want to get a 10-cent thrill, I don't know, maybe I am wrong. You see I am a girl and giving my opinion from a girl's point of view. I wish that some man would write in and tell me why. Unless, of course, the couple are intensely interested in each other, why does he ask her for a kiss? Is it for a reward for taking her out? I have often wondered when a man kissed me good night, if he did it to get a kick out of it, or see if I could kiss! That may sound radical, but I once overheard a man tell another that the girl he had out the night before sure was a frost!

I forgot to thank you for your help before. I don't know if you remember it or not, but about two months ago I wrote to you and asked if you thought that I should smoke because the boy that I was engaged to wanted me to. You told me yes, and I thank you for the advice. I have not made smoking a habit, but just as you said enough to satisfy my sweetheart. Thank you again, and after we are married I will write and tell you how I am going to furnish my apartment and of the funny things that I have to do to please him, because you said that I would "be surprised" and I suppose that I will. So later I will be able to smile over my big problem of my cigarettes! But even though I'm engaged, I would like the boys to tell why they ask for kisses, and what they think when we girls give them and also when we refuse! I do not like to ask my fiance. ALLYN.

Allyn, perhaps if the boys would write frankly of their object to asking for a kiss it might help the cause a lot. Certainly it seems sad that any girls should have so low an opinion of man as to call a boy an animal when he asked her for a kiss. Boys are so sensitive that it seems a pity the girls so little understand them.

But Allyn, if the boys did write in they would not be frank about their motives. That is the thing that keeps the two sexes always at war. They can not be frank with each other. Do you suppose for one moment that a boy would write in and say, "I ask for a kiss because it eases some loneliness deep down in my heart when a girl I like lets me kiss her good night?" Can you see a boy writing that? And yet that is the truth. It is as simple as that. And as close to universal beauty as that. But the boy would say, "Well, sir, I kiss 'em and leave 'em, that's me."

So, Allyn, we may long to know what each boy is thinking as he asks for the good night kiss, but they will never tell us. They would rather we called them animals than that we should discover they were just lonesome, conscious of the gap between the days of mother's lavish affection and the day to come of a wife's deep love. Guess girls must go on figuring it out for themselves, Allyn, and do not be too hard on them as we figure.

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SQUEEZING OF A BOIL.

THE pernicious habit of squeezing boils around the face and particularly around the upper lip and nose comes in for some rough handling from Dr. H. J. Jurgens. An apparently insignificant boil on the upper lip has brought about death in a great many instances. Boils on the nose are not so dangerous but they are distinctly in the class of extra hazards.

One reason is that the blood and lymph channels of these areas lead so readily into the inside of the skull that even a trivial infection on a skin surface may cause a fatal deep abscess. Squeezing, and even cutting a small, infected skin boil may push the infection into some stream which flows to the brain.

The first impulse of a man with a boil on his upper lip is to squeeze it. His second impulse is to cut it or have it cut. In the discussion of Dr. Jurgen's paper it was brought out that in the Breslau clinic one-ninth of the cases of upper lip boil died after treating by lancing. In a series of cases where no lancing or cutting was permitted only one-thirty-ninth died. This experience teaches that boils on the upper lip are not to be considered as trivial and that lancing or opening should not be done.

Dr. Jurgens goes a step further. When he has a case of boil on the upper lip he prohibits his patient from eating solid food and from talking. In both chewing and talking muscular contraction may force the infection into the underlying structures.

Dr. Thomas Hartzell has an explanation of the focal infections caused by pyorrhea and apical abscesses of the teeth, which is akin to Dr. Jurgen's reasoning. In chewing the teeth are driven against the bones of the tooth socket. Any infection around the root of a tooth is pumped or forced into the lymph and blood channels and carried to nerves, joints and other parts. Tooth root infections are important because of the mechanical force which drives the bacteria and its toxins into absorbing tissues.

MAY BE AN INFECTION.

Mrs. N. writes:

1. Is it possible for a child 13 years old through sickness to be without kidneys?

2. What causes him to get a swollen gland in his neck now and then?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Some infection of the gland. The infection sometimes enters through the tonsils. It may enter elsewhere.

STONE IN THE KIDNEY.

E. L. writes: Is stone in the kidney dangerous? My first attack, six years ago, was so severe it brought on pneumonia. Is this liable to happen again?

My next and last attack occurred a month ago and lasted about four hours, and was not as severe as the first. Today I noticed considerable blood in the urine.

Would you write a few words on this subject? I am nearing 70 years of age and am in perfect health.

REPLY.

There is some danger, though probably less than you think. The danger is that your kidneys may stop work or they may be badly damaged. There is also danger of developing a drug habit.

To prevent attacks, drink no alcoholic beverages, live on a simple diet preferably one that produces an alkali ash, drink abundantly of very pure water, preferably distilled.

Analysis of a stone or repeated analysis of the urine may point the way to the diet for you.

To relieve an attack, sit in a tub of warm water and take such sedatives as your physician directs.

FORMER POLICEMAN DIES FROM GUNSHOT

Alleged Killer of Alexandria Man Is Sought on Count of Murder, Report.

ROLL CALL SUCCESSFUL

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
212 E. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Raymond A. Grover, former Alexandria policeman, who was shot in the abdomen the night of November 11 while at his home in Fairfax County, a short distance south of this city, died yesterday in the Alexandria Hospital. According to Dr. M. D. Delaney, the attending physician, a blood clot developed on the left leg, which caused death. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, will hold an inquest at 2 o'clock this afternoon at police headquarters.

Grover, according to reports made to the police, was shot with a .22-caliber rifle by Michael Caetto, a shoemaker, who conducts a shop at 716 King street. Immediately after the shooting, Caetto fled the scene, and the Fairfax County authorities have so far been unable to locate him. The Fairfax County officers, it is understood, have now issued a warrant charging him with murder.

Caetto, who is 38 years old, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Elsie Caetto, are understood to have gone to Grover's home last Monday. The three went for a drive in Caetto's automobile and later in the afternoon had dinner together. After 11 o'clock Monday night Caetto and his wife started to leave and Grover accompanied them to the point on the road where Caetto's car was parked. Mrs. Caetto is understood to have told the police that an altercation ensued between the two men, and that her husband procured the rifle from his car and shot Grover.

Grover was a steel worker and formerly lived at 916 Gibbon street. He was a veteran of the World War, and was stationed at Camp Lee when the armistice was signed. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Hattie Scott, Miss Helen G. Grover and Miss Dorthy Grover, and three brothers, Cecil, Ernest and Charles Grover. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The feature of the Rotary Club luncheon today at the George Mason Hotel will be an address by Harry C. White, internationally known author, philosopher and scientist, his appearance being in connection with the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent electric lamp. White will offer a vivid portrayal of Edison's early struggles, and will illustrate what the invention which is now being celebrated means to the public. Among the equipment which he will display is a monster lamp of 50,000 watts, 125,000 candlepower, and an instrument used in surgery which employs a lamp no larger than a grain of wheat.

Miss Alice H. Whitton, chairman of the public relations committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club, who is in charge of the annual Red Cross Roll Call, states the first week of the campaign closed with an encouraging response on the part of the public, many of the business houses having enrolled to capacity.

Miss Whitton's committee personnel is Mrs. Rathbone Smith, Mrs. Robert S. Reynolds, Mrs. Georgia L. Cunningham, Miss Bertha Bristow and Miss Susan Fawcett. Additional members for the roll call are Mrs. Helen V. Reed, Miss Bertha Allison, Miss Eleanor Watkins, Mrs. H. Noel Garner, Miss Adelyn Apperson, Miss Esther Bethley, Miss Irma Coleman, Mrs. Harry B. Caton, Miss Evangeline Gardemar, Miss Gladys Clarke and Mrs. Otis M. Bullings.

Miss Susan Fawcett is in charge of the canvas within the membership of the club, and her team captains are Miss Minnie Brock, Miss Emily May, Miss Oreon Bruce, Miss Eleanor Nugent, Miss Elizabeth Ramey, Miss Irma Wolf, Miss Florence A. Long, Mrs. Robert S. Reynolds, and Mrs. Elizabeth Keegan.

The funeral of Mrs. Louise Fletcher King, wife of Marshall L. King, who died Friday night at the Alexandria Hospital, was held yesterday from the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. King, 502 North Washington street, conducted by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. Burial was in the Presbyterian Cemetery. Pallbearers were former Representative Charles C. Carlin, Judge William H. Wools, E. E. Lawler, Carroll Pierce and Dr. P. B. Pullman, of this city, and Judge Parke Deans, of Richmond.

City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan has mailed 12,000 bills for State taxes. After December 5 a penalty of 5 per cent will be added as required by law.

Funeral services for Piercy Milton Carter, 13 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Carter, of 609 Princess street, who died Saturday at the home of his parents, will be conducted at 1:30 o'clock tomorow afternoon from the Baptist Temple by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor. Interment will be in Bethel Cemetery.

Herndon Fire Does Damage of $15,000

Fairfax and Falls Church Departments Called as Machine Shop Burns.

Fire of unknown origin destroyed the machine shop, garage and trucks of the W. S. Hoge Grain & Feed Co., at Herndon, Va., at an early hour last night, with estimated damage at $15,000.

Nothing smoke pouring from the windows of the garage, C. E. Wilson, who was passing the plant at the time, investigated. The Herndon department soon was on the ground and had a stream of water on the flames from the 50,000-gallon tank less than 100 feet away.

As alarm grew over the headway this fire was making a second alarm was sounded, bringing Fairfax and Falls Church departments to the scene, but before their arrival the Herndon men had the fire under control. Running out a line of hose, the two other departments aided in saving the main building of the plant.

The loss was said to be covered by insurance. This is the second fire at the plant within the last year, it was said.

Shenandoah Roads Blocked by Rains

Valley Streams Sent Out of Their Banks by Two-Inch Fall.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisburg, W. Va., Nov. 18.—A two-inch rainfall over the week-end sent small streams out of their banks, caused rivers to rise, and blocked country roads in the Shenandoah Valley. One and a half inches of precipitation were registered Sunday night and Monday morning.

All lowlands were covered with water this morning, but no damage was reported, save the blocking of rural highways.

The rain sent the temperature down to 40 degrees this morning and 49 degrees at sunset. Last week summer temperatures prevailed throughout the valley. There was a touch of hail and sleet in the rain last night, also some lightning.

FREDERICK IS HOST TO SHRINER GROUPS

800 Nobles Attend Meeting Featured by Pageant at State Armory.

NINE TEMPLES PARADE

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 18.—About 800 members of the Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine from Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware and the District of Columbia made a pilgrimage to Frederick today under the auspices of Alighan Temple, Cumberland. The visitors arrived by automobile and on trains and attended events including a "feat of the faithful" in the State Armory, a parade, business meeting and initiation at the opera house.

It was the first ceremony of its type here in nine years. Alighan Temple is the youngest in the United States. No large pilgrimage of Shriners has been made to Frederick since that of Boumi Temple, Baltimore, nine years ago. The Divan Drum Corps, from Almas Temple, Washington, and the three units of Alighan Temple, band, patrol and chanters and representatives of other temples were in line.

The local reception committee was Bryon A. Winebrenner, Charles A. Opel, jr., Albert M. Cobientz, Albert Bryce, Irving M. Landauer and Paul Michael. Roy A. Leiter, Hagerstown, is potentate, and William P. Rizer, Cumberland, recorder.

The temples represented included Radmore, Akron, Ohio; Lembo, Harrisburg; Crescent, Trenton; Acca, Richmond; Oasis, Wheeling; Alma, Washington; Boumi, Baltimore; Kazim, Roanoke, and Lulu, Philadelphia.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA, fond of making desserts, served an old one in new guise.

"What do you call this?" I asked, sampling her wares, and very good, too.

"That," she said, "is a Senate Split."

"My! My! Aren't you politico-minded," I remarked.

Luella reflected. "Yes," she mused. "I'm beginning to think that now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of the party."

"What party?" I asked, fearing she might become associated with one of the major organizations and thereby disturb the peace and equanimity of her residence in the District of Columbia.

"What party needs aid?" she asked.

"Who doesn't?" I rejoined.

* * * *

"IF you've been reading the papers," she parried, "you'd know there is a terrific battle on between the Old Guard and the New——"

"You mean the Young Guard."

"Whatever I mean," she said, "there is war now being waged in the United States Senate, and I've named this dessert after the event—a Senate Split."

"Really, Luella, you sometimes startle me, the way you're abreast of the times. Now the Old Guard, as I understand it, dies but never surrenders——"

She fastened an eye on me. "And the Young Guard," she flashed, "never dies! Youth, you know——"

"Yes," I recalled, "youth must have its fling. But, I fear me, Luella, you are a bit partisan. Don't you think——"

"I am bipartisan," she rebuked. "You can see that by the way I've named this dessert. I call it, as you may remember——"

"Yes, I remember—the Senate Split."

"Well, what's partisan about that?"

"The name in itself shows division, a split, two sides and your dessert——"

"Are you criticizing my dessert?"

"On the contrary, I compliment you. I kiss your hand, madame. The Senate split is—well, if I may use the term—it is positively intriguing——"

* * * *

SHE looked hurt. "I don't like the way you say that," she complained. "You're making fun of me. Intriguing. That has something to do with politics, hasn't it? Intriguing?"

For a moment I had difficulty pacifying her. "Why, Luella, I'm surprised. You don't think there's anything intriguing in politics, do you? So clean, so open and above board, so wholesome a sport——"

"Politics a sport?" she gasped.

"What else could you call it?" I countered. "It's a contest isn't it?—and a contest is a game, and you've heard of the great game of politics."

* * * *

OF COURSE she had, but it hadn't dawned upon her how this hit home, coming in the form of a dessert.

"What are you going to do about it?" I asked, seeing that her feelings were really wounded.

"Whattum I gon-a do?" she sighed. "I'm gon-a change the name of that dessert, that's what!"

And sure enough, then and there, Luella called it by its first name—Brown Betty.

FORMER WOOL FIRM HEAD ON TRIAL AGAIN

15 Tentative Jurors Chosen in Embezzlement Case at Winchester.

NEW VENIRE IS ORDERED

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 18.—Arthur G. Jones, former president and general manager of the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mills Corporation, already convicted and given a year in the penitentiary on charges of embezzling corporation funds, went on trial again today in corporation court on another indictment, charging embezzlement. Seven other indictments of a similar character stand against him.

A venire of 50 was exhausted with fifteen tentative jurors in the box, and court adjourned for the day after ordering another panel of 50 drawn, to be in court tomorrow morning. A rule was issued against Theodore F. Jackmier for failing to obey a court summons for jury service.

Jones assisted his counsel in objecting to jurors. Most of the 35 rejected said they had formed "decided opinions" either by reading newspaper accounts of Jones' first trial, or by discussing it with others, and could not likely be changed.

The indictment on which Jones is being tried, returned by a special grand jury after his first trial a month ago, charges larceny of funds aggregating $12,000, consisting of alleged unauthorized commissions on sales split with Kroll, former vice president, treasurer and selling agent, now booked as a fugitive; raising his own salary without authority, and claims that he paid transportation expenses, freight and house rent for Fairmont, W. Va., people coming here to work, which the latter denied in testimony.
